PRESIDENT CALLS FOR IMMEDIATE WAR ON AUSTRIA; CONGRESS WOULD INCLUDE BULGARIA AND TURKEY; OUR WATCHWORDS ARE: JUSTICE, REPARATION, SECURITY

WILSON FOR VICTORY FIRST

PACIFISTS TOUCH NO HEART

"May Be Left to Strut Their Uneasy Hour and Be Forgotten," Says President.

FIGHTING TO FREE GERMANY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—With dramatic suddenness, yet with no apparent effort at dramatic effect, President Wilson, addressing in person the Senate and the House of Representatives assembled in joint session today, recommended that "the Congress immediately declare the United States in a state of war with Austro-Hungary."

The legislators and the great crowd of spectators who filled floor and galleries were unprepared for the call for a declaration of war. On the contrary, some preceding parts of the President's address had tended to create the impression that the Vienna Government, although allied with Germany, was entitled to special consideration, to charitable treatment, in the realization that it was a mere tool of the military autocracy at Berlin. Then came the call for action against the Dual Monarchy.

The effect was electrical. Not for a moment was the President left in doubt as to the temper of Congress regarding this recommendation. A thrill went through that audience of men and women who had listened with increasing interest to every word that had come with clear-cut distinctness from the lips of the man, who, more than any other, controls the destinies of the nation at this critical time.

War Call Unexpected.

The assemblage had risen before to heights of patriotic enthusiasm over appealing passages of the President's address. But only a minute prior to the stirring declaration his auditors had heard expressions which brought the too ready interpretation that the hour was not at hand when the United States should undertake to deal in a hostile military way with Germany's chief partner in the war. He had named Austria specifically, along with Serbia and Poland, in mentioning the countries he had in mind when, last January, before America entered the great European conflict, he had declared that the nations of the world "were entitled not only to free pathways upon the sea but also to assured and unmolested access to those pathways."

The disappointment of those—and they were many—who had looked for a stirring denunciation of Austro-Hungarian intrigue and international criminality was short-lived. The temporary elation of the few pacifists who were there dropped like a dead weight in a vacuum.

Prior to the remarkable demonstration of patriotic fervor that followed the President's declaration, his auditors had had ample opportunity to find an outlet for their feelings, for the address was filled with statements that appealed in full measure to love of country and determination to see the sanguinary struggle on the battlefields of Europe to a finish.

An important feature of the address was the reiteration and amplification of the war aims of America: Belgium and Northern France must be delivered from Prussian conquest and Prussian menace, but the peoples of Austria-Hungary, the Balkans and Turkey, "alike in Europe and in Asia," must be freed also from Prussian domination; "we do not wish in any way to impair or rearrange the Austro-Hungarian Empire"; "our attitude and purpose with regard to Germany herself are of a like kind"; "we intend no wrong against the German Empire, no interference with her internal affairs."

Assailed Germans' Masters.

If the German people continued after the war to accept the Government of their present masters, the President said, "it might be impossible to admit them to the partnership of nations which must henceforth guarantee the world's peace," and "it might be impossible also to admit Germany to the free economic intercourse which must inevitably spring out of the other partnerships of a real peace"; "the wrongs, the very deep wrongs, committed in this war will have to be righted."

If the Marquis of Lansdowne can find comfort in the analogy between his own statement of war aims and those of President Wilson, he will be disappointed in the President's attitude toward the other proposal of the British statesman—that a reiteration of war aims shall be used as a basis for peace negotiations. President Wilson is not in sympathy with this program. He left no doubt on that score in his address when he declared that "the German power must be crushed," and empha-

The President's Address to Congress

Gentlemen of the Congress:

Eight months have elapsed since I last had the honor of addressing you. They have been months crowded with events of immense and grave significance for us. I shall not undertake to detail or even to summarize these events. The practical particulars of the part we have played in them will be laid before you in the reports of the executive departments. I shall discuss only our present outlook upon these vast affairs, our present duties and the immediate means of accomplishing the objects we shall hold always in view.

I shall not go back to debate the causes of the war. The intolerable wrongs done and planned against us by the sinister masters of Germany have long since become too grossly obvious and odious to every true American to need to be rehearsed. But I shall ask you to consider again and with very grave scrutiny our objectives and the measures by which we mean to attain them; for the purpose of discussion here in this place is action and our action must move straight toward definite ends. Our object is, of course, to win the war, and we shall not slacken or suffer ourselves to be diverted until it is won. But it is worth while asking and answering the question, When shall we consider the war won?

From one point of view it is not necessary to broach this fundamental matter. I do not doubt that the American people know what the war is about and what sort of an outcome they will regard as a realization of their purpose in it. As a nation we are united in spirit and intention.

I pay little heed to those who tell me otherwise. I hear the voices of dissent—who does not? I hear the criticism and the clamor of the noisily thoughtless and troublesome. I also see men here and there fling themselves in impotent disloyalty against the calm, indomitable power of the nation. I hear men debate peace who understand neither its nature nor the way in which we may attain it, with uplifted eyes and unbroken spirits. But I know that none of these speaks for the nation. They do not touch the heart of anything. They may safely be left to strut about their uneasy hour and be forgotten.

What the War Is For.

But from another point of view I believe that it is necessary to say plainly what we here at the seat of action consider the war to be for and what part we mean to play in the settlement of its searching issues. We are the spokesmen of the American people and they have a right to know whether their purpose is ours. They desire peace by the overcoming of evil, but the defeat once and for all of the sinister forces that interrupt peace and render it impossible, and they wish to know how closely our thought runs with theirs and what action we propose. They are impatient with those who desire peace by any sort of compromise—deeply and indignantly impatient—but they will be equally impatient with us if we do not make it plain to them what our objectives are and what we are planning for in seeking to make conquest of peace by arms.

I believe that I speak for them when I say two things: First, that this intolerable Thing of which the masters of Germany have shown us the ugly face, this menace of combined intrigue and force, which we now see so clearly as the German power, a Thing without conscience or honor or capacity for covenated peace, must be crushed, and if it be not utterly brought to an end, at least shut out from the friendly intercourse of the nations; and, second, that when this Thing and its power are indeed defeated and the time comes that we can discuss peace—when the German people have spokesmen whose word we can believe, and when those spokesmen are ready in the name of their people to accept the common judgment of the nations as to what shall henceforth be the bases of law and of covenant for the life of the world—we shall be willing and glad to pay the full price for peace and pay it ungrudgingly. We know what that price will be. It will be full, impartial justice—justice done at every point and to every nation that the final settlement must affect, our enemies as well as our friends.

You catch, with me, the voices of humanity that are in the air. They grow daily more audible, more articulate, more persuasive, and they come from the hearts of men everywhere. They insist that the war shall not end in vindictive action of any kind; that no nation or people shall be robbed or punished because the irresponsible rulers of a single country have themselves done deep and abominable wrong. It is this thought that has been expressed in the formula, "No annexations, no contributions, no punitive indemnities."

Led People of Russia Astray.

Just because this crude formula expresses the instinctive judgment as to the right of plain men everywhere it has been made diligent use of by the masters of German intrigue to lead the people of Russia astray, and the people of every other country their agents could reach, in order that a premature peace might be brought about before autocracy has been taught its final and convincing lesson and the people of the world put in control of their own destinies.

But the fact that a wrong use has been made of a just idea is no reason why a right use should not be made of it. It ought to be brought under the patronage of its real friends. Let it be said again that autocracy must first be shown the utter futility of its claims to power or leadership in the modern world. It is impossible to apply any standard of justice so long as such forces are unchecked and undefeated as the present masters of Germany command. Not until that has been done can right be set up as arbiter and peacemaker among the nations. But when that has been done—as, God willing, it assuredly will be—we shall at last be free to do an unprecedented thing, and this is the time to avow our purpose to do it. We shall be free to base peace on generosity and justice, to the exclusion of all selfish claims to advantage even on the part of the victors.

Let there be no misunderstanding. Our present and immediate task is to win the war, and nothing shall turn us aside from it until it is accomplished. Every power and resource we possess, whether of men, of money, or of materials, is being devoted and will continue to be devoted to that purpose until it is achieved. Those who desire to bring peace about before that purpose is achieved, I counsel to carry their advice elsewhere. We will not entertain it.

Justice and Reparation.

We shall regard the war only as won when the German people say to us, through properly accredited representatives, that they are ready to agree to a settlement based upon justice and the reparation of the wrongs their rulers have done. They have done a wrong to Belgium, which must be repaired. They have established a power over other lands and peoples than their own—over the great empire of Austria-Hungary, over hitherto free Balkan States, over Turkey, and within Asia—which must be relinquished.

Germany's success by skill, by industry, by knowledge, by enterprise we did not grudge or oppose, but admired rather. She had built up for herself a real empire of trade and influence, secured by the peace of the world. We were content to abide the rivalries of manufacture, science, and commerce that were involved for us in her success and stand or fall as we had or did not have the brains and the initiative to surpass her. But at the moment when she had conspicuously won her triumphs of peace she threw them away to establish in their stead what the world will no longer permit to be established, military and political domination by arms, by which to oust where she could not excell the rivals she most feared and hated.

The peace we make must remedy that wrong. It must deliver the once fair lands and happy peoples of Belgium and northern France from the Prussian conquest and the Prussian menace, but it must also deliver the peoples of Austria-Hungary, the peoples of the Balkans, and the peoples of Turkey, alike in Europe and in Asia, from the impudent and alien domination of the Prussian military and commercial autocracy.

We owe it, however, to ourselves to say that we do not wish in any way to impair or to rearrange the Austro-Hungarian empire. It is no affair of ours what they do with their own life, either industrially or politically. We do not purpose nor desire to dictate to them in any way. We only desire to see that their affairs are left in their own hands, in all matters, great or small. We shall hope to secure for the peoples of the Balkan peninsula and for the people of the Turkish empire the right and opportunity to make their own lives safe, their own fortunes secure against oppression or injustice and from the dictation of foreign courts or parties, and our attitude and purpose with regard to Germany herself are of a like kind.

Our Attitude Toward Germany.

We intend no wrong against the German empire, no interference with her internal affairs. We should deem either the one or the other absolutely unjustifiable, absolutely contrary to the principles we have professed to live by and to hold most sacred throughout our life as a nation.

The people of Germany are being told by the men whom they now permit to deceive them and to act as their masters that they are fighting for the very life and existence of their empire, a war of desperate self-defense against deliberate aggression. Nothing could be more grossly or wantonly false, and we must seek by the utmost openness and candor as to our real aims to convince them of its falseness. We are in fact fighting for their emancipation from fear, along with our own, from the fear as well as from the fact of unjust attack by neighbors or rivals or schemers after world empire. No one is threatening the existence or the independence or the peaceful enterprise of the German empire.

The worst that can happen to the detriment of the German people is this, that if they should still, after the war is over, continue to be obliged to live under ambitious and intriguing masters interested to disturb the peace of the world, men or classes of men whom the other peoples of the world could not trust, it might be impossible to admit them to the partnership of nations which must henceforth guarantee the world's peace. That partnership must be a partnership of peoples, not a mere partnership of governments.

It might be impossible, also, in such untoward circumstances, to admit Germany to the free economic intercourse which must inevitably spring out of the other partnerships of a real peace. But there would be no aggression in that; and such a situation, inevitable because of distrust, would in the very nature of things sooner or later cure itself, by processes which would assuredly set in.

Rights of Central Powers.

The wrongs, the very deep wrongs, committed in this war will have to be righted. That of course. But they cannot and must not be righted by the commission of similar wrongs against Germany and her allies. The world will not permit the commission of similar wrongs as a means of reparation and settlement. Statesmen must by this time have learned that the opinion of the world is everywhere wide awake and fully comprehends the issues involved. No representative of any self-governed nation will dare disregard it by attempting any such covenants of selfishness and compromise as were entered into at the congress of Vienna. The thought of the plain people here and everywhere throughout the world, the people who enjoy no privilege and have very simple and unsophisticated standards of right and wrong, is the air all governments must henceforth breathe if they would live. It is in the full disclosing light of that thought that all policies must be conceived and executed in this midday hour of the world's life.

German rulers have been able to upset the peace of the world only because the German people were not suffered under their tutelage to share the comradeship of the other peoples of the world either in thought or in purpose. They were allowed to have no opinion of their own which might be set up as a rule of conduct for those who exercised authority over them. But the congress that concludes this war will feel the full strength of the tides that run now in the hearts and consciences of free men everywhere. Its conclusions will run with those tides.

All these things have been true from the very beginning of this stupendous war; and I cannot help thinking that if they had been made plain at the very outset the sympathy and enthusiasm of the Russian people might have been once for all enlisted on the side of the Allies, suspicion and distrust swept away, and a real and lasting union of purpose effected. Had they believed these things at the very moment of their revolution and had they been confirmed in that belief since, the sad reverses which have recently marked the progress of their affairs toward an ordered and stable government of free men might have been avoided.

Truth as the Antidote.

The Russian people have been poisoned by the very same falsehoods that have kept the German people in the dark, and the poison has been administered by the very same hands. The only possible antidote is the truth. It cannot be uttered too plainly or too often.

From every point of view, therefore, it has seemed to be my duty to speak these declarations of purpose, to add these specific interpretations to what I took the liberty of saying to the Senate in January. Our entrance into the war has not altered our attitude toward the settlement that must come when it is over. When I said in January that the nations of the world were entitled not only to free pathways upon the sea but also to assured and unmolested access to those pathways I was thinking, and I am thinking now, not of the smaller and weaker nations alone, which need our countenance and support, but also of the great and powerful nations, and of our present enemies as well as our present associates in the war. I was thinking, and am thinking now, of Austria herself, among the rest, as well as of Serbia and of Poland. Justice and equality of rights can be had only at a great price. We are seeking permanent, not temporary, foundations for the peace of the world, and must seek them candidly and fearlessly. As always, the right will prove to be the expedient.

What shall we do, then, to push this great war of freedom and justice to its righteous conclusion? We must clear away with a thorough hand all impediments to success, and we must make every adjustment of law that will facilitate the full and free use of our whole capacity and force as a fighting unit.

War Against Austria.

One very embarrassing obstacle that stands in our way is that we are at war with Germany, but not with her allies. I therefore very earnestly recommend that the Congress immediately declare the United States in a state of war with Austria-Hungary. Does it seem strange to you that this should be the conclusion of the argument I have just addressed to you? It is not. It is in fact the inevitable logic of what I have said. Austria-Hungary is for the time being not her own mistress, but simply the vassal of the German Government. We must face the facts as they are and act upon them without sentiment in this stern business.

The Government of Austria-Hungary is not acting upon its own initiative or in response to the wishes and feelings of its own peoples, but as the instrument of another nation. We must meet its force with our own and regard the Central Powers as but one. The war can be successfully conducted in no other way. The same logic would lead also to a declaration of war against Turkey and Bulgaria. They also are the tools of Germany. But they are mere tools and do not yet stand in the direct path of our necessary action. We shall go wherever the necessities of this war carry us, but it seems to me that we should go only where immediate and practical considerations lead us and not heed any others.

Stricter Grip on Enemy Aliens.

The financial and military measures which must be adopted will suggest themselves as the war and its undertakings develop, but I will take the liberty of proposing to you certain other acts of legislation which seem to me to be needed for the support of the war and for the release of our whole force and energy.

It will be necessary to extend in certain particulars the legislation of the last session with regard to alien enemies; and also necessary, I believe, to create a very definite and particular control over the entrance and departure of all persons into and from the United States.

Legislation should be enacted defining as a criminal offense every willful violation of the Presidential proclamations relating to enemy aliens promulgated under Section 4,067 of the Revised Statutes and providing appropriate punishment; and women as well as men should be included under the terms of the acts placing restraints upon alien enemies. It is likely that as time goes on many alien enemies will be willing to be fed and housed at the expense of the Government in the detention camps, and it would be the purpose of the legislation I have suggested to confine offenders among them in penitentiaries and other similar institutions where they could be made to work as other criminals do.

Further Limiting of Prices.

Recent experience has convinced me that the Congress must go further in authorizing the Government to set limits to prices. The law of supply and demand, I am sorry to say, has been replaced by the law of unrestrained selfishness. While we have eliminated profiteering in several branches of industry it still runs impudently rampant in others. The farmers, for example, complain with a great deal of justice that, while the regulation of food prices restricts their incomes, no restraints are placed upon the prices of most of the things they must themselves purchase; and similar inequities obtain on all sides.

It is imperatively necessary that the consideration of the full use of the water power of the country and also the consideration of the systematic and yet economical development of such of the natural resources of the country as are still under the control of the Federal Government should be resumed and affirmatively and constructively dealt with at the earliest possible moment. The pressing need of such legislation is daily becoming more obvious.

The Legislation proposed at the last session with regard to regulated combinations among our exporters, in order to provide for our foreign trade a more effective organization and method of co-operation, ought by all means to be completed at this session.

And I beg that the members of the House of Representatives will permit me to express the opinion that it will be impossible to deal in any way but a very wasteful and extravagant fashion with the enormous appropriations of the public moneys which must continue to be made, if the war is to be properly sustained, unless the House will consent to return to its former practice of initiating and preparing all appropriation bills through a single committee, in order that responsibility may be centred, expenditures standardized and made uniform, and waste and duplication as much as possible avoided.

Additional legislation may also become necessary before the present Congress adjourns in order to effect the most efficient co-ordination and operation of the railway and other transportation systems of the country; but to that I shall, if circumstances should demand, call the attention of Congress upon another occasion.

Task of Winning Foremost.

If I have overlooked anything that ought to be done for the more effective conduct of the war, your own counsels will supply the omission. What I am perfectly clear about is that in the present session of the Congress our whole attention and energy should be concentrated on the vigorous and rapid and successful prosecution of the great task of winning the war.

We can do this with all the greater zeal and enthusiasm because we know that for us this is a war of high principle, debased by no selfish ambition of conquest or spoliation; because we know, and all the world knows, that we have been forced into it to save the very institutions we live under from corruption and destruction. The purposes of the Central Powers strike straight at the very heart of everything we believe in; their methods of warfare outrage every principle of humanity and of knightly honor; their intrigue has corrupted the very thought and spirit of many of our people; their sinister and secret diplomacy has sought to take our very territory away from us and disrupt the union of the States. Our safety would be at an end, our honor forever sullied and brought into contempt were we to permit their triumph. They are striking at the very existence of democracy and liberty.

It is because it is for us a war of high, disinterested purpose, in which all the free people of the world are banded together for the vindication of right, a war for the preservation of our nation and of all that it has held dear of principle and of purpose, that we feel ourselves doubly constrained to propose for its outcome only that which is righteous and of irreproachable intention, for our foes as well as for our friends.

The cause being just and holy, the settlement must be of like motive and quality. For this we can fight, but for nothing less noble or less worthy of our traditions. For this cause we entered the war and for this cause will we battle until the last gun is fired.

I have spoken plainly because this seems to me the time when it is most necessary to speak plainly, in order that all the world may know that even in the heat and ardor of the struggle and when our whole thought is of carrying the war through to its end we have not forgotten any ideal or principle for which the name of America has been held in honor among the nations and for which it has been our glory to contend in the great generations that went before us. A supreme moment of history has come. The eyes of the people have been opened and they see. The hand of God is laid upon the nations. He will show them favor, I devoutly believe, only if they rise to the clear heights of His own justice and mercy.

WAR DECLARATION READY

Resolution Aligning Austria as Foe Likely to Pass This Week.

MANY WOULD GO FURTHER

MESSAGE HIGHLY PRAISED

But Disappointment Keen at Failure to Urge War on All of Germany's Vassals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Immediate action by Congress is to follow President Wilson's demand today for a declaration of war against Austria-Hungary. In both houses the sentiment is unwavering for such a declaration, and it is likely that the country will be arrayed as an enemy of Austria-Hungary by the end of this week.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee will tomorrow draft a resolution, which is likely to be offered before the day is over, declaring war on Austria-Hungary. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will not meet until Thursday—the Senate having adjourned today until Friday—when a similar resolution will be prepared.

Representative Flood, Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, has called his committee to meet at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. He is prepared to report a resolution declaring war against Austria-Hungary. There is no opposition to such a course, but action may be delayed by reason of a strong demand to include Turkey and Bulgaria in such a declaration. Indications are that the latter course will be pursued unless the President furnishes the committee with a compelling reason against the inclusion of Turkey and Bulgaria.

As to Austria-Hungary, nothing remains to be done but make the formal declaration, for only scant opposition is expected to spring up. Senators and Representatives who voted against the declaration of war against Germany were not talking today against the President's pronouncement for throwing down the gage of battle to Austria. An almost complete unanimity of sentiment prevailed as to the logic of putting Austria-Hungary in the enemy alignment.

Omission of Turkey and Bulgaria.

The talk at the Capitol after the President's message bore more upon the Executive's advice against a pronouncement against Turkey and Bulgaria than upon the demand for hostilities against Austria-Hungary. Leaders in both houses, Democrats and Republicans alike, expressed not only frank surprise, but regret that the President had not included Turkey and Bulgaria. They felt that Turkey, as one of the arch allies of Germany, ought to be embraced in any declaration of war, and that no obvious reason existed for leaving out Bulgaria.

Members of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and the House Committee on Foreign Affairs unhesitatingly expressed the belief that resolutions putting Turkey and Bulgaria along with Austria-Hungary as enemies of the United States would be offered in both houses and passed. For the United States to declare war against Austria-Hungary and not against Turkey, it was suggested by some, smacked of inconsistency. No disposition was manifest to quarrel with the President in having left Turkey and Bulgaria out of it. The opinion was ventured that the President must have had a sufficient reason for naming Austria-Hungary alone, depending, perhaps, upon Congress to take the initiative with the two other countries.

Senator Stone, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, said that the committee would draft its resolution against Austria-Hungary on Thursday, and that it would be offered to the Senate the following day.

"All along, since the declaration of war against Germany, I have favored putting Austria-Hungary, Turkey, and Bulgaria in the list of America's enemies," said Senator Stone. "Congress will act quickly in declaring war on Austria-Hungary. I hope similar action will just as speedily be taken against Turkey and Bulgaria. If it develops that there is a diplomatic reason why we should not at this time include Turkey and Bulgaria, Congress naturally will withhold action. Such intimation would come, if there were occasion for it, from the White House. I believe I am safe in saying that, unless Congress hears that it would be unwise to act now, declarations will at once be made against Turkey and Bulgaria."

Senator Lodge, another of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he could not understand why the President did not ask for a declaration against Turkey and Bulgaria along with Austria-Hungary.

"I have always favored declaring war against all of Germany's allies," said Senator Lodge. "It seems to me

Assembly May Curb Bolshevist Power But Russia Cannot Continue War

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Monday, Dec. 3.—Armistice negotiations began last night and will probably continue for several days. We are now faced with an exceedingly complicated situation which needs some unraveling.

First of all there is the internal political position. The Bolshevist movement is by no means simple. It is a curious jumble of conflicting elements ranging from the purest idealism to German intrigue and reactionary monarchism. These elements are temporarily agreed in a peace policy, and derive their authority from the strong pacifist tendencies of the soldiers and Socialists and the pacifist mood of the workmen.

The success or failure of the Bolsheviki depends on fulfillment or non-fulfillment of their promises. They have to deal not only with the fickleness of the mob that now supports them, but with the determined opposition of nearly all the intelligent section of the population and of whole territories, as Ukraine and the Cossack regions and Siberia.

The regular political and social machinery which is interfered with by the Bolsheviki is to a certain extent spoiled by them, but it persists in operating in spite of them. As regards the fickleness of the mob, those reactionaries who now work with the Bolsheviki are preparing to take advantage of a swing round of the popular mood when it does come. Internal rivalries, friction between incongruous and loosely co-ordinated factions, and personal jealousies must also be taken into account in estimating the stability of the Bolshevist power.

Another factor is daily increasing in importance. The elections to the Con-

Dukhonin Slain for Korniloff's Escape When Bolsheviki Take Headquarters

PETROGRAD, Dec. 4.—An official statement was issued today signed by Ensign Krylenko, the Bolshevist Commander in Chief, announcing the killing by infuriated members of the Bolsheviki of General Dukhonin, former Commander in Chief of the Russian Armies, who recently was deposed because of his refusal to request German army officials to enter into an armistice with the Bolsheviki.

General Dukhonin was killed by being thrown from a train after the Bolshevist forces had captured headquarters at Mohilev, where he had remained after his deposition. General Korniloff, also a former Russian Commander in Chief, and who some time ago started an unsuccessful revolt against the Kerensky Government, fled from Mohilev before the arrival of the Bolshevist forces.

Today I entered into Mohilev at the head of the revolutionary troops. The headquarters was entirely surrounded without fighting. The last obstacle to the cause of peace was fallen.

I cannot be silent on the sad act of lynch law practiced upon the former highest commander in chief, General Dukhonin. Popular hatred surpassed the limits of reason, and in spite of all attempts to save him he was thrown out of a railroad train at the Mohilev Station and killed. The flight of General Korniloff the day before the fall of headquarters was the cause of this excess.

I cannot allow the banner of the revolution to be stained, and it is necessary strongly to condemn such acts. A revolutionary people are fearful in a struggle, but they must be soft after victory.

An unofficial account says that General Dukhonin was dragged from a train in which it was intended to send him to Petrograd, and beaten to death.

A battle between detachments from the Petrograd garrison, commanded by Ensign Krylenko, and Cossacks is reported to be impending at Vitebsk. According to a telegram from Krylenko's Adjutant, the Cossacks have gathered on the flanks and in the rear of Krylenko's forces.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—A cable from Rome today said the Russian Embassy in the Quirinal and the Russian Legation at the Vatican had given notice of their refusal to recognize the Lenine Government in Russia. They have stopped correspondence with the Lenine Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Allies to Create Joint Naval Board; Framing Army Plan in Full Accord

Paris Council, It Is Announced, Concluded Agreements "Upon the Basis of a Complete Understanding and Close Solidarity" Regarding Economics, Finance, and Fighting Program.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—The Foreign Office officially announced today that at the recent Interallied Conference, in which the United States participated, agreements were concluded "upon the basis of a complete understanding and close solidarity among the Allies for the solution of the questions in which they have a common interest in the war."

It was also announced that the creation of a supreme interallied naval committee had been decided upon.

The Interallied General Staff, it was stated, was working upon a definite military program which was placing unity of military action in the way of certain realization.

The announcement regarding the results of the conference was made in the following official statement:

"The Minister of Foreign Affairs reported to the Cabinet today the results of the conference of the Allies. The reading of communications from the Presidents of each section of the Allied Conference, at which were present for the first time representatives of all the countries taking part with us in this war, has given felicitous results from every point of view. They give assurance of practical unity of action, economically, financially, and militarily.

"The agreements have been concluded upon the basis of a complete understanding and close solidarity among the Allies for the solution of the questions in which they have a common interest in the war. The financial needs of each of them, the requirements of their armament, their transport, their food, have been the subject of profound study which guarantees perfect satisfaction.

"The creation of a supreme interallied naval committee has been determined upon. Military unity of action has been placed upon the course of certain realization by the Interallied General Staff, which is at work upon an established program of all military questions.

"From a diplomatic point of view entire accord resulted from the discussions among the representatives of the powers upon all the business, which has been arranged together, to assure the common victory of their countries."

that Congress ought not to delay in including them all. Congress, after all, has the power to declare war."

A Resolution for War.

Soon after the Senate met, following the President's message, Senator Pittman of Nevada offered a resolution, in behalf of Senator King of Utah, embracing a declaration of war against Austria-Hungary, Turkey, and Bulgaria. It was referred without comment to the Foreign Relations Committee. The resolution follows:

> Joint resolution declaring that a state of war exists between the United States of America and Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, and Turkey.
> Whereas, The Congress did upon the 6th day of April, 1917, declare that a state of war exists between the United States of America and the Imperial Government of Germany; and,
> Whereas, In the course of the war it has become manifest that the Governments of Austria-Hungary, of Bulgaria, and of Turkey have become and are vassals of the Imperial Government of Germany; and,
> Whereas, The military forces and materials of Austria-Hungary, of Bulgaria, and of Turkey are being exerted and employed by Germany against the United States of America; and,
> Whereas, The defeat of Austria-Hungary, of Bulgaria, and of Turkey is necessary to a military decision against Germany; now, therefore, be it
> Resolved, That the state of war exists between the United States of America and the Governments of Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, and Turkey, and that the United States wage and make war against said Governments as the vassals of the Imperial Government of Germany.

Admirable and Even Inspiring.

Representative Miller, Minnesota—That part of the President's recommendations to Congress as to measures and methods in carrying on the war with the utmost vigor to complete victory is admirable and even inspiring. The recommendation that we declare war on Austria is admirable. We should have taken that action six months ago. However, I feel strongly that we should go the whole length. We should declare war on Bulgaria and Turkey.

Representative Porter, Pennsylvania—It was a very high-class message. It was a careful statement of the situation, and I approve of his declaration of purpose very heartily. I think it comes at a good time and will have a good effect upon the country.

Speaker Clark—The present anomalous situation with respect to Germany and her allies is perfectly demoralizing. Of course, there ought to be a declaration of war against Austria, and it ought to be against Turkey and Bulgaria, too. It is ridiculous to fight one-half the enemy and not the other half.

Majority Leader Kitchin—The President's message comes nearer reflecting the thought and sentiment of the American people than anything we have heard since the war began.

Minority Leader Gillett—I was very favorably impressed with the message. I think it is the best we have heard from the President, and I am in hearty accord with his views in general. I particularly agree with the decision to declare war against Austria. I only wish he had gone far enough to include Turkey. Bulgaria has not done anything to offend us, but Turkey's course during the war has been so contemptible that I do not think we should hesitate or delay in declaring war against her.

A Powerful Exposition.

Representative Fess, Ohio—It was a powerful exposition, succinctly expressed, and leaves no doubt in the minds of the people of America or other nations of the sort of peace this country will demand. I am especially pleased with the demand for a declaration of war against Austria-Hungary.

Representative Flood, Virginia—It was a splendid message and has my hearty approval. As Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the House, I would have presented today the resolution calling for a declaration of war on Austria but for the early adjournment. I will present such a resolution tomorrow.

Representative Britten, Illinois—I thoroughly approve of the President's recommendation for a declaration of war on Austria. I think that he should have gone a step further and called for a declaration of war on Turkey and Bulgaria.

Representative Longworth, Ohio—It was a very impressive message. I do not quite get the President's distinction as to the necessity of a war on Austria without making war on the other allies of Germany.

Turkey the Outlaw of Nations.

"I am entirely in accord with the President's demand for a declaration of war against Austria-Hungary," said Senator Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee. "For my part, I wish he had included Turkey and Bulgaria in it. The United States to my mind ought to have declared war against Austria-Hungary, Turkey, and Bulgaria at the time we went into the war against Germany."

"The President struck a responsive chord with Congress in his demand for a declaration of war on Austria," said Senator Martin, Democratic floor leader. "I hope Congress includes Turkey and Bulgaria."

Senator Brandegee of Connecticut favored a declaration against Austria-Hungary, Turkey, and Bulgaria, as did Senator Ashurst of Arizona. Hardly a Senator could be found who did not urge the inclusion of Turkey and Bulgaria in the declaration of war.

CONGRESS MAY EXTEND PRICE-FIXING POWER

Early Enactment of Enabling Legislation Expected to Follow President's Remarks.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Early enactment of legislation extending the Government's price-fixing power is expected by Administration officials to follow President Wilson's declaration in his message to Congress today that authority in this respect is now too limited.

The feeling has been growing here that more power is needed to keep down rising prices, and industry, speaking through the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, has declared for the widest possible powers for the Government in this respect.

The President touched but lightly on the subject today, but it is known he is prepared to use his every influence to obtain the legislation he thinks is needed to meet a situation in which "the law of supply and demand has been replaced by the law of unrestrained selfishness."

Power will be sought of Congress to control prices, not only on all the essential raw products, but to limit the price of all manufacturers and dealers and distributers as well.

SPOKE PEOPLE'S SENTIMENT.

Message a Call to Sustained Struggle, Says Morgenthau.

Henry Morgenthau, ex-Ambassador to Turkey, commenting on President Wilson's message, said the time had come for the American people to gird themselves for a conflict which would call forth every ounce of endurance and courage in the nation.

"The President has spoken," said Mr. Morgenthau," and has expressed in unmistakable and convincing terms the real sentiment and determination of the American people. We intend to help our allies to a positive and conclusive victory. Right and justice must triumph over might and deceit. Our people must prepare themselves at once for great sacrifices and a test of endurance. The present generation must recognize its trusteeship of democracy and liberty, and must so conduct itself that it can render a satisfactory account of its stewardship to itself and to future generations."

PROBLEMS RAISED BY MILLION ALIENS

SPEEDY ARRESTS IMPEND

MANY AUSTRIANS HERE

Employed In Important Work on Waterfront and in Munition Works.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Declaration of war with Austria-Hungary involves very little readjustment of affairs between the United States and the Dual Monarchy because the state of war, which Congress is about to declare exists, actually has been a fact for many months.

There has been no such number of depredations on American lives and rights by Austrian military forces as has been the case with Germany, but Austria, as the willing or unwilling ally of Germany, has gradually come into a position where officials of the American Government have realized more and more clearly that she must be included with Germany as an enemy. This was apparent even before the Teutonic invasion of Italy made the Austro-Italian front literally a part of the western front on which American forces are operating.

There has been no outstanding "overt act" on the part of Austria-Hungary against the United States; there have been rather a series of acts short of being classed as cause for war. They go back to the beginning of the European war.

Long before former Ambassador Dumba was uncovered and sent home to Vienna as an instigator of strikes in American manufacturing plants, the Government had evidence that the Austrian Dipolmatic and Consular Service was being used in this country for Germany's warlike purposes. The Secret Service found that the Austrian diplomatic code and the offices of Austrian Consuls were being used for activities Germany could not carry on in the United States with her own officials. Austria-Hungary has had no diplomatic or consular relations with the United States since they were broken off at the time of the diplomatic break with Germany.

Austria's U-Boat Operations.

In some cases where submarines sunk unresisting passenger liners with great loss of life it appeared that the U-boats themselves were Austrian, but there was little doubt that the officers and crew were Germans, and that the submersibles were acting under German orders. The most striking case of that sort was the destruction of the Italian liner Ancona, in which responsibility never was definitely established.

Quite aside from the question of "overt acts," however, the principal consideration of the Government in deciding on war against Austria-Hungary is the nature of the alliance between Austria and Germany, which made it anomalous to war with the latter and not with the former.

The German spy system in the United States today is known to be manned largely by subjects of Austria-Hungary, many of them members of the Industrial Workers of the World, and the recent attempts of that organization to hamper the Government's war preparations are known by the Department of Justice to be traceable to the German system.

American Secret Service men found the trails of the notorious von Papen and Boy-Ed leading through the Austrian Consular service in this country.

Scores of Arrests To Be Made.

Scores of Austro-Hungarian subjects suspected of being enemy agents in this country will be arrested within a few hours after a declaration of war against Austria. Many of these men have been under surveillance by Department of Justice agents for months, but have not been taken into custody because of lack of definite evidence against them.

When Congress adopts President Wilson's recommendation that a state of war against Austria-Hungary be declared, unnaturalized subjects of the Dual Monarchy automatically will become enemy aliens and be subject to summary arrest and internment.

Nearly a million Austrian subjects in the United States would be affected by a declaration of war, for they would immediately become amenable to the President's recent order requiring enemy aliens to register with public authorities, forbidding them to travel without special permit, and barring them from waterfronts, warehouses, and terminals.

Registration of Enemy Aliens.

Regulations to put into effect the enemy alien registration will be issued within a few days by the Department of Justice, and applied at first only to Eastern cities, where the police will conduct the registration, recording detailed information concerning each registrant. The task will be three times greater than when planned only for Germans. Officials realize that most Austro-Hungarians in this country are harmless, and a great proportion, particularly of Hungarians, Bohemians and Slavic elements, are actually pro-Ally. Consequently careful consideration will be shown in administering the enemy alien regulations.

MORE AUSTRIANS THAN GERMANS HERE

Federal Officials See Work of Meeting Enemy Alien Problems More Than Doubled.

A declaration of war on Austria-Hungary by the United States would more than double the task of dealing with enemy aliens, local United States officials said yesterday. The estimate has been made officially that there are 120,000 German enemy aliens over 14 years of age in the metropolitan district with whom the Secret Service and Department of Justice officials have been coping for eight months. While there are no more definite figures than those of the 1910 census available, there is good reason to believe that the number of Austro-Hungarians who would become enemy aliens if we declared war on Austria would be larger than the number of German enemy aliens.

In 1910, there were 278,000 native-born Germans in New York City and 276,000 Austro-Hungarians. But the number of native-born Germans in New York City was 325,000 in 1900, while the number of persons of Austrian birth was 121,000. Thus, while the number of German immigrants fell off from 1900 to 1910, the number of Austrians more than doubled. Furthermore, since Aug. 1, 1914, a large number of Germans have found their way back to Germany by one route or another, a far greater number than of the Austrians who returned.

The average number of all foreign-born residents of New York City who become naturalized is about 38 per cent. It is stated that a larger percentage of Germans than of Austrians become citizens. There is also good reason to believe that a larger percentage of Austrians than of Germans came to the United States between 1910 and 1914. Therefore the estimate of the officials that there are more Austrians in this country who would become enemy aliens upon the declaration of war than there are German enemy aliens is borne out.

While the officials realize the additional work it involves they were well satisfied yesterday that a declaration of war on Austria would make their problem of dealing with enemy aliens much more clear cut. As Assistant District Attorney John C. Knox said last night: "The declaration of war on Austria would remove us from the incongruous situation of proceeding against the Germans while allowing freedom of action to those who are in sympathy with the Germans. The situation would be simplified."

20,000 Austrian Longshoremen.

Federal officials said yesterday that few New Yorkers appreciated the seriousness of the situation that would arise by making enemy aliens of the 150,000 unnaturalized Austrians in New York City. For instance, it is estimated in official sources that 20,000 Austrians are working as longshoremen and in other occupations by which they have access to parts of the harbor barred to enemy aliens. There are 2,000 Austrians working on barges and lighters which load ships. Many of the tug officers are Austrians and more Austrians work as firemen and machinists on harbor craft. Austrians and Hungarians are found in every ship yard and munition plant, with few exceptions, in the Eastern United States. As laborers, they are found almost wherever steel mills are operated.

The opinion was expressed yesterday in responsible quarters that the registration of enemy aliens, which had been ordered from Washington to be made shortly, will be delayed until the officials can register Austrian enemy aliens, should Congress declare war on Austria. The officials pointed out that such a course would save much duplication of labor and give the Federal authorities something they could use to great advantage in any future drive against the activities of enemy aliens.

The problem of the Austrian enemy alien is one of many angles. While the Austrian is more excitable than the German and will flare into anger quickly, he is not credited with the calculating devotion to his Emperor and willingness to do or die for the Fatherland that is credited to the German. Certainly this is true of Hungarians, many of whom have no love for the Vienna Government. About 30 per cent. of the Austro-Hungarians in the United States are Hungarians. Then it is pointed out that many Austrians are already active agents of Germany. These considerations led Federal officials yesterday to the question of whether or not a declaration of war upon Austria would lead to an increase in trouble from enemy aliens proportionate to the increase in number.

While the problem in New York is grave because of the large number of them and the diversity of their activities, a United States official said yesterday that perhaps the most serious curtailment of industrial activity through a declaration of war upon Austria would be in the coal fields. More than 80,000 Austrians are working in coal mines and it would be difficult to replace them. Yet an enemy alien, free to go and come about a coal mine, would constitute a source of extreme danger to the fuel supply were he to plot against the United States.

Would Work Enemy Aliens Here.

This official pointed out that Germany was working French and English prisoners and would undoubtedly work what American prisoners she captured, and suggested that the United States force the Austrian enemy aliens, if not the Germans as well, to work where their work might be considered essential. He thought this plan should be applied especially to the coal mines and the docks at New York.

"What is to prevent the Government of the United States from working these enemy aliens under guard of soldiers?" he asked. "This country can, of course, get along without the labor of the enemy aliens. But in the case of the coal mines it could do better with their labor, which would be hard to replace now. I should like to see the Government force these Austrians to work—of course depending on if war is declared—at the tasks at which they are now engaged, when those tasks are not especially critical. Why should not the Government intern the Austrians in camps under guard and work them under the watchful eyes of soldiers? They could be paid wages, possibly, but watched to prevent their doing damage.

"What is to hinder the Government from taking the enemy alien longshoremen and quartering them in buildings under guard along the waterfront and have them continue at their work, which is important?"

There are in the whole United States between 500,000 and 600,000 German enemy aliens of over 14 years of age. In 1910 there were 2,500,000 persons of German birth in the United States; in 1900 there were 2,800,000. But instead of decreasing in the ten years the number of Austrians doubled, there being more than 1,670,000 in this country in 1910. It seems, therefore, that there are something like 400,000 Austrians who are unnaturalized in the United States now.

Favor Prison for Criminals.

Federal officials here expressed in strongest terms their approval of President Wilson's suggestions yesterday that enemy aliens guilty of crime against this country be sent to prison instead of to detention camps. They pointed out that it would mean a great deal more work for them, inasmuch as it would involve the prosecution of court action, which is not now undertaken when Germans are interned, but they thought the prospect of work in a penitentiary for a number of years instead of mere internment for the duration of the war in good quarters would have a salutory effect upon the activities of enemy aliens. At present the Kaiser's agents when captured generally are sent to internment camps, unless they were guilty of an open and flagrant violation of domestic laws.

Officials were also deeply interested in the suggestion in the President's address that women enemy aliens as well as men be subjected to the Federal restrictions.

Judge Manton of the Federal District Court and Justice Giegerich of the Supreme Court announced yesterday that the clerks in charge of the county and Federal Naturalization Bureaus would hereafter refuse to issue second papers to natives of Austria. Of the 235 applicants for full citizenship who appeared before Justice Giegerich yesterday nearly half were Austrians. The applications of these were rejected, and they were told that they might apply again after the war. Until then they must remain subjects of Austria and alien enemies of the United States. There were two Turkish applicants yesterday whose applications were also refused.

QUESTIONS OF LABOR RAISED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Fear was expressed today by Pennsylvania members of the House and Senate that with a declaration of war on Austria-Hungary many of the nationals of that country would be forced to leave the mines and mills. This, they declared, would lessen industrial activity, as the great bulk of unskilled labor in Pennsylvania and other industrial States was composed of Huns and Slavs owing allegiance to Austria Hungary.

The coal mines of the country are full of miners who came from Austria-Hungary and are not naturalized. In Pennsylvania 26 per cent. of all the foreigners came from Austria-Hungary. If these men are compelled to leave their employment in the coal mines and the iron mills it will seriously interfere with the industry of this State. It will result also in a reduction of the output of munition plants.

A member of Congress, in discussing this phase of the situation today, said the coal industry and the iron and steel business no doubt would be most seriously affected, but other lines of activity also would be injured.

"I have no doubt that the Administration has given consideration to this question," he continued. "and possibly there is some provision in the alien enemy law under which it will be possible to permit these men, if they are loyal to the United States, to continue at their employment. If there is no such provision, one can be enacted into the law. But it seems to me important that some provision should be made under which the industries of the country will not be weakened by the declaration of war against Austria-Hungary."

PRESIDENT CALLS FOR WAR ON AUSTRIA

"Our present and immediate task is to win the war, and nothing shall turn us aside until it is accomplished. We shall regard the war as won only when the German people say to us, through properly accredited representatives, that they are ready to agree to a settlement based upon justice."

The President declared that 'every power and resource we possess, whether of men, of money, or of materials, is being devoted, and will continue to be devoted, to that purpose [winning the war] until it is achieved," and added:

"Those who desire to bring peace about before that purpose is achieved, I counsel to carry their advice elsewhere. We will not entertain it."

These declarations brought cheers from the great crowd assembled in the chamber of the House. But the greatest demonstration came when the President called upon Congress to make war against Austria-Hungary. This satisfied the gathering, and there was no trace of disappointment when immediately thereafter he indicated that, while the logic of the situation that had forced us to put Austria on the same plane as Germany "would lead us also to a declaration of war against Turkey and Bulgaria," these two nations were mere tools of Germany and "do not yet stand in the direct path of our necessary action."

But immediately after the President left the Capitol sentiment began to develop among Senators and Representatives in favor of making war on Bulgaria and Turkey as well as Austria, and an effort to include all three of Germany's allies in the new declaration of war is now afoot.

Crowd Rises with Cheers.

When the President unexpectedly called for war on Austria, a cheer that came from a dozen places at once broke the silence that had been intensified by the sense of disappointment over the feeling he had created that the day of reckoning with the Vienna Government, and particularly with those Austrian subjects in America who were playing Germany's game of intrigue and incendiarism under the very nose of the United States, was not at hand. It was as if the President had carried his auditors through the gamut of patriotic emotions to bring them back to a depressing feeling that their enthusiasm had been wasted, and then had flashed upon them the great thing they wanted and had lost hope of realizing.

That cheer, sharper because scattered, became a mighty shout. More dignified legislators and public officials contented themselves with clapping their hands, but the younger element of the House gave vent to their joy in "yip-yip-yips" and variations of that masculine vocal emotion which in Congress has come to be called "the Rebel yell." As the applause continued, Senators and Representatives, Republicans with Democrats, rose to their feet to emphasize their approval of the welcome words they had just heard the President utter.

Chief Justice White, seated with five other Justices of the United States Supreme Court directly in front of the rostrum where the President stood waiting for the demonstration to subside, rose with the rest and swept the audience behind him with a beaming smile that left no doubt of the satisfaction he felt. Senator Lodge, seated almost directly behind the Chief Justice, returned the smile and nodded understandingly as he beat the palms of his hands together vigorously like a boy at a play. Women in the galleries waved their handkerchiefs. The "rebel yell" punctuated the more even roar of cheering and the continuous patter of handclapping.

Barring the President, one man on that floor of enthusiastic Americans came in for the greatest share of attention while the demonstration was in progress. He was Robert M. La Follette, Senator from Wisconsin. Around him were men standing, cheering, and otherwise showing their approval of the pronouncement that Germany's most powerful associate was to be declared an enemy of the United States.

La Follette Refuses to Stand.

But La Follette kept his seat, an evident mark of his disapproval of any measure directed against the Teutonic autocracy. The usual smile of defiance that has appeared on the Wisconsin Senator's face when things were going against him was not there. He showed his resentment of the patriotic outburst that raged about him by remaining in his seat while his brother Senators stood. Another who failed to stand was Congressman at Large William Mason of Illinois.

The demonstration compelled the President to suspend his address which he had been reading from small typewritten sheets laid upon the high desk in front of him. Behind him were seated Speaker Clark and Vice President Marshall, presiding officers of the joint session. He stepped aside while the cheering lasted, and waited without show of any elation or other feeling for an opportunity to resume the reading.

Mr. Wilson has seldom or never appeared to better personal advantage since his residence in Washington. The black frock coat which he usually wore when he addressed Congress had given way to a dark cutaway—a morning coat—that fitted closely to his figure and gave him an almost youthful trimness. From behind the lapels of his waistcoat peeped white slips that relieved the sombreness of that garment and the coat. And for the usual black or black-and-white striped cravat there had been substituted a real "creation" in neckwear, with colored figures twisting through it. At least that was the way it looked from the press gallery.

It took the President thirty-three minutes to deliver his address, which was the "annual message" required by the Constitution to be communicated to the Congress at the opening of each December session. He had entered the hall of the House at exactly 12:30 o'clock, the hour fixed for his appearance. Shortly prior to that time the Senate had marched in a body from its end of the Capitol, led by Vice President Marshall, to participate in the joint assemblage. The galleries were then crowded with spectators who were obliged to have special cards of admission for the occasion.

Mrs. Wilson and a party of relatives and friends sat in the "Executive box" in one of the reserved galleries. Most of the members of the Cabinet had seats on the floor. Many distinguished diplomats and Americans also were present.

The President got a rousing welcome when he entered the House. Throughout his address there were enthusiastic outbursts. When he had finished and turned to go, with a bow to the Speaker and the Vice President, the crowd began cheering, which was kept up until he was out of sight. Then the Senate returned to its wing of the Capitol.

STOCK FLURRY ON MESSAGE.

Prices Rise, Then Drop Sharply, Steel Reaching Lowest Figure for Year.

In the downtown financial district the President's message was received with general approval by bankers and business men, who said they found in the Chief Executive's strong convictions about the war a prime support of their own attitude. In view of the fact that few of the leading bankers had time to study the document before the end of the business day, they were unwilling to give their opinions of the President's statements on particular measures necessary to centre the country's resources on the war.

The stock market made a rather curious reflection of the message. While the news tickers were printing that part of the document devoted to the President's determination to continue America's efforts to victory, prices displayed considerable strength. Near the end of the market session appeared Mr. Wilson's intimation that price fixing must be carried to much greater lengths, and at once stocks began to sell down. Steel common was pressed for sale in big blocks and receded 3½ points to 87¾, a new low record for the year, while American Locomotive, Bethlehem Steel, and Tobacco Products dropped about the same distance. Mercantile Marine preferred closed with a net decline of 5 points, despite the declaration on Monday of a cash dividend of 10 per cent.

Brokerage firms with telegraphic connections to other cities were particularly prominent in the selling, and the explanation heard on the Stock Exchange floor was that the indication of further restriction on profits in certain industries induced liquidation. At the same time, the character of the business done in the flurry at the end of the day appeared to show the activity of operators on the short side, who sought profits under the belief that the President's words on price fixing would tend to send quotations down. Stocks closed around their lowest prices of the day.

The address was sent to Petrograd by both cable and wireless.

Comments on the Address

NEW YORK CITY.

From The World.

President Wilson's address to Congress sounds a clear, ringing note of leadership to all the nations that are battling against Prussian autocracy. It is both a great war message and a great peace message—a great war message in its uncompromising determination that the war must be won, and a great peace message in its enlightened statement of the principles upon which the security of civilization must rest. * * *

For weeks the Bolsheviki who seized the Government at Petrograd have been demanding through their Lenines and Trotzkys a restatement of the aims and objects of the Allies. Last week the Marquis of Lansdowne joined in this demand. So far as the United States is concerned the President has answered, and answered frankly. We may take it for granted that this answer will receive the same measure of approval in Great Britain and France that was accorded to his reply to the Vatican's peace proposals.

Unquestionably the President has voiced the sentiment of the American people, both in his definition of the kind of peace that can be accepted and in his call for the most vigorous prosecution of the war of which the nation is capable.

"A Victory Without Injustice."

From The Sun.

We regard the President's address as a powerful aid in the effort to bring about peace through a victory that shall be neither vindictive in its consequences nor destructive of the right of any people, great or small, to order its own destinies. If these words of his can get beyond the trenches, into the intelligence of the Teuton peoples, he will have done much to remove false impressions there now existing.

All the more so, because they who are most concerned will discover in his message to them no sign of wavering, not the first symptom of a war weariness that invites compromise upon the great principles involved, no purpose except to win a victory which shall inflict no injustice after it is won.

Breathes the Country's True Purpose.

From The Tribune.

President Wilson's message to Congress breathes the country's true purpose in prosecuting the war. To win is the main thing, and it is the outstanding merit of the President's message that it re-emphasizes the unrelenting character of our war on the German Government as it is, and on the German people insofar as they are represented by it, and, further, includes within the scope of our main war purpose the scrapping of Austria-Hungary's equally obstructive and only less predatory autocracy.

"Said What All Were Glad to Hear."

From The Herald.

Naturally the feature of President Wilson's address to Congress which is of most direct interest to the American people at this time is his recommendation that a state of war be declared to exist between the United States and Austria-Hungary. * * * To the gallant sons of Italy valiantly stemming the tide of invasion that threatens their beloved land America's declaration that Italy's enemies are our enemies will bring great joy. It brings great joy also to Americans. * * * In impressing upon Congress the fact that "our present and immediate task is to win the war," and in pledging on behalf of the Government that nothing shall turn it aside from that task until it is accomplished, the President speaks what the American people are glad to hear. The American people are in this thing and intend to see it through.

A Complete Answer to Lansdowne.

From The Commercial.

President Wilson rose to lofty heights in this memorable address, the concluding words of which carry a message for the world. * * * It is a complete answer to the weak letter written by Lord Lansdowne with evident desire to save aristocratic institutions while democracy goes on the rocks.

PHILADELPHIA.

From The Philadelphia Record.

A more overwhelming reply to the weak letter of Lord Lansdowne it would be impossible to conceive of. * * * There is not one word in the address to encourage Germans or pacifists to believe that the war can be compromised. As this message has been communicated to our allies before it was made public in Congress it is to be accepted as the reeply of all the allied nations to the Hohenzollerns.

PROVIDENCE.

"A Noble Message."

From The Providence Journal.

The country will read with gratification the noble and dignified message which President Wilson delivered to Congress yesterday. * * * Mr. Wilson has risen to the occasion with a declaration of our duty and purpose as a nation that breathes the will and determination of all true Americans.

INDIANAPOLIS.

From The Indianapolis Star.

The President's message, which is primarily a statement of our aims in the war, is a remarkable, lucid exposition of the great fundamental truth that is back of all the disaster that the present world conflict has brought in its wake.

CLEVELAND.

From The Plain Dealer.

The President's address to Congress emphasizes anew his character as an international leader. * * * Though the President is firm, as befits the cause for which he speaks, he is not vindictive. He proposes for Germans precisely what he proposes for mankind elsewhere—rescue from an overlordship that has destroyed the peace of the world and threatens an unending continuation of horrors.

ST. LOUIS.

From The St. Louis Republic.

Not for a moment, the President declares, shall the United States turn aside until the war is won and Germany beaten. This a definite object, and it sweeps away all the sophistries of the professional peacemakers.

CHICAGO.

Calls for a Victorious Peace.

From The Chicago Herald.

President Wilson evidently believed the international situation called for a restatement and clarification of our position as to war and peace. It may be summed up in four words—victory, reparation, justice, security.

WHOLE WORLD GOT WILSON'S MESSAGE

Steps Taken for It to Reach Indirectly All of the Enemy Capitals.

SENT ABROAD AS HE SPOKE

35,000 Miles of Telegraph Wires Used as Well as Wireless and Other Means of Transmission.

President Wilson's address to Congress was heralded yesterday throughout the world by the United States Government.

Nearly every known means of communication—express train, telephone, telegraph, wireless, and submarine cable—was utilized in transmitting the address. While an operator in New York was clicking off its text on a transcontinental wire direct to San Francisco, where it was immediately relayed to the Orient, another at his side was sending a Spanish translation to Colon, Panama Canal Zone, from where it radiated throughout the Central and Southern American capitals.

Wireless operators picked the President's words out of the air and relayed them to Caribbean Sea points. Doubtless many ships in these waters knew what was being said in Washington at almost the same time the address was being distributed over telegraphic systems in this country.

It is estimated that approximately 35,000 miles of telegraph and cable wires were called into use in transmitting the message.

George Creel, Chairman of the Committee on Public Information, who directed the sending out of the address, received a copy of it in this city by special courier from Washington early in the day. A corps of typists was put at work in a locked room to make duplicate copies. Meanwhile, in an adjoining room, the address was being translated into French and Spanish. These rooms were guarded as a precaution against the contents of the message becoming public prematurely.

Upon receiving word from Washington that President Wilson had begun delivering the address, shortly after noon, a corps of telegraph and cable operators immediately began their task of wiring the message broadcast—across the United States to San Francisco, there to be relayed to Shanghai and thence to Tokio and Peking; across the Atlantic to London, where it was picked up and resent to the Continent, and down the eastern coast to Panama for transmission to Central and South American points.

At London and Paris the message was placed in the hands of the established commercial and governmental news agencies. From London a French translation was forwarded to Paris. London also served as a relay point to Stockholm, Copenhagen, Christiania, and The Hague. From Stockholm a copy of the message was sent to the American Embassy at Petrograd. London also filed to Algiers and other Northern African points.

From Paris were served Lisbon, Madrid, Rome, and Berne.

New York sent the address to South America, the most southern point being Rio de Janeiro. This cable runs by way of Colon to Chile. Colon relayed to Bogota, Valparaiso, Quito, and Lima, Lima in turn forwarding to La Pas and Valparaiso to Santiago and Buenos Aires.

Colon was the point from which the message radiated throughout Central America.

In the absence of perfected news agencies with extensive connections in Central and South America, copies of the message were placed directly in the hands of American Ministers in these countries for immediate release to newspapers and distributing organizations in their jurisdictions.

Indirectly the address will get to Berlin and other enemy capitals.

WILSON CONVINCING, IS LONDONERS' VIEW

Address to Congress Arrives at Night—Rush to Tickers to Learn of It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 5.—Although President Wilson's address to Congress is understood to have been filed for cabling early in the day, it was 9 o'clock last night before it began to appear on the tickers here. It had been awaited with a tenser interest than I have ever known to be given to a Presidential utterance before.

At one great London political club, when the news spread that President Wilson's speech was coming through on the tape, there was a rush to the machine, and members stood three or four deep spelling out the words as they were ticked off.

Comment under such circumstances for the moment necessarily must be hurried. On one point, however, there was unanimity of opinion. This was that the President had put into words the thoughts that lie deep in the breasts of all who are fighting for freedom and had pointed out clearly and convincingly the essential things that make this war worth while.

The Times in a editorial on Wilson's message, says:

"With this straight forward and logical statement of America's war aims the last hope of the pacifists must founder."

In regard to the President's picture of the German nation, the Times says, it can discover no solid grounds for supposing that it is true.

"For the present," it says, "we must continue to regard the German people as willing accomplices of their rulers."

The Chronicle says:

"In its principle it does not deviate from the previous war utterances of the President, but at a time like the present even reaffirmations may have first-class importance. Nothing could be more emphatic nor in the circumstances of the moment holder than the President's reassertion of the need of an out-and-out victory over the Prussian autocracy. He literally nails his colors to the mast."

FIGHTING NEAR JERUSALEM.

Turkish Post Is Raided and Its Entire Garrison "Accounted For."

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Military operations continue in Palestine northwest of Jerusalem, but no important change in the situation has occurred, the War Office announces. The statement reads:

General Allenby reports that the situation generally is unchanged. There has been some fighting in the vicinity of Beit Urel Foka, in which we have taken prisoners. East County troops successfully raided a Turkish post south of Nahr Auja and accounted for the whole of its garrison.

GERMANS SUSPEND DRIVE ON BRITISH

NEW ATTEMPT EXPECTED

Belief That Hindenburg Sought to Duplicate the Austro-German Smash in Italy.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Dec. 4, (Associated Press.)—The Germans up to noon today had not renewed their attempts of yesterday to smash the British front south of Marcoing, but it seems improbable that the enemy will allow matters to remain as they are now. Therefore the situation is still one that cannot be dismissed lightly, in view of the heavy concentration of guns and troops which von Hindenburg has brought to bear on this line.

There has been no change in the respective positions of the opposing forces since last night. Exhaustion and the necessity of reorganizing his depleted ranks have undoubtedly forced the enemy to pause for a breathing spell.

The ground won by the Germans yesterday could in no wise compensate for the shambles caused by von Hindenburg's disregard for the lives of his men. It must be borne in mind that he was playing for vastly bigger stakes than have yet been won. In his latest attacks there were undoubtedly tremendous efforts to break through, with great possibilities of a drive out into the open such as was engineered in Italy.

The situation today was much easier for the British. Yesterday was admittedly a rather anxious one, but abundant reinforcements arrived. The checking of the Germans' incessant massed attacks was due only to the gallantry of the dogged British soldiers, who did not yield before fierce assaults by greatly superior numbers.

The open fighting which has developed along the new battlefront has created an entirely new situation, which holds out many possibilities, and now, more than ever, involves the question of generalship, which may decide the issue.

In their stupendous efforts against La Vacquerie the Germans swept forward in dense waves with absolutely no concealment, and were slaughtered. During the afternoon they delivered a very heavy attack also west of Masnières and succeeded in smashing through the British line, but an immediate counterattack forced them to fall back.

The British commander voluntarily pulled back his line to the west and southwest of Masnières to make it firmer. This morning the British line was near the western part of Marcoing Copse, but included Marcoing. A small triangular piece of territory, therefore, has been sacrificed by the British. Since 8 o'clock last night the line has remained unchanged.

A heavy concentration of German guns east of Gonnelieu suffered greatly by the excellent British counterbattery work.

Things appeared much brighter in the British camp this morning. The battle probably has not yet run its course, but the defenders from now on will be in much better shape to handle the situation.

Haig Reports Lull in Battle.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The report from Field Marshal Haig's headquarters tonight says:

During the day concentrations of hostile infantry east of Gouzeaucourt and in the neighborhood of Moeuvres were broken up by our artillery before any attack could develop.

The enemy's artillery has been active in the neighborhood of La Vacquerie, and there has also been considerable hostile artillery activity north of Armentières, southeast of Ypres, and in the Passchendaele sector.

The day report from British Headquarters reads:

The enemy's artillery was active during the night on the Cambrai battlefront, in the neighborhood of Bourlon and Moeuvres. There was no further infantry action.

On the remainder of the front nothing of special interest has been reported.

Berlin Announces Taking Vacquerie.

BERLIN, Dec. 4, (via London.)—Baden troops yesterday stormed and held La Vacquerie, southwest of Cambrai, it is announced officially, taking 500 prisoners.

GERMANS REPULSED ON MEUSE

PARIS, Dec. 4.—On the Verdun front, west of the Meuse, the Germans last night attempted to approach French positions, but were thrown back, the War Office announces. On the Champagne front heavy artillery fighting is in progress. The statement follows:

There was great activity on the part of the artillery, especially in the region of Maisons de Champagne and Tahure.

The night was calm on the remainder of the front.

SWISS EXPECT US TO RESPECT NEUTRALITY

Report of American Intentions Gives Satisfaction in Military and Political Circles.

GENEVA, Dec. 4.—An announcement that the United States Government intends soon to issue a formal official statement to the Federal authorities at Berne, following the example of the Allies, that the United States intends carefully to respect Swiss neutrality, has produced an extremely favorable impression in Swiss political and military circles.

This is especially true, as the action of the United States Government will be spontaneous.

STEAMER APAPA SUNK; 80 PASSENGERS DIE

U-Boat Fires on Women and Children in Open Boats—Crew Also Perish.

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 5.—The British steamer Apapa has been torpedoed and sunk, according to the morning papers. Eighty passengers and the crew of the vessel perished. About 120 passengers were saved.

It is reported that the submarine fired on women and children in open boats.

The Apapa was a vessel of 7,832 tons gross. She was built in Glasgow in 1914, and was owned by the African Steamship Company.

BUT EVACUATION GOES ON

U. S. Consul Carroll a Big Factor in Shifting the City's Industries.

"SWARMING TO A NEW HIVE"

Working Units Kept Intact, So That Refugees Will Not Become a Public Burden.

By WYTHE WILLIAMS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VENICE, Dec. 3.—Once more the German plan has failed. The chances are becoming remoter every hour that Venice ever will fall into the enemy's hands. As in the case of Paris, of Calais, and of Verdun, the invader has been stopped at the very threshold. Ten days ago the fact of stopping him seemed outside the bounds of possibility.

When I arrived three days ago, after twenty-two hours on the train from Milan—a trip that usually takes seven—the situation was still touch and go. Every one here had means of escape by water planned and ready. Today, although it is too soon to talk with certainty, there is a distinct feeling of relief. Even the thunder of the guns sounds fainter, although the enemy in considerable force remains only fourteen miles away.

I entered the city on the personal invitation of the Chief Admiral of the Italian Navy, who planned the defenses of the city and is directing the operations on this end of the line. He has given me a close-up view of his work, and I am the only correspondent who has been able to reach the mouth of the Piave, where both the Italian and Austrian lines on either side of the narrow stream end on the beach of the Adriatic.

I talked with the Admiral several times, and found him one of the few commanders of highest rank I have met in the course of the war who has made a careful study of the rôle public opinion must play to bring about an allied victory. He said to me:

"I consider the press the first fighting army of the Allies—quite as important as either the army or the navy."

By Boat to the Piave Front.

With an officer the Admiral appointed as my guide I left Venice in a motor launch before dawn for a trip through the lagoon country down to the Piave line. A brief cable message cannot adequately tell the wonderful story of the fighting there as he told me of it and as I saw it. Although both lines actually end at the mouth of the Piave, the enemy succeeded in crossing the river a short distance inland, where he continued onward toward the city until stopped at a narrow canal, where there were no natural defenses whatever There the Italians, few in number and without artillery, turned in desperation and threw the Austrians back literally with their hands and bodies. It is a spot to be marked by a future monument, as one for tourists to go to and take off their hats.

For ten days and nights the Italians held there, while the surrounding lagoon country was being flooded and while the harbor guns and men were being rushed up. Every boat in Venice was pressed into service. Big cannon and little were piled into fishing boats and barges—even gondolas were prepared to carry up food and other supplies.

Meanwhile the Austrian fleet of two cruisers and seven destroyers came from Pola to destroy the land batteries at the mouth of the Piave, which held up their army at that point. Two tiny Italian motor launches, with two torpedoes each, made for the cruisers, which turned and fled. The motor launches then, surrounded by enemy destroyers, scurried for safety, luring the destroyers with them until they brought them within range of the big shore guns. That was the finish of Austria's naval aid to her army.

In our motor boat we scouted through every canal and lagoon, often quite close and in full view of the enemy. The countryside is as flat as Flanders, and there has been no time or opportunity for either army to develop any system of camouflage. Everything is in plain view. Several times we could see the Austrians in their lines. In fact, there was so much visibility on both sides that desultory sniping seemed out of fashion. So we took chances that on other battle fronts would have brought bullets whistling about our heads.

Austrians Cannot Shell Venice.

Naturally, I cannot give details of the defense system, but I am permitted to say that the present condition of the ground behind the Austrians will probably prevent their bringing up heavy guns that would put the city within range.

Coming up from the mouth of the river, we visited the trenches at the point where the Austrian lines still cross the river. There the Italians now command the situation with many nests of American machine guns that can rake the river banks if reinforcements try to cross. As a matter of fact, on that entire end of the line the Austrians are hanging on to a very precarious footing from which they are likely to retire speedily the moment the Italian signal is given.

In Venice itself the work of evacuation continues, largely under the leadership of the American Consul, B. Harvey Carroll, Jr., working under the direction of the naval authorities and with a civil committee. Mr. Carroll arose to the difficult and most desperate situation in a really wonderful manner, showing the Italians what American organization amounts to in such fashion as it has never been demonstrated to them before. He is not only aiding to get the population away, but also the industries of the city, moving out colonies of workers with their tools at a great rate. They cannot remain where they are for the reason that the front is so close that an enemy coup de main might at any time bring the enemy perilously near. Also the shops have gradually closed, a majority now being boarded up, and manufacturing plants cannot attempt to operate on so dangerous a tenure.

The banks accept no money; drafts cannot be cashed; there is no basis of exchange, and traffic and all business is at a standstill. The source of the food supply, which was from the upper provinces, is now greatly restricted, and the railroad serving the city and running parallel to the battle front might be cut suddenly, and in any case must be used first for the army.

Consul Carroll's Excellent Work.

Mr. Carroll began work with a fund of $400. Since then he has received about $30,000 more from the American Red Cross at Rome. About 12,000 persons have already left and about 50,000 will follow. As Mr. Carroll expresses the situation, "they are going out, not like chaff driven by the wind, but like bees swarming from a hive to make a new hive." He has established headquarters for this temporary new Venice at a town on the coast of the Adriatic, well beyond any possible danger from an invading army. But the enemy, with his customary feelings in such matters, sent his airplanes out a couple of nights ago to bombard the refugee posts. Nevertheless no damage was done, and the refugees are already being organized down there into a self-sustaining, producing force. All the working units have been kept intact, so that the exodus from Venice stands unique in the list of war evacuations in that it has not become a dead weight for charity.

There are now nearly a million and a half refugees in Italy—scattered through the land, where every ounce of food for Winter was already apportioned. Every town and village of Italy has more than a saturated solution of refugees. So when the exodus form Venice began by thousands the Mayors and Syndics in the surrounding territory were filled with alarm. But this was all changed when the Venetian plan became known, and it is a model for the future, if in the future it shall ever again be necessary.

Mr. Carroll has been spending days and nights along the line, getting his people to safety and at work. All his clerks are stationed at different places, so he has the entire work of the Consulate to do single-handed. I found him there the day I arrived, alone except for his pet Persian cat, and just preparing to depart by motor.

Then the situation was such that whenever Mr. Carroll left Venice he was not sure he would be able to get back. He made plans for my exit in case of necessity, and his final request was that "if anything happens you come to the Consulate, get Fuzzy and take him out with you. He is too good a cat for the Austrians." But Mr. Carroll turned up again, reporting that he had been able to establish a large hospital at his new Venice, while the empty hotels and cottages at the small health resorts adjacent had been turned over to him by the authorities. His work of evacuation has naturally been with the working classes and he also has a special fund for the poorer classes. He has sent scores from the city to relatives or to work. All the refugees from the invaded districts who entered the city have been cared for, and a station has been established in the north to feed them, also to care for the wounded.

Carroll Wants 30,000 Blankets.

America should be proud to know she has such a man as Mr. Carroll so completely on the job at such an hour. I asked him today what he wanted most and said that I would send his requests by cable. He replied:

"I want most what money cannot buy. I have plenty of money, but I want food and blankets. I need 30,000 blankets, and there are not so many available in all Italy. Today I sent a boat out, and, failing to find wool, I bought silk blankets of gay colors, so my people went off looking like a band of Comanche Indians."

I have learned that there is a supply of blankets in the hands of our Red Cross in France which should be sent here quickly, and a request should be made that the French authorities facilitate its transit across the frontier.

As to the appearance of the city itself, there has been a perfect Sabbath calm, even when nearly every one of the class that always has railway fare got out as quickly as possible. As in other places, this class is divided into two parts. One part remains, and will remain, whatever happens, and would prefer to see the city destroyed rather than given over to the enemy. The others who fled are now petitioning that the city be defended. Inasmuch as the defense has been so successful, it probably will not be necessary to decide matters more definitely and closer up. Had not the lines held just where they did, had the enemy succeeded in penetrating along the dry ground only a few miles further to a place where he could have brought up his heavy guns, then any defense would have meant the complete destruction of the most wonderful city in the whole world, the only place where God and man have ever collaborated without man messing up the work.

For the enemy has no illusions on the subject of destruction—no illusions whatever. As at the time of my visit here three months ago, we are now having a full moon, but to date the enemy has been too busy to attack the city from the air.

Last night I had dinner with Admiral Thaon de Revel, and afterward he walked back with me along the canal to my hotel. He discussed his problem freely—the problem of the Adriatic, which, if the allied naval powers discover in the same fashion that the allied armies have now discovered the Italian front, may bring the war to a speedier conclusion. Austria on land and sea is the weak spot of the Central Empires, but not weak enough for Italy to break alone. The Admiral promised an interview on this matter later. I can only say now that from everything he told me of the present situation I am convinced that the part of the line held by the Italian Navy will never break, and that the City of Venice is saved to the Allies and to civilization.

SICILIANS SAVED THE DAY.

Turned an Attack on Mountain Trenches Into an Italian Victory.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Dec. 3, (Delayed.)—A dispatch from Italian Headquarters says:

"From the hill where I stood, accompanied by an Italian officer of the General Staff, I could see on the north the far-stretching barrier of mountains separating the Brenta and Piave basins. On the east was the white line of the bed of the Piave, which even in this season contains more pebbles than water. On both sides stretches an interminable plain, diversified by scattered hamlets and clumps of evergreen trees. Big Italian Capronis, accompanied by rapid hawklike chasers, rise above us on their missions of scouting or bombarding the enemy positions. Austro-German Aviatiks, albatrosses and Taubes rise in response, circling, wheeling and striving to get above their adversaries. Both the Italian and enemy anti-aircraft batteries open fire, and suddenly the whole sky is dotted with puffs of shrapnel smoke.

"Near this point a German Taube fell headlong. The Captain who commanded the battery which brought it down rushed to the spot to make the enemy aviators prisoners and take possession of the machine; but the latter was entirely smashed, while the pilot alone survived. He lifted his hands in token of surrender and said in perfect Italian: 'Save me, boys!' He was so gravely injured that he died before reaching the first aid station. The remnants of his airplane, the Mercedes motor, machine gun and other instruments were taken to camp.

"From this hill we motored to the slopes of the Alps, where we met a brigade, almost entirely composed of Sicilians, who had just performed one of the most brilliant feats of the war. In the last attack the enemy opened an infernal fire, covering the rearguards and the few houses in that sector with a hail of big-calibre shells, those of the big naval guns being distinguishable. The defensive line of trenches no longer existed, and the greater part of the soldiers who had been defending them were buried by the tempest of projectiles. After four hours of bombardment, the Kaiserjäger dashed against the few survivors, almost surrounding them. The situation of those officers and soldiers was desperate, all their communications having been interrupted.

"The Italian Brigadier General commanding that sector, guessing where the line had been broken, gathered all obtainable reinforcements and sent them to the help of their companions. The Sicilians and Alpini went at the enemy regardless of the barrier of fire which they had to pass. Their comrades were fighting doggedly and desperately. A Lieutenant from Palermo discharged his quick-firing pistol until it was empty, but was finally overwhelmed and captured. Two of his men, however, attacked his captors with their daggers and killed them, releasing their officer.

"A Major from Caltanissetta, seeing that the situation was still critical, called his Sicilians and a contingent Alpini for another attack. After a bitter struggle lasting half an hour the positions were reconquered and the Major could send a messenger to his superior with the report: 'The positions have been bravely reconquered. Viva Italia!'"

ORLANDO WELCOMES US TO FIGHT 'COMMON FOE'

Italian Premier's Message to America Hails New Unity of War Aims.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—The Italian Premier, Vittorio Orlando, sends through The Associated Press message to the American people, in which he says:

"Our allies' aid has come to us spontaneously, as from brothers, at our most difficult hour, and Italy fully recognizes and appreciates the high value of the sympathy and support which have come and continue to come every moment to us from the United States. The democratic soul of Italy knows well that it can have the fullest confidence in the great American democracy.

"It is with the utmost joy that I have noted the direct participation in the Interallied Supreme War Council at Paris of authorized representatives of the United States. Their intervention can only signify the cordial and complete adhesion of their country to the theory of a single front, and can only affirm in the most tangible manner the harmony of our souls and wills, the union of our energies and means, the fraternity of our arms, in the face of the common enemy.

"I say 'common enemy' because henceforth we all have but one single enemy. Just as evidently it is a single will which guides and directs the effort of the opposition. The champions of violence and autocracy represent, consequently, but a single people and a single army. That is why it is so much the more necessary that the nations defending justice and liberty, while not renouncing any one of the supreme reasons for their free, independent, and sovereign existence, should declare themselves a compact, integral, and complete unity."

ITALIANS REPULSE ATTACKS IN TRENTINO

Enemy Guns Active on Asiago Plateau, Where Italians Make Brisk Reply.

ROME, Dec. 4.—The repulse of infantry attacks, after artillery preparation, in the Giudicaria region of the Trentino front is announced by the War Office. Enemy artillery showed great activity on the Asiago Plateau, and the Italian guns heavily shelled masses of Austro-German troops in the same region.

In the Giudicaria region (Trentino front) at dawn yesterday enemy parties, after artillery preparation, attacked our advanced line on the slopes south of Daone Valley, but were repulsed.

On the Asiago Plateau the enemy artillery was very active between Monte Sisemol and Monte Castelgomberto. Our reconnaissance parties brought back prisoners, and our batteries made powerful concentrations of fire on masses of troops seen in Gallio Wood, at the southwest of Asiago and north of Monte Tondarecar.

Enemy troops and encampments were also bombarded by our aircraft in Galmarara Valley and neighboring zones.

An enemy infantry attempt east of Monte Badenecche was promptly stopped by our fire. Between the Brenta and the Piave, on Monte Spinoncia, a few prisoners were captured in a brief action.

Enemy columns moving upon Seren Valley and to the Piave Valley for the purpose of approaching the front were shelled and stopped by our batteries.

On the Piave there was moderate artillery activity. Two captive balloons were brought down.

BERLIN, Dec. 4, (via London.)—The War Office issues this statement concerning the situation on the Italian front:

The visibility being good, the artillery activity in various sectors increased.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Dec. 3, (Delayed.) (Associated Press.)—The enemy activity is now taking the form of demonstrations by the artillery, followed up by the infantry, the preparatory gunfire not being of so concentrated a character as that usually preceding determined assaults. These demonstrations are either intended to mask movements at other points or are set in motion in the process of feeling the way for the best opening along the Piave and the northern Italian line.

The enemy movements are being put into effect principally on the upper Piave, where the river passes lead between Monte Monfenera and Montello to the Venetian plain, and on the middle Piave, where the enemy continues very active in constructing bridges to the middle ground of Grave de Papadopoli, an island lying in mid-stream, which affords him a sort of half-way station. The pressure at the former point is on the northern mountain line, while the bridging operation at the island is directed at the eastern river line.

LURE OF PEACE PROMISES

British Observers Now Think Heaviest Blows Have Been Struck by Foe.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, Dec. 4.—All day yesterday the Germans continued their thrusts against the British lines from the St. Quentin Canal by Marcoing southward to the neighborhood of Gonnelieu and La Vacquerie.

Their plan of attack was direct and obvious. It was to drive through the British lines below Marcoing by way of a small copse to the southeast of that village and at the same time to break through toward Villers-Plouich and Metz-en-Couture by gaining the high ground of La Vacquerie and its surrounding heights and the St. Quentin Ridge.

In this endeavor the enemy flung in great numbers of men on that narrow front of attack, not counting the cost, not hesitating to send forward new battalions after those shattered by the British fire, never weakening in his pressure even where he could make no advance, and sending up immediate supports to take advantage of any temporary success. Thus, toward the end of the year the British find themselves engaged in a battle more decisive in its issue perhaps than all the fighting of months which preceded it, though forced upon the enemy by all that has gone before—by his weakening manpower after his enormous casualties in Artois and Flanders, by his loss of Passchendaele Ridge, which robbed him of his great north wall of defence, so that he will lie open to attack in the plains next year, and by the immediate threat to his lines of communication through Cambrai after the smashing of his Hindenburg lines by Sir Julian Byng's army.

Seeking Battle in the Open.

He seems to be forcing a decisive fight in the open country, and how much of political and how much of military significance there is in this is for others than myself to estimate. His prisoners tell the British they have been promised peace if they win this battle. Let it go at that.

With whatever inspiration they may have behind them, the German troops are fighting with the most fierce and stubborn courage, and because of that their losses yesterday and since Friday morning last have been, in the judgment of the British—and they ought to know—enormous, as the price of what has been gained.

They have not gained very much as yet, considering the violence of their efforts, though, by sheer repetition of their attacks by masses of men flinging themselves into the face of fire, they have slightly extended their progress toward Marcoing, won some of the high ground about La Vacquerie and seem to have a foothold on St. Quentin Ridge, above the British positions round Metz and Gouzeaucourt. The British, therefore, are in the midst of a struggle as severe as anything that has faced them since the second battle of Ypres. Since that time on this front the enemy had been on the defensive, apart from his furious counterattacks in the battle of the Somme and in the Arras fighting and Flanders, which were for defensive reasons. But now the offensive is with him and he is forcing the pace and fighting "all out."

It is ferocious fighting, preceded as usual on the enemy's side by poisonous gas and supported by heavy artillery. The British are denying the enemy's advance yard by yard, and if ground is yielded, as in the withddawal from the salient at Masnières and yesterday from Marcoing Copse, below the Chapel of the Virgin at the entrance of the town, and from some of the slopes at La Vacquerie, it is only after butchery of Germans and rearguard actions, which I suppose will be counted as among the bloodiest episodes of this war.

It is perhaps unnecessary to say that the British realize the high importance of this battle, yet I must say that it is because it is in each man's mind and is his guiding thought which urges these men to the most desperate resistance in places where for a time they have been cut off or outnumbered. The wounded who came back out of that zone of shellfire and machine guns find only one comfort in their state and that is that the enemy could not break their lines or if he broke them for a time was thrust back again.

Big Attacks on Vacquerie.

Yesterday the enemy delivered at least three big attacks on La Vacquerie, and this was the storm centre of the battle. It is certain from what all the British say that the German losses in that neighborhood were very great. The ground is strewn with the bodies of men who fell under the British machine gun and rifle fire.

All the German battalions advanced in dense order without any attempt at concealment, so that their ranks withered under the steady fire.

At 3:15 o'clock in the afternoon a new and powerful thrust was made by German storm troops west of Masnières in the direction of Marcoing, and for a time the British line was pierced, but the supporting troops closed up and the gap was stopped. A quick counterattack threw back the enemy line at least part of the way it had come, though the Germans are now on the eastern edge of Marcoing, held at bay by one brave little outpost, which may have to be withdrawn by the time I write.

The British countered repeated attacks westward from Gonnelieu. The artillery shattered many of the enemy's attempts to assemble and smothered many of his guns with shellfire, especially in the Banteau ravine, where he had a large concentration of batteries, many of which were put out of action.

Some of the British who were cut off in the earlier fighting, like those taken prisoners at Gouzeaucourt, have found their way back into the lines after hiding on the enemy's side. Among them are some English lads belonging to a party of forty, who were taken prisoners and put into a barbed wire enclosure, but these did not sit down in despair. They waited until dark and then made their escape, swimming the canal and so getting back to their comrades in Marcoing.

Other men have been rescued in the counterattacks, one of whom, I have just heard, was a gunner officer with one of the British Generals who had his headquarters in a quarry near Gouzeaucourt. When the Germans broke through on Friday morning the General and some of his staff had to make rapid retreat down the road and were nearly caught. The gunner officer was not so quick because of a wound in the knee and fell into the enemies' hands, but they did not trouble to take him back with them when they fled before the British guards.

Think Greatest Danger Passed.

It is too soon yet to claim any decisive results after all this fighting, but in spite of the German gain of ground yesterday the anxiety of the British defence has lifted perceptibly during the last twelve hours and the men of responsibility are breathing more easily again after the hours of suspense and tension, inevitable at such time when the enemy was launching the full weight of his attack. He has struck his heaviest blow, it seems.

At least, the full shock of his first blow, upon which much of his success depended, has been withstood, and the British lines have remained firm, after a few withdrawals, as at Masnières and in the neighborhood of Gonnelieu.

The menace of anything like a big German victory, overbalancing and overwhelming the dramatic British success on Nov. 20, seems to have passed, and with it the grandiose promises of the German command for the inspiration of their soldiers.

A frightful price has been paid by the enemy for his slight progress, and there are good reasons to believe whatever strength they decide to bring up it can be resisted in the same way, with here and there, no doubt, some yielding of ground with orderly withdrawals from positions made too costly to hold against the continual waves of attack and great storms of fire, but without any collapse or a débâcle which might repay the enemy for this last offensive of the year.

His first plan seems to have been well thought out. Against such a salient as we held after the break through the Hindenburg line, it had a chance of success. He was cunning in bringing up his troops secretly as the British had been brought up and in holding the hour of his first attack until the morning patrols had gone round and reported all quiet in his line; but he was disappointed by the utter failure of his northern attack against Bourlon wood and by losing very quickly what advantage he had gained on the British right flank in the first surprise.

After that he was held and punished in a dreadful way, and the grim valor of the British soldiers in fighting him every yard of the way in this fierce, close, and bloody struggle, where human tragedy and human courage are crowded into small plots of ground, has broken the German assault in its first and most decisive phase. That, at least, is the sober hope and belief of the British, though the fortune of war will decide.

Kill Themselves Rather Than Yield.

MONDAY, Dec. 3.—Before the German troops advanced in violent attack against the British lines which began last Friday morning and has been renewed today on the right wing with fresh troops, they were commanded, in an order of the day issued by their General, to retake all the ground they had lost through the British victory on Nov. 20, and it was promised that if they captured six kilometers, they would gain peace.

The German Army on this front has been fighting for a long time under the impulse of these illusory promises of peace. There was to be peace if they held out until August, there was to be peace if they won the battle of Flanders, now there is to be peace if they gain six kilometers of ground lost less than a fortnight ago.

It is a pitiful thing, revealing the peace hunger of men who see nothing but slaughter ahead of them unless they can end this war, but to be just to them, they are fighting as hard as ever they have fought, and with a proud and savage spirit. A few days ago, when the north country infantry made their magnificent attack on Bourlon village, some of the German officers refused to surrender to the accursed English, as they said. Two of them blew out their brains rather than be taken prisoners, and a noncommissioned officer committed hari-kari before the British by thrusting a bayonet into himself. It is proof of the bitterness with which these Germans are fighting.

They belonged to the cockchafers, or Maikäfer, who were shattered by the Welsh in the early days of the Flanders fighting, but other regiments not so famous are sacrificing themselves in their desperate attacks, as on the last day of last month, when they came down west of Bourlon Wood shoulder to shoulder in massed lines and were mowed down by the machine guns and rifle fire of the British and by the field guns, which never before had such human targets.

Germans Again Reinforced.

Today's attack is another thrust from the front, extending between Vendhuile and Epehy, with its spear heads directed against La Vacquerie, Gonnelieu, and other places east of Gouzeaucourt and south of Masnières. A new German division has been brought from Flanders for this new attempt to break the lines. It is the Eighth.

The enemy's attack began this morning with a violent, destructive fire on a wide front, following a storm of gas shells put over during the night and a big battle is now in progress, with the most intense fighting around Gonnelieu and La Vacquerie, and south of Marcoing. It is too soon to give any details, and few reports have come back, but the British are holding their lines with heroic valor against enormous forces, as those battalions fought which stood the first shock of the attack last Friday morning, when the enemy broke through to Gouzeaucourt around by Gonnelieu. There were also some Lancashire troops who had fought in the original British advance. "They must have fought like tigers" is the verdict of the troops near them, but the story of their last stand cannot yet be told.

Heroism at Masnieres.

Before I could mention the British withdrawal from Masnières on Sunday night, I gave a few details of the last fighting there, and that also is a wonderful story of heroism. The British had to encounter ten German attacks in great force, advancing into the suburbs of Les Rues Vetres under the protection of a frightful bombardment. They repulsed these attacks ten times with machine gun and rifle fire until the enemy officers sent back word that their position in this suburb was untenable and they had to retreat from the annihilating fire. But by this time Masnières was at the end of a sharp salient, formed by the enemy's gain of the ridge below, and during the night, according to orders, the British withdrew unknown to the Germans, who were busy with their dead and wounded. Even on Sunday morning the Germans did not know that not a single English soldier remained in Masnières, and they bombarded it anew before sending forward more storm troops in the afternoon, when they discovered its abandonment.

Yesterday afternoon they made three separate attacks on La Vacquerie, and each time were shattered by machine-gun and rifle fire, so that the ground was strewn with their dead. Fighting just as hard and just as terrible made a horror of Gonnelieu. The streets of that village were littered with bodies and the place must be a shambles.

It is difficult to calculate the German losses since that hour of 7:30 o'clock on Friday morning when they made their tremendous attempt to reverse the British victory of Nov. 20 and to recapture their lost ground. The British have inevitably suffered losses, too, in this enormous struggle to beat back the enemy's massed forces and to hold the lines against a great fire, but the enemy's losses in the attack must be fantastic in their tragic numbers. Machine-gun fire has swept their ranks time and time again, bringing down long lines of men, and in the northern part of the attack especially the artillery cut swaths in their battalions.

URGES DECLARATION OF ALLIED WAR AIMS

Italian Finance Minister, However, Deprecates Lansdowne Letter as Untimely.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—I am authorized by Italian Finance Minister Nitti, whose clear-sighted understanding of the present European situation made a great impression at the Interallied Conference, to give his opinion regarding the Lord Lansdowne letter. The Minister said:

"Generally speaking, I consider the letter regrettable, especially as it emanates from a statesman so highly placed and highly esteemed as Lord Lansdowne. Let me say right from the outset that any line of reasoning, however sincere it may be or may appear, that may tend to weaken the combative will of the Allies at this juncture strikes me not only as very ill-advised but as extremely dangerous. If it is not itself 'defeatist' in origin or character, it at least gives a basis on which defeatist arguments may be built.

"In Italy we now know the danger of that, and, rallying from a disaster to which such theories contributed, we are absolutely determined that the only way to a real lasting peace is through victory.

"I believe France and the other Allies now realize that they are one with Italy, that Italy's defeat is theirs and Italy's victory theirs also. This unity is, above all, based on a united conviction that any compromise peace is impossible.

"At the same time, I admit that Lord Lansdowne's suggestion about possible revision of allied war aims does not strike me unfavorably. Too much harm has been done to the Entente cause already by imperialist or self-centred war aims of individual countries, or at least by mutual fear that such aims may be mutually conflicting. What I learn in America makes me sure that your President and people are not in this war to support individual imperialism.

"I do not mean to say that such imperialism exists, but all the same I cannot help being in agreement with Lord Lansdowne on this one point, that it would be desirable to make a frank, unanimous declaration of allied war aims, perhaps not entirely specific, but at least definite enough to show that no ideas of selfish conquest or aggrandizement are entertained by any of us. Such a declaration could do no harm, and would be proof of our complete unity of purpose and action."

ASQUITH UPHOLDS LANSDOWNE LETTER

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The Manchester Guardian today says it understands that a meeting of the opposition Liberal leaders, at which former Premier Asquith was present, was entirely favorable to the recent Lansdowne letter, although some of the leaders went further than others in their approval.

When Mr. Asquith speaks at Birmingham on Monday his reference to the letter, The Guardian predicts, will be "to say the least, sympathetic."

GERMAN EXCHANGE RISES.

Fluctuation in Holland Attributed to Peace Rumors.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 4.—The rapid rise in the exchange rate of the German mark is undoubtedly due to peace rumors, in the opinion of international financial circles, and the view is held that in this case peace would mean a German peace.

ASSEMBLY MAY CURB BOLSHEVIST POWER

stituent Assembly are gradually revealing the will of the nation and preparing a definite change in the political situation. In ten days' or a fortnight's time 400 or 500 members of the Constituent Assembly will meet in Petrograd.

If any idea retains national authority in Russia it is the idea of the Constituent Assembly. Supposing the Bolshevist Government holds out until the Constituent Assembly, and supposing even that is secures a majority, its position will be very different from what it now is. It will no longer be a secret body governing by dictatorial and autocratic methods. It will be exposed to fierce criticism. Every step it takes will be checked and controlled. It will be compelled to take into account real economic and political facts, and for its own security it will have to show itself competent to carry out a real national policy.

The opening of the Constituent Assembly may be attended by disorders and by attempts at coercion, but this will not involve political gain to any party that tries such tactics, and though some Bolshevist leaders now threaten to disperse the Assembly at the bayonet's point if it does not submit to their will, it is doubtful whether they will really venture the attempt.

The peace question is much broader and more fundamental than that of Bolshevist authority. The Bolsheviki may come or go, but it is an incontestable fact that great masses of the Russian people ardently desire peace. They cannot be blamed if amidst the confusion and anarchy, with famine staring them in the face, they clutch at a promise of a quick and easy peace.

Russia is now reaping the bitter fruits of the old régime which lingered on until it succeeded in penetrating with dry rot the whole political organism. It is only now that complete documentary evidence has been secured of the extent to which corruption had gone and of the obstinacy with which the Czar's Government clung to power in face of obvious peril to the state.

In 1916, as numerous documents now show, Nicholas II. knew more than any one in Russia of the sweep and power of the revolutionary movement, and yet he did not even grant a responsible Ministry, which might have staved off the peril till the end of the war.

But here now is a people athirst for peace and an army demoralized by a promise of immediate peace negotiations. For the present the negotiations deal only with an armistice, but no doubt feelers will be put forth as to peace terms, including terms for Russia's allies. Theoretically the German command is negotiating at present with the Russian military authorities, though most of the Russian delegates are civilians.

The position of the German Government is not altogether simple. The Chancellor speaks in the Reichstag of proposals of the Russian Government, although he and every German knows it is only in a very limited sense that the Bolsheviki can be regarded as a Government, and that they are repudiated by large sections of Russian opinion. For the Kaiser's Government to negotiate with the Bolsheviki involves certain loss of prestige at home, and German Socialists might very well demand that the Government which negotiates officially with extreme Russian Socialists should give more consideration to its own Socialists.

Everything that strengthens the authority of the Bolshevist Government in Russia, any formal submission of large sections of responsible Russian opinion would strengthen the hands of the German Government in face of the perplexity of its own people. The Bolsheviki feel the anomaly, and the Pravda, as though to apologize to its readers for dealings with the German imperialists, remarks that it is unpleasant, of course, for Krylenko to talk with Hindenburg, but that it is equally unpleasant for Hindenburg to talk with Krylenko.

Likely Terms of Peace.

The Germans will offer the independence of Russian Poland, Lithuania, and Courland, obviously a fictitious independence under German control. It is for the Bolsheviki to demand and obtain, if they can, the inclusion of Austrian and Prussian Poland in an independent Poland and of Prussian Lithuania in an independent Lithuania. An indemnity the Germans will hardly demand, since Russia has nothing but debts, but they may offer financial assistance in return for economic control and a one-sided commercial treaty.

But supposing the present negotiations break down, the possibilities are slight that the bulk of the Russian Army can be restored to a fighting condition. During the last few days there has been fraternizing on the western front, of which the Germans took advantage to send their own officers disguised as soldiers far into the Russian lines. Attempts of Russians to enter the German lines were frequently checked by German guns, for fraternizing cuts both ways, and the Germans are playing with a fire that they may possibly not be able to quench.

In any case, the fact must be faced that, one way or the other, Russia, despite the will of the best elements of the population, will have to retire from the war. This is a heavy blow for the Allies, but we should be playing into German hands if we allowed our mortification to endanger permanently our relations with Russia. When a nation has lost its political cohesion it cannot intelligently express its national will. We cannot contemptuously abandon this whole, great people because of a temporary fit of madness, the causes of which lie deep in the history of years of oppression.

Russia, after all her humiliation, will rise again in some new form and we shall have very seriously to count with her in later stages of European history. Perhaps we shall have to part with Russia as a fighting ally, but if on our side the parting is friendly and warmly sympathetic, if we can show the Russian people that we understand their insuperable difficulties and that for the sake of the great battles we have fought together and the great sacrifices we have all made in the common cause we are prepared to continue our moral support, then this greatest trial of the war will not be an unmitigated loss. But to give full vent to indignation, to denounce the whole Russian people as deliberate traitors, would be the surest way of driving Russia finally into the arms of Germany.

Our task is immensely difficult. It demands a high degree of moral courage, self-restraint, and faith in freedom, but its resolute accomplishment is only a guarantee of real victory.

SWEDEN NOT A GO-BETWEEN.

Has Not Acted for Bolsheviki and Germany, Foreign Office Says.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 4.—The Swedish Foreign Office authorizes The Associated Press to deny the report published in Paris and elsewhere to the effect that the Swedish Legation in Petrograd offered or is about to offer its services as intermediary between the Bolshevist Government and Germany.

The Swedish Minister to Russia, it is explained, joined with other neutral diplomatic representatives in acknowledging the receipt of M. Trotsky's note regarding armistice and peace negotiations, but this was merely an act of courtesy in no wise involving recognition of the Leninites.

The Foreign Office refuses to discuss the academic question whether Sweden is likely to recognize the Bolsheviki at some future time. It is learned in well-informed circles, however, that there is no likelihood of such recognition unless the Entente Powers should take the lead.

BOASTS OF JUDSON'S VISIT.

Trotzky Sees in It Washington's Intent to Recognize Bolsheviki.

PETROGRAD, Saturday, Dec. 1.—Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister, has taken the recent note sent by Lieut. Col. William V. Judson, chief of the American Military Mission to Russia, to the Chief of the General Staff at Petrograd, in which the American officer said he saw no reasons why the relations of the Allies to Russia or to any influential part of its population should not rest on the most friendly basis, as an effort to cultivate friendly relations with the Bolshevist Government.

Speaking before the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council today Trotzky dealt with this note and the protest made by Major Kerth, American Military Attaché, to General Dukhonin against the Russian negotiations for an armistice with Germany.

"The Allies lost their presence of mind," he said. "This alone would explain the almost simultaneous appearance of the two documents—the letter of Major Kerth to General Dukhonin and the letter of Lieut. Col. Judson, his chief. If you read them, you see the one absolutely conflicts with the standpoints of the other.

"However, this is not the chief affair. Today there came to the Smolny Institute (the Bolshevist headquarters) two Americans who had close relations with the American capitalistic classes, who informed me that the state of mind in America was correctly stated in the letter of Lieut. Col. Judson and not in the letter of Major Kerth."

In the Novaia Zhizn, Thotzky comments upon Colonel Judson's statement as follows:

"For the first time since the revolution we hear from the lips of a representative of the Allied Powers a sanction of the right of Russia to bring forward the question of peace, independent of 'victories' on the front or the overthrow of 'Prussian imperialism.' The recognition comes somewhat late, perhaps, and many will smile when reading how Lieut.-Col. Judson 'makes a virtue of necessity.'

"It is difficult to deny a country the right of raising the question of a general peace when it is on the eve of a separate one. In any case the words of the representative of America raise the hope that the question of peace may be put on a more solid foundation and encompassed with fewer dangers than has been the case thus far.

"I am inclined to believe that this state of affairs has arisen, not because of the platonic sympathy of America toward Russia, of which American capitalists wish to convince me, but because, after the events of the last days, the American diplomats have understood that they cannot overcome the Russian revolution and therefore wish to cultivate friendly relations, thinking this would be a splendid means for meeting the competition of Germans and English capital after the war."

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 4.—The pro-German press in Sweden is greatly elated over the report that Lieut. Col. William P. Judson, Chief of the American Military Mission to Russia, paid a friendly visit to Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister, at Petrograd, and "assured him that Russia had a right to start peace negotiations," and that "the time for menaces against the Bolsheviki had passed."

The Dagbladet says: "This means, assuming that Lieut. Col. Judson acted under instructions from Washington, that the Entente may expect little help from America in a war to the bitter end."

Even newspapers friendly to the Allies see in Colonel Judson's reported action indications that "America inclines to accept the consequences of the Bolshevist rule and that France and England will be left to carry on the war alone."

The Russian Minister to Sweden, M. Goulkevitch, is openly incredulous concerning the report. He said he did not believe it and declared that it was either a direct falsehood or had been improperly reported over the Bolshevist controlled telegraph line.

ASK NOBEL PRIZE FOR LENINE AND TROTZKY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 4.—The Norwegian Zimmerwald Socialists; that is, the active pacifists, have lodged a proposal before the Nobel Committee at Stockholm that the Nobel Peace Prize should be awarded to Lenine and Trotzky.

In acknowledging its receipt the Chairman of the Nobel Committee, Mr. Loewland, the Swedish Minister of State, says that the proposal comes too late for this year, but that if the present Government in Russia is able to create peace and order he would regard it as reasonable for the prize to be awarded to Lenine and Trotzky next year.

LEOPOLD WELCOMES TRUCE EMISSARIES

Amsterdam Hears Preliminary Armistice, Valid for 48 Hours, Has Been Signed.

BERLIN, Dec. 4, (via London.)—Negotiations for an armistice on the Russian front have begun, the War Office announces. The statement reads:

A Russian deputation for the conclusion of an armistice was welcomed yesterday afternoon by the Commander in Chief of the East, Prince Leopold of Bavaria, in a short speech. Negotiations regarding the conclusion of an armistice were thereupon begun, in which, under the Chairmanship of the Chief of the General Staff, General Hoffman, the representative of the German land and sea fighting forces, and the plenipotentiaries of the chief army administrations of Bulgaria, Austria-Hungary, and Turkey are participating.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—An armistice between Russia and Germany has been signed at the headquarters of Prince Leopold of Bavaria, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam today. The armistice is valid for a period of forty-eight hours. This is supposed to be merely a preliminary arrangement.

The Maximalist Government, says a Petrograd dispatch to The Daily News, has issued a manifesto to German and Austrian soldiers which will be distributed in great numbers by airplanes and other means to the Austro-German army. The manifesto sets forth the aims of the Bolsheviki, with a list of social, economic, and political measures they already have taken. It also appeals to the soldiers to help them end the war, promising that if they assist peace will be declared within a few days and the other nations will join.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 4.—Camille Huysmans, Secretary of the Socialist Internationale, who is now in Gothenburg, according to an interview printed in the Afton Tidningen, deplores events in Russia as making the peace outlook darker. Even if Germany could withdraw all her troops from the eastern front, he says, she would still lack the material superiority necessary to overcome the resistance of the Allies. Therefore, he concludes, the war is likely to be prolonged for months because of the recent happenings in Russia.

M. Huysmans, who is on his way to Holland, is the bearer of a British report to the Dutch-Scandinavian Committee regarding German atrocities in Serbia. He declared, according to the Afton Tidningen, that the report was of such a nature that it would arouse a cry of indignation from the whole world.

CRIMEA NOW SECEDES.

Republic Established with Omsk as the Capital—Kuban Also Goes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAPARANDA, Sweden, Dec. 4.—According to reports arriving here Siberia has detached itself from Russia in Europe and has established a republic. A Government has been set up at Omsk, with Potapin as Prime Minister. This new Government is in occupation of the palace of the former Russian Governor General, and the Siberian flag is flying upon all public buildings.

All parts of Siberia have adhered to the new republic. A proclamation by the republic is expected, recalling the Siberian troops from the front.

Kuban, a territory in the northern Caucasus, is also said to have seceded and formed its own Government with the Mayor of Baku as Premier.

UKRAINE A FULL REPUBLIC.

Officers and Troops at Front Recognize Its War Ministry.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Sunday, Dec. 2.—The Ukrainian Bureau here issued a detailed statement of the developments in Ukraine. It is to the following effect: On the outbreak of the Bolshevist revolution a committee was formed to safeguard the revolution in Ukraine. This committee is acting as the chief organ of the revolutionary democracy.

The Russian Military Staff in the Kiev district interfered by force against the Ukrainian authorities, but Ukrainian regiments arrived from the southern Polish front, and the Russian General Staff was forced to take to flight. Thereupon all power, civil and military, was taken over by the General Secretary of Ukraine.

On Nov. 26 the Rada issued a manifesto to the Ukrainian people proclaiming the Rada as the depository of all power through the whole territory of Ukrainia. On Nov. 24 the Rada passed a vote in favor of a proposal for a Constitution of a republic of Ukrainia, this proposal to be submitted to a Ukrainian constituent assembly. Elections for this constituent assembly will be organized by the revolutionary committee.

A resolution, proposed by a social revolutionary member, has been carried in the Rada, declaring that the Rada shall be the governing authority in all territories inhabited by a Ukraine majority. This means that even the Governments of Skhesson, Ekaterioslav, Khartoff, Tairida, and Cholm and parts of the governments of Veroness and Kursk form a part of the new republic, which will extend to the Black Sea, Odessa, and Crimea, and eastward to the Don Cossacks.

The executive of the marine section of the third military congress has reported upon the Ukrainization of the Black Sea fleet and the organization of Ukrainian territory along the Black Sea.

On Nov. 23 the Rada established a commission with special authority over the Ukrainian portion of the front. General Volotslienko has addressed a telegram to the Rada declaring he and his General Staff recognize the Ukrainian Ministry of War.

The wonderful color work of the master artists of those periods finds exquisite expression in the paintings adorning these fans, while the mountings—of marvellously carved ivory and pearl, richly embellished with precious metals—are in themselves genuine works of art.

Supplementing this assemblage of antiques, there are many handsome fans of later origin, as well as Vernis-Martin reproductions of singular attractiveness.

ENGINEERS JEST OVER FIRST BATTLE

"Doggonedest Experience I Ever Had," Says American Who Helped British.

QUICK-WITTED IN DANGER

Germans Whom They Fought Showed Disregard of Slaughter by British Machine Guns.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, Sunday, Dec. 2.—I had not time to tell yesterday of my meeting by chance a number of American railway men and engineers, who had been engaged in construction work near Gouzeaucourt and running up trains laden with supplies for the British troops in the neighborhood of Villers-Pluich and Villers-Guislain.

I saw these men yesterday morning after they had been surrounded by the Germans for hours and had then, with great cunning, made their escape to the British lines. They are a splendid body of men, hard and keen and good-humored, who made a joke of their thrilling adventure and of their present danger, which was not at an end, as the Germans were putting over heavy shells at odd moments and one burst, with an enormous explosion, only 100 yards or so away from them when I stood among them.

"I guess I had better call," said one of them from St. Louis; and he told me how when he was standing by his train, which had a full load of rations for the English troops, he was suddenly startled by shells bursting around his engine, and saw the enemy approaching over the ridge by Villers-Guislain.

"One of your Tommies was standing near me," said he, "and he bent down and picked up a bit of shrapnel and said, 'Blowed if it ain't hot'; and then he looked up again and said, 'I am blessed if old Fritz hasn't gone and broken through.' Just as he said that a shell burst close, and the poor lad was killed, not an arm's length away from me. I guessed it was time to quit, and I ran hard, and found the enemy all around me. So I took to hiding in a shell hole, and lay there until this morning."

Four of his comrades in the engine crew had the same experience and one was wounded in the thigh, but they all had the luck to escape.

Improvised a Tin Helmet.

Another American engineman was first startled by a German airplane which came straight down the track near Villers-Pluich, flying very low and firing a machine gun.

"I hadn't a steel hat handy," said this man, "so I picked up a petrol tin and put that on my head, and thought it might be better than nothing. Then I saw the Germans and thought to myself, this is a queer kind of a fix for a fellow from America, laying rails behind English lines. So I crouched down behind the engine and hoped the Germans would not see me. I guess they didn't, or I shouldn't be here."

Another American came up with a grin on his face:

"I'm from Tennessee," he said. He was a tall, lean, swarthy fellow.

"What happened to you?" I asked. He told me that all sorts of things had happened to him since 6 o'clock the previous morning, but he hadn't time to tell the yarn except that after his escape from the Germans, who were all round him, he got through and borrowed a Tommy's gun and fought all day with the British infantry and liked it.

"It's not the first time I've held a gun in my hand," he said. "I was in the Spanish-American war and in other places. I guess I knocked out a few Boches for you."

One of the American railway teams had their track blown up ahead of them by the forward patrols of the Germans, and these also tell me that they thought it time to quit and did quit. But afterward they formed part of some patrols who volunteered for service with the British infantry, and so saw some very hard fighting with the British guards at Gouzeaucourt. Among them were a number of New York men. All these Americans showed a high and splendid spirit, and the British are loud in praise of them.

"It was the doggonedest experience I ever had," said one of them, "and a mighty close call anyway."

They had some casualties among them, but by good luck only a few.

False Report Gave a Shock.

I have described in as much detail as possible what happened at Gouzeacourt and the neighborhood when the enemy drove in the British line and swept forward over some of the newly gained ground, but I have not yet told much about the beginning of that attack, or the most ambitious part of the attack on the northern side of the salient that same morning.

All through the night it had been quiet about Bourlon Wood. At 4:30 o'clock, before the dawn, the British there and those left by Tadpole Copse and troops to the right of Boeuvres reported all quiet. It was not until several hours later that one or two abrupt messages came back from the front line, and then no more: "Enemy advancing on us." "Heavy concentration of hostile troops coming down past Quarry Wood." "Enemy approaching our brigade headquarters."

Approaching brigade headquarters! Why, that was well behind the lines. If that was true, the enemy had broken through and there would be the devil to pay. It was not true about the brigade headquarters.

The message was in error and meant to say "battalion headquarters," which was quite another thing, but it gave a shock to the officers who were receiving other messages from their right, reporting that the enemy had broken through at Gonhelieu and Villers-Guislan, and that later he was on the west side of Gouzeaucourt, and that many British had been surrounded—a shock, but nothing to cause a loss of nerve to men who know that the great sum of human life depends on their coolness to deal with a crisis like this.

"Are your guns all right?" went the question down the wire, and the answer came back: "We're all right. Killing them in hundreds."

Germans in Gray Waves.

At 9:15 o'clock large bodies of German troops to the strength of a division were seen entering Moeuvres. An hour later an "S O S" went up on the west side of the canal du Nord, and thirty-five minutes later on the east side of the canal. Long waves of men in field gray were seen coming like slow-moving waves over the rolling ground toward the Bapaume-Cambrai road southwest of Bourlon Forest.

They were seen by English soldiers lying behind machine guns in the tussocky grass with their rifles ready. Standing on the firesteps of the trenches below Moeuvres, on the west bank of the canal, and standing to the guns, field batteries and howitzers in the open country, not far back from these advancing hordes, the British were staring at these gray fellows who came over with packs on their backs.

"They looked as if they was come to stay," said a cockney fellow afterward, and then he added with a grim laugh, "and they was."

Some of them stayed alive and many of them stayed dead. The British machine guns were arranged for an attack like this. They had been waiting for it. They had arranged a direct barrage fire and an enfilade fire to kill an attack or counterattack any way it should come, and now, on that Friday morning, they let go and fired, as the British machine gunners rarely fired before, in steady sweeps of bullets, belt after belt, till each machine-gun team had a great litter of spent belts lying around them. One battery alone fired over 70,000 rounds at fewer than ten successive waves of German infantry.

Like Oriental Fatalism.

As the British know from prisoners, they were Germans of the 49th, 16th, and 20th Divisions. These men advanced with more than Oriental disregard of death. The foremost lines were swept by machine gun, rifle, and artillery fire, and fell dead and wounded in the grass. Other men came behind them and fell. Others followed, and others—these waves of field-gray fellows—and always they came a little nearer, in spite of their losses, the survivors closing up the ranks and coming forward until they were within 1,000 yards of the British machine guns, which were still sweeping them as scythes sweep a line of wheat.

Then in the centre they wavered, broke, and fled, followed by all the British fire, by heavy artillery as well as light artillery, and rifle fire, and more machine-gun fire.

Only on the German right and the British left did the enemy enter the British line. That was in the trenches on the outskirts of Moeuvres, just north of the Cambrai Road, where the British held a German communication trench running up at right angles from the old German trench system, now in British hands.

The British here had to retreat from that isolated bit of trench, and to abandon about 200 yards of the old German support trenches, but not without hard fighting. It was fighting with bayonet and bombs, and it is still fighting with bayonet and bombs, for it is going on now as for three days past, and the British say they have been killing Germans all that time.

Before these trenches there is a litter of dead, but there are more where long lines came over west of Bourlon Wood and like water, instead of human life, followed in wave after wave and were spilled upon the earth.

Thirty prisoners have been taken in the trenches where the enemy penetrated. They talk of their losses like men who have seen a great tragedy—incredible losses if one did but know the truth. They believe the German high command will not order another attack like that because of its cost.

GIVES UP OBSERVATION CARS

Pennsylvania Announces Discontinuation on Limited Trains.

The Pennsylvania Railroad will discontinue, beginning tomorrow, the operation of observation cars in both directions on the Pennsylvania Limited and the Manhattan Limited between New York and Chicago and the St. Louisan between New York and St. Louis. As these trains are operated daily in both directions, the observation cars will be withdrawn on six daily runs.

To take the place of the observation cars each train will carry an additional Pullman sleeper, so that the carrying capacity of all six trains will be increased without adding to the number of cars. The switching necessary in the handling of observation cars will also be avoided. The elimination of the observation cars on the limited trains between the East and West follows the entire discontinuance of the Broadway Limited between New York and Chicago, which was made effective Dec. 1.

OVERCOATS
That Are Good for Several Winters

Yearly Style Changes make no inroads on the smart, conservative lines of this popular model. Well tailored, of dependable fabric, a Chesterfield should prove a splendid investment for the man who believes in getting the maximum of "overcoat service" for his money. For instance, these—

Men's Silk Lined
OVERCOATS
(Winter-weight Chesterfield Model)

Specially Priced at $27.50

Of black or oxford unfinished worsted, silk lined throughout; velvet collars.

Most of them are made in the regular Chesterfield model—a few are made with slightly fitted backs that add to their smartness. All sizes, including regulars, stouts, longs and shorts—and at a price that is unequaled elsewhere.

Burberry's and Other London-Made Overcoats
$44.50 to $64.50

SUFFRAGISTS NAME DISTRICT LEADERS

MISS HAY IS INDORSED

Results of Contests Will Be Announced Later—Nonpartisan Resolution Read at Meetings.

The Woman's Suffrage Party of New York City yesterday held Assembly district conventions in the sixty-two districts of the city to choose Assembly district leaders and other district officers, nine delegates and alternates to the five borough conventions, to be held shortly, and eighteen delegates and alternates to the city convention, which follows the borough conventions.

Nominations for officers of the borough organizations and of the city party as a whole were voted upon. The district leaders at the borough conventions will cast their votes for those indorsed at the district conventions. There was no opposition to the Manhattan Borough elections and the city tickets and these were elected unanimously. Miss Mary Garrett Hay was indorsed for a seventh year of party leadership.

That the women might keep clearly before them the purposes of continuing the organization in existence, a resolution passed by the party and read at all the conventions provided that the organization continue its nonpartisan policy and that no officers, leaders, or captains of the organization ally themselves with any political parties for the present. The resolution further provided that the organization devote its best energies to enable women to obtain the civic and political knowledge necessary to good citizenship.

The Nominating Committee, composed of Mrs. Robert T. Oliver, Chairman; Miss Gratia Goller, Miss Emily Hooper, Mrs. Margaret Fay, and Miss Louise Flynn prepared the following city and borough tickets, which were indorsed:

CITY TICKET.

Chairman—Miss Mary Garrett Hay.
First Vice Chairman—Mrs. F. Louis Slade.
Second Vice Chairman—Mrs. Richard Aldrich.
Third Vice Chairman—Mrs. George Notman, Brooklyn.
Fourth Vice Chairman—Miss Annie Doughty.
Fifth Vice Chairman—Mrs. F. Robertson Jones.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Thomas B. Wells.
Corresponding Secretary—Miss Adaline W. Sterling.

DIRECTORS.

Bronx—Mrs. Louis Reed Welzmiller.
Brooklyn—Mrs. Alice Parker Hutchins.
Manhattan—Dr. Katharine B. Davis.
Richmond—Mrs. Charles Simonson.

MANHATTAN BOROUGH TICKET.

Chairman—Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany.
First Vice Chairman—Mrs. Joseph Deane.
Second Vice Chairman—Miss Ethel Stebbins.
Third Vice Chairman—Mrs. Herbert L. Pratt.
Fourth Vice Chairman—Mrs. Jarvis R. Fairchild.
Recording Secretary—Miss Mary Potter.
Corresponding Secretary—Miss Charlotte Delafield.
Director—Dr. Katharine B. Davis.
Treasurer—Mrs. Richard Billings.

First District—Mrs. Margaret Fay.
Ninth District—Mrs. L. Losey.
Tenth District—Miss Ethel Stebbins.
Eleventh District—Mrs. Robert T. Oliver.
Twelfth District—Mrs. Edward Van Zile.
Sixteenth District—Miss Louise Flynn.
Seventeenth District—Mrs. Emily Weisberg.
Nineteenth District—Miss Annie Mathews.

In districts where there were contests the result will be announced in a few days. In the Third District Mrs. Catherine Cunningham and Miss Margaret Hinchey are the candidates for leadership. In the Fifth District there were four candidates—Mrs. K. Buckley Withrow, Mrs. Mary Parisen, Mrs. M. Wilson, and Miss L. Bohan. In the Eighth District Miss Louise Tucker, Mrs. A. Levitt, and Mrs. A. Friptu were the candidates.

In answer to questions as to the attitude of the Brooklyn Woman Suffrage Party toward candidates at the coming special elections to fill vacancies in the New York delegation to Congress, Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney, Chairman of the party's City Congressional Committee, said yesterday that her party will take no part in the election as a distinct woman's organization. It was announced yesterday that the following Brooklyn delegates to the National Suffrage Convention in Washington had been named: Mrs. H. Edward Dreier, Mrs. Frederick L. Cranford, Mrs. William A. Prendergast, Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney, and Mrs. Alice Parker Hutchins.

The Woman's Municipal League, of which Mrs. Henry Bruère is Chairman, has sent a questionnaire to more than 300 women's organizations in the city asking them to state whether they are planning the civic education of new voters as a special work for the coming year, and if so what group they expect to reach and what means they expect to emphasize, whether by special classes, special courses of lectures or talks, or the distribution of educational literature. The body is compiling this information, believing that women must contribute something new to politics, and that a higher type of citizenship can be developed through emphasis upon the human and social values rather than merely upon political issues.

Captain Foss an Attache.

Special to The New York Times.

NYACK, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Captain William P. Foss, Jr., son of a wealthy quarry owner of Upper Nyack, who was recently commissioned an army officer, hurried to Washington today upon receiving an assignment as Military Aid to the United States Embassy at Madrid.

WANT SHIP OFFICERS EXEMPT FROM DRAFT

Representatives of Deck and Engine-Room Men Fear Shortage in Merchant Service.

Representatives of 20,000 deck and engine room officers in the American merchant marine met yesterday in the Custom House and protested against the drafting for military duty of men qualified to serve as officers or engineers of steamships.

William S. Brown, national President of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association, said:

"The Government is taking away experienced men from the ships, where trained officers were never so much wanted as they are now, and is sending them to camps to be trained as soldiers, while we are obliged to find men to take their places. It takes much longer to train a sea-going man than it does to train a soldier. I have here a list of thirty qualified engineers who have been taken for service as soldiers. These men should now be serving on their ships carrying supplies to our soldiers in France, and would be if left alone by the draft."

Minton Quits District Attorney's Staff.

Assistant District Attorney John McKim Minton, Jr., announcel last night that he had resigned and would enter the law firm of Edwards & Murphy at 32 Liberty Street.

CAPT. ANDERSON DANA MARRIES MISS WEED

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Miss Katryna Ten Broek Weed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Standish Weed of this place, and Captain Anderson Dana, recently commissioned from the Plattsburg training camp, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dana of New York City and grandson of the late Charles A. Dana, were married here today at 10 o'clock, in Trinity Episcopal Church. The officiating clergymen were the Rev. Albert Gale, rector of the church, and the Rev. William Atherton Lawrence, a son of Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts.

The bride wore the gown and veil which her grandmother, Mrs. Caroline Standish Weed, had worn at her marriage, and which her sister, Miss Caroline Weed, wore last April when she became the bride of Dr. Derrie Parmenter. An interesting coincident was that the three weddings took place in the same church.

The wedding was quiet and attended only by the near relatives and a few intimate friends of the bridal couple, including some of the officers from the Plattsburg barracks.

Miss Elizabeth Clarkson of Tivoli, N. Y., was the bride's only attendant, and Louis W. Noel of New York acted as best man. The ushers were Lawrence Miller, Major Lewis Wallace, and Ensign De Coursey Fales of New York.

POLICE THREATEN STRIKE.

Philadelphia Officers Object to Exploitation by Political Ring.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—Eight hundred policemen, representative of the membership of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association in every police station in this city, at a protest meeting yesterday solidly "voted resignation as a body" unless Mayor Smith and Council take immediate action on the organization's demand to eliminate politics from the administrative affairs of the Department of Public Safety.

The delegates unanimously adopted plans for a great police demonstration. This will include a march upon City Hall and the Councilmanic Chamber at the next meeting of the Council.

Spurred on by earnest speeches of their leaders and finally by the announcement that Director Wilson of the Department of Public Safety had dismissed from the department Harry F. Johns, President of the association, the delegates uttered defiance to the Mayor and his Cabinet in the present situation. To a man they declared their willingness to resign from the department rather than endure further "abuse at the hands of every petty politician and ward leader in the city."

Final action on the proposal to strike was laid over for a special meeting to be held Thursday night. After this session, leaders of the association said, there might be an immediate cessation of the greater portion of police work in Philadelphia. The men, already promised better paying positions in nearby shipyards and munition factories, said they would "turn in their badges and clubs" within three-quarters of an hour after a general vote was recorded.

TO VOTE ON AMENDMENTS.

House Committee Will Act on Suffrage and Prohibition Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Nation-wide prohibition and nation-wide woman suffrage constitutional amendments will be voted on in the House Judiciary Committee next Tuesday.

An ineffectual effort was made today by Representative Raker of California, speaking for the suffragists, to have the committee yield jurisdiction over the suffrage question to the newly created woman suffrage committee. Chairman Webb and others ruled that constitutional amendments properly belong to the Judiciary Committee.

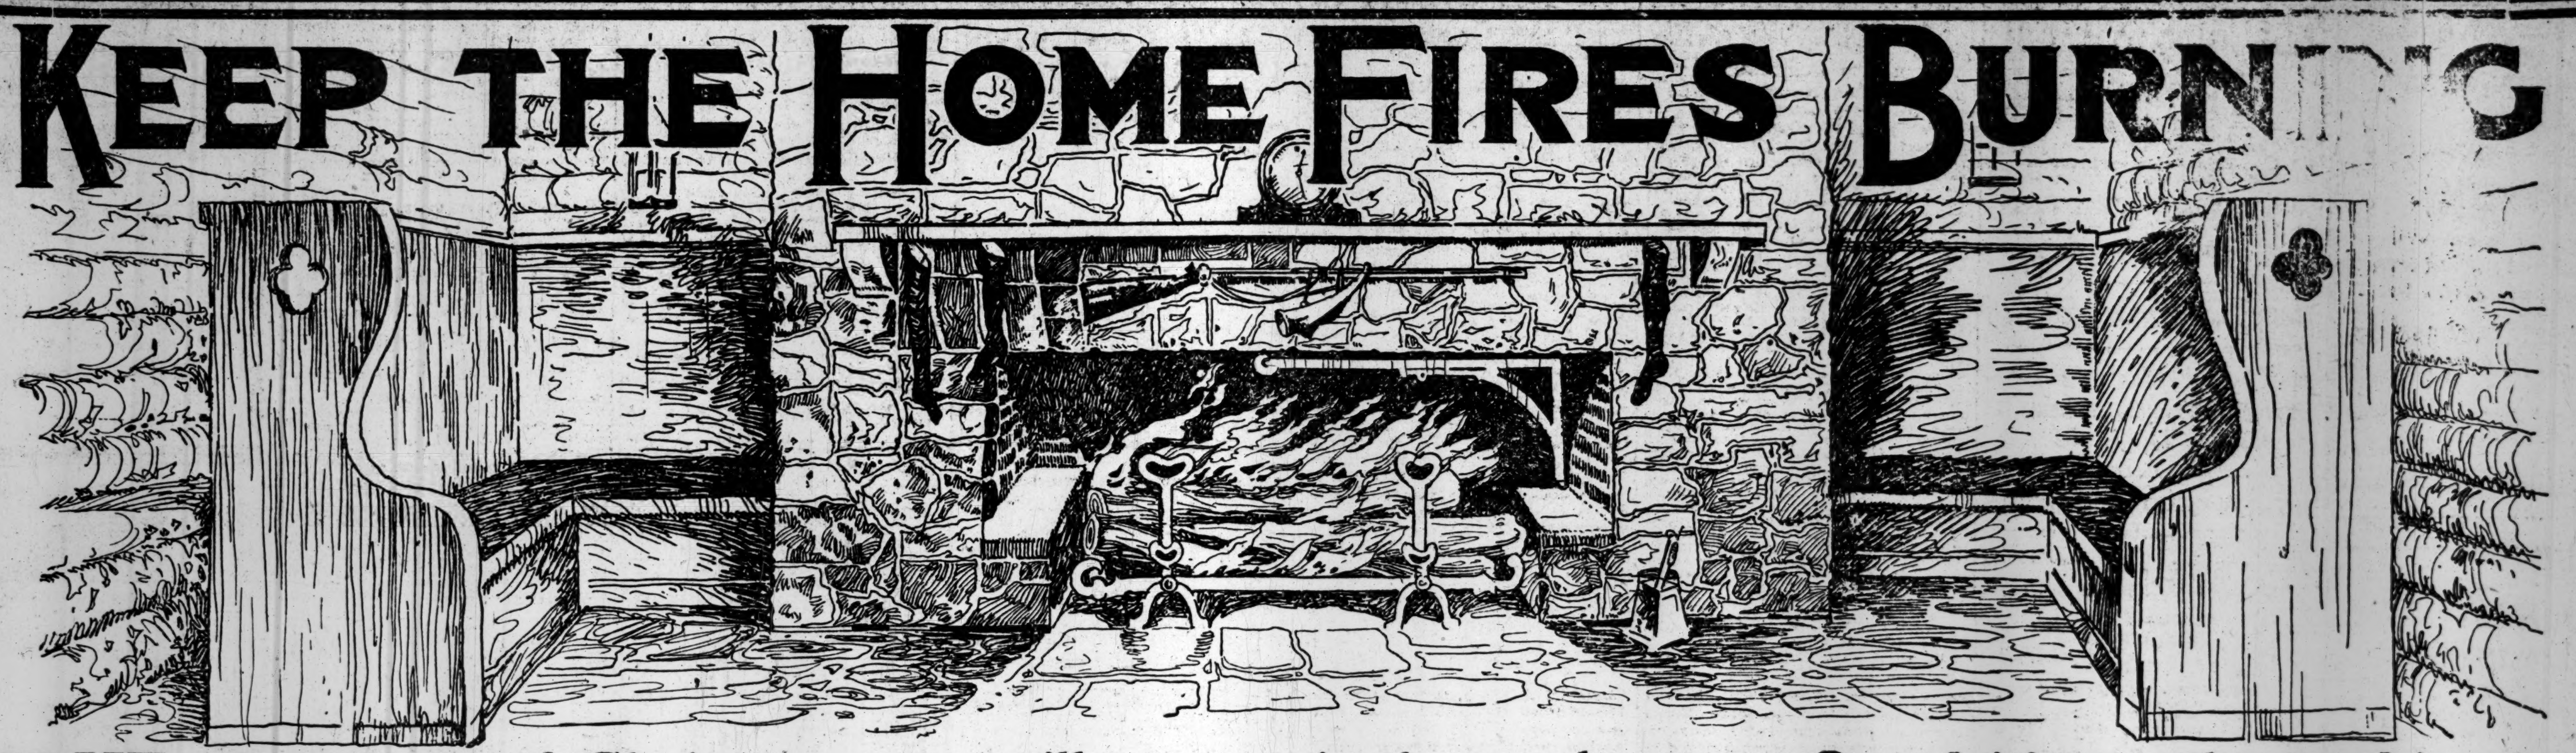
KEEP THE HOME FIRES BURNING



THE yearnings of Christmas are still strong in home hearts. Our faiths and our friendships, our loves and our longings, find tongue anew as the Day of Days approaches.

Let us not neglect one another.

With the picture in the crackling yulelogs of those who are serving the world in its Greatest Trial, let us still keep these home fires burning—as they would have us do who are fighting for their country, their firesides and you.

Gifts to the Soldiers and the Sailors first—useful, outdoor things which mean added comfort—camp conveniences and pastimes which bring moments of enjoyment where such moments are all too few.

And then, simple tokens of esteem from one to another here at home—remembrances decked with the spirit of the day—gifts sturdy in character and essentially of good cheer.

With such sturdy and timely gifts is this house filled to repletion.

BLACKLISTS 1,600 GERMAN FIRMS

MANY BIG BANKS INCLUDED

HITS ARGENTINE UTILITIES

German-Owned Traffic Lines in Buenos Aires May Be Forced to Shut Down.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Every weapon that the United States Government posseses under the provisions of the Trading With the Enemy act is to be used in a relentless war to crush the commercial and financial power which Germany and its allies have obtained in Latin America.

The War Trade Board made public today its first "blacklist" of German-controlled banks and industries in South America, Cuba, and Mexico which are accused of aiding in fomenting rebellions, spreading propaganda, and otherwise aiding the Central Powers.

The list contains the names of more than 1,600 concerns with which American banks and industries are forbidden to deal except under license. All shipments to these concerns, it is understood will be stopped entirely, and imports will be allowed to enter this country only to liquidate debts. Where these imports are for firms that are controlled by German money they will be seized by the Alien Property Custodian, sold, and the receipts used for the purchase of Liberty bonds, or in some other direction which will aid in the war against Germany.

In the "blacklist" are included the great banks, manufacturies and public utilities of Argentina, representing the most powerful and dangerous combination of German capital in Latin America.

Steps have been taken already to tear away the grip that combination of interests has in the republic to the South, and all shipments to the public utilities of Buenos Aires have been held up. The great German controlled corporations which have been entirely dependent upon American coal have been forced to the extreme of burning oil and wood to keep power stations for electric railways and electric lighting systems in operation. A rough estimate made tonight of the capital involved in the industries and banks on the American "blacklist" place it at not less than $3,000,000,000. The list is not complete, and additions will be made from time to time.

Bank Boycott Likely.

Agitation has been started also for a bank boycott in which the allies of America would be asked to join, in a concerted move to destroy credits and render the German-controlled banks and industries impotent not only in the Latin American countries, but in the northern ueutral nations of Europe as well.

At present American, British, and French banks are not having financial dealings with German banks in these countries. Backers of the complete boycott would extend this attack to the extreme of having the banks of the allied nations refuse to have dealings with all banks of Latin American countries and the northern ueutrals which have dealings with the German-controlled financial institutions.

This policy would make it impossible for the German banks to exist for the purpose of extending credits to the German-controlled industries. In the northern neutral countries the proposed bank boycott would extend, of course, to all banks of the neutrals dealing directly with Germany.

Definite action along this line has not been decided upon, but it is receiving serious consideration. England and France did not adopt so severe a method before America entered the war, largely, it is understood, because German banking interests were able to obtain the aid needed for their existence from American banks.

This phase of the fight upon the action of German capital in Latin America is a question for diplomatic deliberation, as its adoption would have a decided effect upon the financial condition of the Latin-American countries. Similar considerations have been brought forward in regard to the policy of withholding coal from the public utilities of Argentina, but the War Trade Board up to this time has been firm in its stand and believes that public sentiment is behind this drastic move to destroy the German financial prestige in the countries involved.

Whether a stoppage of coal will reduce the public utilities to a place where electric railways and electric lighting plants will be unable to operate is a point not positively established. If that proved the case the Argentine Government would be forced to take them over and then would be permitted to have sufficient coal to operate them.

While many of the firms on the first "blacklist" are small ones, the central group, agencies of which are established in most of the Latin-American countries, are included.

The most powerful of the banking interests is the Deutsche Sudamerikanische Bank of Buenos Aires, controlled directly from Berlin and with a powerful establishment in New York City. Grouped with this is a great combination of capital.

Vernon Stiles

*Soloist with New York Philharmonic
at Carnegie Hall
December 6th and 7th*

Vernon Stiles stands foremost among the young American tenors who have won fame on the operatic stage in Europe. His beautiful lyric voice, his mastery of the art of singing and imposing stage presence make him a favorite of American concert-goers.

As is the case with many of the most gifted opera and concert artists now in the public eye, Mr. Stiles makes records exclusively for Columbia.

Any Columbia dealer will be glad to play these records for you on the Columbia Grafonola. When you listen to them you will appreciate not only the singer's voice and art, but the unequaled power of the Columbia Grafonola to give accurate and faithful reproduction.

Connecting with the Sunset Limited and other splendid trains for the Southwest and California.

Ask for "Apache Trail" Literature

Interstate Commerce Commission said:
"Many disinterested witnesses who have had years of familiarity with transportation conditions, expressed the conviction that a severance of the Morgan Line from the Southern Pacific Company would be a calamity."

HOOVER PUTS CURB ON PROVISIONS TRADING

No Manipulation to be Allowed on Chicago Market—Contracts' Limit, Six Months.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Restrictions required by the Federal Food Administration on provisions trading, were announced by the Board of Trade today, effective tomorrow.

There must be no manipulation of provisions futures, which comprise pork, ribs, and lard. Six months is the limit of future contracts. Lard and ribs must not fluctuate more than fifty cents a hundredweight on any one day, nor pork more than $1 in a day.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 4.—Directors of the Memphis Merchants' Exchange announced today that future trading in cottonseed meal on the floor of the Memphis Exchange had been discontinued for the period of the war. This action, it was stated, was taken at the request of the Federal Food Administration as a means of eliminating speculation.

TO EXEMPT MEDICAL MEN.

Taft Says Draft Should Not Apply to Students.

Exemption from the draft for medical students and young men taking engineering courses was urged last night by ex-President William Howard Taft, the principal speaker at the opening session of the thirty-eighth annual convention of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, which is being held in the Engineering Societies' Building. Mr. Taft pointed to the mistakes which England had made sending her trained engineers and doctors into the trenches, and he warned Congress and the Administration to act before it became too late.

"You constitute one of the two professions indispensable to the country in carrying on the gigantic struggle in which we are engaged," he said. "The other profession is the medical. You are constructors of all the material, all the equipment, of which so much is needed in modern war to make effective the work of our boys at the front.

"Congress and the Administration should see to it that medical students and engineering students should be required to go on and finish their preparations to become doctors and engineers and then be gathered in to serve the Government in places where they may be indispensable. There has been difficulty in obtaining this exemption. There seems to have been a fear that exemption would mean favoritism, and Congress and the Administration have not been as prudent as they should have been in reference to these valuable professions."

LIBERTY SIX

There is immediately noticeable a distinction and a difference in this Liberty Brougham. There is a distinction in its low-set, square-cornered design. There is a difference in the way it rides and drives. It is the one car that completely fills the niche occupied in the old days by the horse-drawn Brewster brougham.

Among the recent purchasers of Liberty Cars are—

Save money on your trip to California this winter

By using tourist sleeper instead of the Standard, you will save about half the Pullman fare. Also saves money on one-way second-class railroad fare. Fred Harvey eating-houses serve economical meals by the way.

Personally conducted tourist-car excursions, three times a week.

Grand Canyon of Arizona is on your Santa Fe way—stop and see it this trip.

Let me tell you more about comfort and economy in a tourist sleeper to California.

72 OFFICERS ARE ADVANCED

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG, S. C., Dec. 4.—On the eve of the return of Major Gen. O'Ryan, headquarters announced today the promotion and commissioning of 148 officers. Topping the list of advancements was the confirmation of Colonel Frank H. Hines in command of the 106th Field Artillery, formerly the Third Heavy, and the appointment of Major Dewitt C. Weld, Jr., to be Lieutenant Colonel of the 105th Artillery, the old Second.

Seventy-six non-commissioned officers were made Second Lieutenants, and at once assumed their new duties. Due to the reorganization, there were few commissioned vacancies in the infantry units, but in the artillery organizations, practically untouched by the new formation, many officers were made. The new officers and their assignments follow:

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT.

Major Olmsted, assistant chief of staff, said that General O'Ryan, Colonel H. H. Banholtz, U. S. A., chief of staff, and Lieutenant Charles P. Franchot would return to camp tomorrow afternoon. The General and his staff have been studying conditions in France since the latter part of September.

PICTURES FUTURE CHURCH.

J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., Says It Must Be Based on Service.

In drivng home the need for religious co-operation John D. Rockefeller, Jr., speaking last night in the Hotel Majestic before the Baptist Social Union of New York, said: "The Government which has been for years seeking to crush out co-operation and to bring about competition is now asking business men to get together in co-operation and without competition, showing that it is only in this way that the great situation that faces us can be met."

Mr. Rockefeller's subject was "The Christian Church, What of Its Future." The coming Church was represented by Mr. Rockefeller as a great undenominational body devoted to the doing of good instead of holding to theories—a working Church and not a talking one, a place of safe refuge for the poor and the needy.

When the war first came, he said, and the horrors of it became known to the world, people said, "Christianity has failed." Now, after three years, when the self-forgetfulness, the spirit of sacrifice is seen and men and women stand ready to give their lives in service without regard to class distinctions, the son of the nobleman and the son of the farmer bivouac side by side. It is now seen, he said, that Christianity is stronger than ever before. He spoke of this as the inarticulate religion which did not come through the Church, but came, rather, from men's hearts in the time of toil and sacrifice.

"What of the future of the church?" Mr. Rockefeller asked. "First, the church will have to have a new birth and be reorganized to meet this great opportunity, or the religion of the inarticulate will develop its own church, and that church will be the church of the future. That will be proof that the church has failed. Another possibility is that this unorganized force will not be conserved, but will die. If it can be guided, it will more than repay the care. The church of the present day, reorganized and reborn, will be the natural solution of the problem."

College Unfurls Service Flag Today.

The College of the City of New York will unfurl from its main tower today its own service flag. Appropriate exercises will be held, at which President Sidney M. Wittner of the Student Council and Professor William B. Otis will speak. The flag has 150 stars. Of this number 131 undergraduates and 19 of the Faculty are in war service. City College enlisted men about New York and the Signal Corps unit quartered at the college for radio work will participate in the ceremonies.

INDICTED FOR FRAUD IN ARMY CONTRACTS

HUGE PROFITS ARE ALLEGED

Two Civilian Inspectors of Quartermasters' Corps Also Held on Conspiracy Charge.

More than 1,000,000 service hats now being worn by men in the national army or in National Guard regiments were made of inferior materials fradulently substituted by the manufacturer, according to an indictment whose contents became known yesterday in the courtroom of Judge A. N. Hand in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court.

The indictment makes the charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States against William B. Thom, President of Thom & Bayley, of 3 and 5 Washington Place, New York City; John J. Slattery, Second Vice President of Thom & Bayley; Joseph Ives, Treasurer and Superintendent of the Peekskill Hat Manufacturing Company; Edward Slattery, foreman of the mixing room of the plant of H. B. Parmelee & Co.; Arthur C. Gilson and Peter J. Duffy, civilian inspectors attached to the Quartermaster's Corps, U. S. A., who are charged with passing the hats made of inferior materials.

The indictment charges that several grades of fur inferior to that called for in the specifications, were used in producing the felt for hats in a number of contracts which these firms had received from the Government.

Frank M. Roosa, the Assistant United States District Attorney, who has been in charge of the investigation of the alleged frauds, which are said to constitute the gravest scandal in the handling of army contracts in the present war, said yesterday that it would be impossible to estimate the profits made by the manufacturers by the fraudulent substitutions. The frauds are alleged to cover a period of nearly a year, beginning in June, 1916. Some of the contracts were for hats manufactured before the United States entered the war and others were let since the declaration of war against Germany.

When the United States District Attorney's office began its investigation, surprise was caused at the outset by the fact that the Quartermaster's Department had dealt with the manufacturers through a middleman, instead of letting the contracts directly.

For some reason which was said to be unexplained, during the time that threats of the elimination of the middleman in private business were being made in Washington, the contracts for supplying the army with hats were placed through middlemen. All of the manufacturers named in the indictment are subcontractors. The original contractor was the Sigmund Eisner Company, manufacturers of uniforms at 103 Fifth Avenue. This concern was not accused in the indictment, and Assistant United States District Attorney Frank M. Roosa said that no evidence had been found that members of the firm knew anything of the alleged practices of the sub-contractors.

This firm, however, received 4 per cent. on all the hat contracts which it placed for the Government. The manufacturers accused received contracts totaling $3,000,000 from the Sigmund Eisner Company, which netted the latter firm $120,000 in middleman's fees. Only a part of these contracts are named in the indictment. Some are said to have been correctly executed, while other contracts have not been filled at all as yet.

The Sigmund Eisner Company placed a bond with the Government to guarantee the honest fulfillment of the contract, and it was said yesterday at the United States District Attorney's office that the War Department would undoubtedly bring a civil suit against the concern.

The hats were made at prices ranging from $1.29 to $1.70 apiece. The material specified was the fur from the back of the coney, an Australian animal of the rabbit family. Beaver and other materials were called for by contracts for hats of other grades. The indictment alleges that inferior varieties of coney and beaver furs and mixed cheap furs of all kinds were actually used.

The evidence which caused the unearthing of the alleged frauds, however, was not the condition of the hats themselves. It was stated yesterday that a sudden tour of inspection of the factories had brought to light a large quantity of the poorer fur in the stock which was being used exclusively for the making of Government hats. This was further confirmed, it was said, by an investigation of the transactions of the accused firms, which showed that the cheap material had been ordered and purchased in quantities immediately after the contracts to make army hats had been obtained.

UNIFORMS

The young men of our best known families, either in officers' training camps or at our universities where military training is compulsory or elective, have found in our military clothing department the same high standards of quality which have always been identified with De Pinna clothing for the civilian.

Here will be found very complete stocks of officers' uniforms ready for immediate wear, while we are prepared to execute in our custom tailoring department, under the direct supervision of skilled military tailors, orders for uniforms made to measure.

DR. LYON'S PERFECT TOOTH POWDER

Using THE AUTOMOBILE to cut the family's transportation costs

IN April 1914 this Company sold a used car "as is" for $700. The buyer used it three full seasons and then sold it for $350. Within that time it covered 17,643 miles.

FOR the distance traveled the owner's total operating expense including gasolene, oil, tires, insurance, incidentals and one overhauling bill amounted to $1500. His depreciation, as indicated above, was $350, and the interest on his money at 6% for three years was $126—a total of $1976 or at the rate of 11.2 cents per mile.

THIS car was used between the owner's city home and his country home—a distance of 110 miles. Its capacity was five passengers and in addition it carried household goods of all kinds, food, live stock, flowers, plants, seeds, farm implements, paint, chemicals and personal luggage. All told the shipping costs on its annual load of merchandise would have run into the hundreds of dollars.

EACH trip, one way, on a passenger mile basis cost $2.46. By the railroad it cost $2.70, not to mention the cost of getting to and from the station at each end, a total distance of five miles the round trip. The total saving effected by this car each five-passenger trip was $1.20 for passengers alone—but that was the least of its profits.

IT changed a dirty, tedious, laborious trip into a healthful recreation. It eliminated changes of stations and of cars. It saved an hour's time each way from house to house.

IT prevented the abandonment of these health-giving country week-ends—whose benefit the fatigue of the railroad journey had largely nullified—and added to their vitalizing power.

IT insured immediate delivery of luggage and express matter—and guaranteed both against wear and tear en route.

DEFENSE SOCIETY INDICTS LA FOLLETTE

Denies That Privilege Protects Senator in Opposing an Enacted Law.

CALLS SPEECH DISLOYAL

Brief Presented to Investigating Committee Says War Alters Normal License.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—"Robert M. La Follette, for the time being a Senator of the United States from the State of Wisconsin, is accused by us of giving aid and comfort to the public enemy by disloyal utterances, made and circulated outside the Senate, notably those made in his St. Paul speech in September, 1917"—so opens a brief presented today by the American Defense Society to the Senate Committee investigating the speech in question.

"We therefore ask the expulsion of Robert M. La Follette from the Senate," says the brief, with the further remark that "the United States Senate owes it to its own dignity to repudiate such a representation of any portion of its great Republic and to terminate forthwith his facilities for further mischief at the expense of the Government."

The brief is signed on behalf of the society by Henry Wynans Jessup of counsel, 56 Liberty Street, New York; Richard M. Hurd, Chairman of the society, and W. H. Gardiner, Chairman of its Anti-Disloyalty Committee.

The brief gives the main points of the complaint, which the society presents as follows:

"A. That in the City of St. Paul, after the country was at war, and without the excuse of his Senatorial privilege, he uttered, in a public address widely reported and published and circulated and for a considerable time unrepudiated by him, words disloyal to the Government, calculated to incite opposition to its measures of conducting the war, and disclosing his unfitness further to participate in the national councils for the national safety and defense.

"B. And that, while the country is at war, and while a Senator of the United States, he has abused his privilege as such Senator by gratuitously distributing over his frank utterances calculated to incite opposition to the Government of the United States in the prosecution of the war, and to produce disaffection among the people."

The brief asserts that Senator La Follette is "not loyal to the Government of the United States, but is actually, regardless of his intent, 'giving aid and comfort' to the public enemy." It emphasizes that "the fact that the nation is at war makes applicable considerations not justifiable in normal conditions."

Seven considerations are enumerated in the brief as follows:

"1. A propaganda of disaffection, calculated to incite opposition to the Government while at war in respect to its prosecution of the war or the righteousness of such war inevitably gives aid and comfort to the public enemy, is incompatible with loyalty, and a Senator engaged in so acting has ceased to be a useful or proper incumbent of the office.

"2. No question of Senatorial privilege or the constitutional right to free speech is affected by the inquiry before the committee.

"3. The conduct and utterances of the respondent Senator have shown him to be unfit for the further exercise of his office.

"4. In the light of the foregoing, the acts of Mr. La Follette must be interpreted as the man on the street would interpret them, and not as a court of justice would construe them in applying a penal statute.

"5. There can be no question as to the power of the Senate to expel a member for treasonable or disloyal utterances

"6. For the purpose of this inquiry the definition of treason in the Constitution is not the only determining consideration. But the Senate may at any time determine whether or not one of its members is any longer fit, for whatever reason, to take part in its councils at a time of national crisis or to exercise upon the people at large that influence ex virtute officii which the incumbency of this high office enables him to exert.

"We add," the brief says, "that once the legislation which a Senator may have opposed becomes the law of the land, he, as all other citizens, must be obedient thereto, and his Senatorial privilege is at an end and merged in the duty imposed by law on every citizen. For him to continue to oppose such legislation or to obstruct its operation becomes disloyalty unprotected by any privilege."

Miss Jordan Leaves Harpers.

Miss Elizabeth Jordan, formerly editor of Harper's Bazar, and for the last five years a literary adviser to Harper & Brothers, resigned from that firm last month. Her resignation will take effect the end of this year. On Jan. 2 Miss Jordan will enter upon what she calls "a very big, new job"—that of editorial director of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation of New York.

Miss Jordan is the author of half a dozen popular books, including the well-known "May Iverson" stories. She has also written a play—"The Lady from Oklahoma"—produced by Brady and the Shuberts several years ago, and still going in "stock." She was joint author with Dr. Anna Howard Shaw of the "Story of a Pioneer," and is a member of the Colony Club, the Cosmopolitan Club, and the Woman's City Club of New York.

SCHOOLS WILL BAR PRAISE OF KAISER

German Textbooks Containing Laudatory References to Him Ordered Out.

Textbooks used in the city's high schools in teaching German which contain laudatory references to the Kaiser o the history of the Hohenzollerns, or any statements which may be used by teachers so inclined as a basis for German propaganda, will be eliminated from the course of study. This was the announcement made yesterday by Lawrence A. Wilkins, assistant to Dr. John L. Tildsley, Associate Superintendent of Schools in charge of high schools.

Mr. Wilkins, who is in charge of the teaching of modern languages in the high schools, has called for a meeting on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in his office at the Board of Education, 500 Park Avenue, where the subject will be discussed. Meeting with Mr. Wilkins will be eight teachers in charge of the teaching of German in various high schools. These teachers, said Mr. Wilkins, were chosen because of their unquestioned loyalty, and they have been asked to mark any questionable passages in German textbooks used in the schools and to bring these with them to the meeting.

It was the opinion of Mr. Wilkins that German propaganda could easily be insinuated into the high schools by means of textbooks now being used. He indicated how a teacher of German, if he felt so inclined, might, in the course of a lesson on the geography of Germany, make strictures on the United States. He said that it was not difficult for a teacher to deviate from the path outlined in the textbooks, and bring into the classroom a discussion of matters that might lead a student to receive false impressions.

While the recommendation of the Textbook Committee did not single out any specific language for elimination, such an edict, if promulgated by the Board of Superintendents, would bear most heavily on German, for 90 per cent. of the children studying any foreign language in the lower grade schools are studying German.

The members of the High School Committee before whom the three De Witt Clinton High School teachers, Samuel Schmalhausen, A. Henry Schneer, and Thomas Mufson, were tried on Monday "for holding views subversive of discipline and of undermining good citizenship in the schools," will meet at the Board of Education next Monday afternoon and decide on what recommendation to make to the Board of Education on Dec. 12 as to the case.

PLAN BIG HALL FOR CAMP.

The sum of $50,000 to celebrate its crystal anniversary in February, 1918, is to be raised by the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs as an expression of its patriotism and to go toward the erection of a big community hall holding 12,000 men for the soldiers of Camp Upton, the entire cost to be $100,000.

This was decided at a meeting of the Presidents of the 314 clubs forming the federation at a meeting at the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon.

NEWPORT RE-ELECTS MAYOR

The vote was: Burdick, 2,437; Flynn, 1,295.

Look, Men, Here Are the Real Goods

Hanes gives everything that a sensible man would want in underwear—extra value, fit and comfort, and is just the right price and the underwear everyone should wear. You men who dread the days of winter underwear—just slip into a snuggy warm suit of Hanes. Then you're fixed fine for the cold days—no trouble, no itching, no ripping, no flaring—just lots of comfort and warmth.

Everybody read about those big features chock-full of "extras" over there in the illustration. You never saw anything like it and for such popular prices.

ELASTIC KNIT UNDERWEAR

Made by the P. H. HANES KNITTING COMPANY

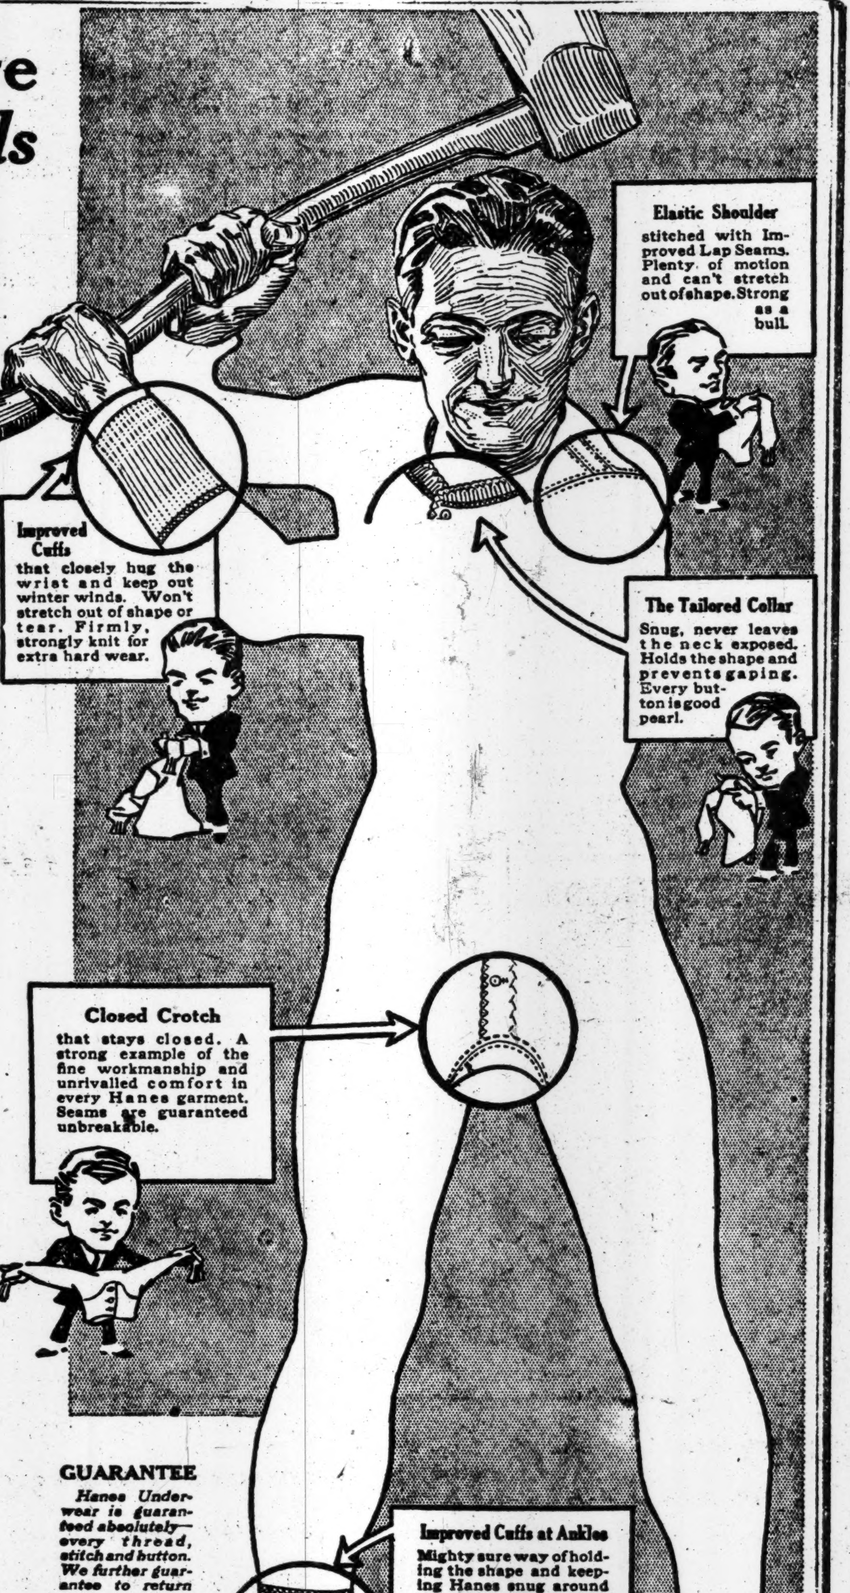
is made of fine, long-fibre cotton, silky-smooth and fleecy warm. Naturally elastic and comfortable, but made a whole lot more so. Pre-shrinking makes it hold the shape and size.

A New, Bang-up Boys' Union Suit

A high quality, long-wearing, economical union suit that has all the extra features of the men's suits. Simply can't be duplicated for value.



Elastic Shoulder stitched with Improved Lap Seams. Plenty of motion and can't stretch out of shape. Strong as a bull.

Improved Cuffs that closely hug the wrist and keep out winter winds. Won't stretch out of shape or tear. Firmly, strongly knit for extra hard wear.

Closed Crotch that stays closed. A strong example of the fine workmanship and unrivalled comfort in every Hanes garment. Seams are guaranteed unbreakable.

Improved Cuffs at Ankles Mighty sure way of holding the shape and keeping Hanes snug around the ankles. Won't flare, tear or lose its elasticity. Adds a big lot of comfort and extra wear.

GUARANTEE

Hanes Underwear is guaranteed absolutely—every thread, stitch and button. We further guarantee to return your money or give you a new garment if any seam breaks on Hanes Underwear.

Wallace
ADJUSTABLE Lamp

Even if you don't read in bed, you will find dozens of places where the Wallace Lamp will solve your lighting problems.

Business men use it in their offices. Housewives use it to illuminate the sewing machine, the writing table, the pantry, etc. Travelers and professional people carry the Wallace Lamp in their grips "on the road". It folds into very small space.

The Wallace "stays put" anywhere. Clamps or stands wherever you want it. Adjusts light to any angle. And concentrates the full strength of the bulb exactly where you want light. Doesn't waste or scatter.

Carry home a Wallace Lamp today and see how handy this novel invention is. Examine it at your favorite store. Sold everywhere, by most of the good Hardware, Electrical, Sporting Goods, Drug and Department Stores.

Leader, Carman. Record, 1,074 miles, 5 laps, made by Cameron and Kaiser in 1915.

THE POINT SCORE.

Goullet-Magin, 109; Kramer-Egg, 99; Hill-Hanley, 79; Verri-Spears, 75; Corry-Madden, 69; Piercey-Grenda, 50; Root-Drobach, 47; Thomas-Lawrence, 39; Carman-Wiley, 32; Linart-Debates, 21; Smith-Weber, 18.

Francisco Verri, the dashing Italian rider, carried crowded Madison Square Garden by storm when his hair-raising jumps of speed carried him to the front in the sensational sprints which brought forth a thunderous blast of commotion at the six-day race last night. The tireless lad of sunny Italy pedaled his way through the riders by skillful manoeuvring and carried off the lion's share of the exciting dashes.

The largest crowd of spectators that has ever jammed the Garden sat around the amphitheatre when the excitement was at fever heat. The house was sold out and even the standing room was all taken. From the steel rafters to the pit a yelling mob cheered and urged the riders on their monotonous journey. Although the pack of thirteen teams are pedaling along more than 100 miles behind the record, they break out with remarkable speed in the keen struggle for the points which will mean cold cash to them when they have ridden themselves to exhaustion on Saturday night.

The Goullet-Magin team holds a desperate clutch on the honors, the clever rider from Kangaroo Land and his foxy partner from quiet Philadelphia outstripping all their opponents in the stirring strife for the point honors. The riders last night pedaled through a thick fog of tobacco smoke, which became so dense that the cyclists looked like a flock of ghosts riding through a mist. In total mileage twelve of the teams are tied, with the Madonna-Bello pair struggling along a lap behind.

The terrific strain of the riding is raising havoc with the nerves of the contestants and they snap and snarl at their trainers as they are rudely awakened from the short sessions of slumber in the temporary camps at the side of the track. The competition among the riders is so keen that they have to relieve each other constantly. The immense crowd was in a constant uproar for more than two hours while the point drives were under way. Al Goullet, the king-pin rider of the lot, has for some reason or other come into disfavor, and cat calls and hoots greet him when he shoots ahead of the bunch.

At 11 o'clock, the forty-seventh hour of the race, Frank Kramer, the former sprinting champion, was leading the pack, and they had covered 863 miles 4 laps and were pushing along 127 miles behind the record, which is held by Jimmy Moran and Reggie McNamara.

Kramer and Egg Take Lead.

The Kramer-Egg combination did the sensational riding in the afternoon sprints, and when Kramer pedaled home first in two of the sprints and Egg in first place in another, after winning fifth place in two other whirls, this pair jumped into the lead in the point score. The Kramer-Egg duo grabbed 22 points, which gave them a total of 71. Goullet and Magin got only 11 points in the afternoon sprints, making them second in the total with 67.

Hill and Hanley took the field by surprise and gathered 19 points between them in the afternoon. Hill finished second twice, while Hanley got a second and a fourth. The winners of the afternoon sprints were Goullet, Kramer, Linart, Kramer, and Egg.

The race was held up for fifteen minutes at 6 o'clock, when Dare Devil Schreyer shot down a chute from the top of the arena into a tank of water and covered the Madison Avenue end of the track with water. The race was resumed after the track had been dried. Schreyer's stunt is the kind which shows that the gentleman does not care a nickel about his life.

He climbs up to the highest rafters among the birds' nests and rides down a wooden chute at a dizzy speed. At the end of the chute this careless person leaves his bike, which drops into a net, while he shoots headlong into the tank. It was generally believed that crossing Fifth Avenue at Forty-second Street through a fleet of non-stop automobiles was about as dangerous a pastime as could be experienced in New York, but this high dive of Dare Devil Schreyer has that experience running in second place.

Schreyer made the feat more difficult by splashing into the tank close to the edge, so that nervous spectators held their breath and turned their heads away, after taking it for granted that Dare Devil had just about taken his last leap.

Goullet Forges Ahead.

The triumph of the Kramer-Egg team in gaining first place in the standing did not last long, for Goullet came out in the first sprint of the evening session and whirled his way to the front after a thrilling speed duel with Verri. Egg made a desperate attempt to work his way through the field to the front, but the best he could do was to finish in fourth place. This places the Goullet-Magin only one point behind the leaders, Magin team only one point behind the leaders, and in the second sprint Goullet's teammate, Jake Magin, left the field behind in a sudden outburst of speed which carried his wheel over the finish line inches ahead of Eddie Root and Freddy Hill and pushed the Goullet-Magin combination back into the lead.

Francesco Verri's riding fell off during the afternoon, but he came back in the evening and finished second to Goullet in the first sprint, and then took the field by storm in the third five-mile whirl by beating Goullet to the line after a bitter struggle, the flying Italian's desperate effort in the stretch carrying his wheel over the line inches in front of Goullet. Verri's partner, Bob Spears, who has been in the background during the race thus far, showed a flash of his old-time speed in the fourth sprint, when he finished first. Up to this victory for Spears, Verri had won all the points for his team.

With Spears's return to form, this combination became the most dangerous factor of the race. The great Italian rider again jumped the field in the fifth sprint and won in the most sensational ride of the race, beating Oscar Egg to the tape by scarcely the width of his front tire. Goullet was hissed and hooted by the crowd when the field shot past him and buried him in fourth place.

None of the riders is as anxious to have the race end as Al Goullet, for next week he expects to enlist in the Aviation Corps. Goullet is 24 years old, and not long ago took out his naturalization papers. So, just as soon as the whirl is over and Goullet has settled his bitter controversy with Kramer, he will enter the service of Uncle Sam.

Bicycle politics has caused a lot of feeling among the riders in the race, and some of them have refused to sit at the table in the general kitchen to eat. Goullet and Kramer were chums all Summer, and played golf together nearly every day at Forest Hills. It was understood between them that they were to pair up in this race. Kramer, however, according to Goullet's version of the yarn, signed up for the race on his own hook and took on Oscar Egg. Naturally Goullet was not pleased. Hanley and Jake Magin had also decided to pair up, but Magin suddenly switched and paired with Goullet. Goullet promised to ride with Fred Hill and later overlooked Hill. That was how it came about that Hill and Hanley got together.

So the feeling among the riders on these three teams is extremely bitter. Goullet and Kramer do not speak to each other, and the Australian has accused the former champion of being afraid to get out on the track and meet him in the sprint. Kramer denied the allegation, and promised to ride against Goullet in the sprints tonight. The duel of speed between these two should furnish a lot of fireworks, because Goullet is considered one of the best six-day riders in the game, while Kramer had no peer when he was in his prime.

ELEVEN GAMES FOR ARMY.

West Point Five Schedules Contests for Winter Season.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 3.—Eleven games constitute the Army's basket ball schedule as announced today. All of them will be played at home. The neucleus of a strong team is available in spite of the graduation of two classes last Summer, which took several stars.

Gene Vidal, released last night from confinement due to a last Summer's hazing episode, will play one of the forwards. Cadet Kreber, guard of a year ago, is captain. Captain Ivins Jones is head coach. Oliphant, all-round star, will play hockey this season, as the basket ball and hockey schedules conflict.

A feature of the schedule will be a game with the United States Ambulance Corps five of Allentown, Penn. The schedule follows:

Dec. 15, St. John's College; Jan. 5, Seton Hall; Jan. 12, Cornell; Jan. 19, New York University; Jan. 26, Springfield Y. M. C. A. College; Feb. 2, Crescent Athletic Club; Feb. 9, Swarthmore; Feb. 16, U. S. Ambulance Corps; Feb. 22, Union; Feb. 23, University of West Virginia; March 2, Lehigh.

BERRY FAVORS TRACK MEET.

Would Restore Annual Games of Intercollegiate Body.

Confirmation of the reports from Philadelphia Monday that a movement was to be started for a restoration of the intercollegiate outdoor track and field championships was had yesterday when Romeyn Berry, a member of the Advisory Committee of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A., sent letters asking information as to the sentiment with regard to the meet. The campaign for the return of the sports is already well under way and includes the restoration of the indoor championships. In his letter Berry urged a quick reply in order that a decision may be reached prior to the annual I. C. A. A. A. A. meeting, to be held March 2.

No provision is made for the cancellation of these annual athletic meets in the constitution of the associaion. Last Spring it was decided to abandon the sports by the unofficial request that no entries be made to the outdoor champions. Of late, however, there has been a growing feeling in favor of the annual indoor and outdoor championship games in certain collegiate circles.

ST. JOHN'S FIVE TRIUMPHS.

The prep basket ball team of St. John's College of Brooklyn opened its season yesterday with a victory over the Stevens quintet in a one-sided game on the Brooklyn court by 33 to 11. The Brooklyn five outclassed their opponents. Snappy and consistent floor work, with accurate shooting by Captain Damico and Ednie, were the potent factors in the St. Johns's victory.

The lineup:

St. John's, (33.)	Position.	Stevens, (11.)
Ednie	R. F.	Hotchkiss
Damico	L. F.	Brown
McKenna	C.	Horwood
Woods	R. G.	Vezitte
Mulholland	L. G.	McCoy

Field goals—Ednie, (5,) Damico, (7,) McKenna, (2,) Brown, (2,) Horwood, (1,) Perchbacker, (1.) Goals from fouls—Damico, (5,) Hotchkiss, (3.) Substitutions—For St. John's Burns for Mulholland; for Stevens, Perchbacker for McCoy. Referee—L. Kelly, St. John's College. Umpire—E. Clark, St. John's College. Time of halves—Fifteen minutes.

GIRL SWIMMER INJURED.

Miss Boyle May Be Forced to Retire from Competition.

A prominent swimming career may be ended almost at its inception through an accident sustained by Miss Charlotte Boyle of Sea Gate, metropolitan champion girl swimmer. At a Manhattan pool a few nights ago Miss Boyle slipped on a spring board and the instep of her right foot was gashed by a protruding nail. It is possible that some of the ligaments have been torn, which may result in a stiffening of the foot. Until the result of an X-ray picture is made known, the exact extent of the injury will not be known.

Miss Boyle first broke into fame when she captured the metropolitan championship during Splash Week at Municipal Pools, winning five firsts during that week. In a 100-yard dash against Miss Claire Galligan a few weeks ago Miss Boyle was defeated only by a few inches and forced the champion to hang up a new metropolitan record of 1:08 4-5 for the century. Two weeks later Miss Boyle defeated Miss Elizabeth Ryan of the First Regiment swimming team of Philadelphia in the new metropolitan time of 1:07 1-5.

ALTER GEDNEY FARM LINKS.

Improvements Made During Season Help Test of Course.

The Gedney Farm Country Club has just completed a most successful season. During the year several changes were made in the course and clubhouse, a number of holes were altered, pits and bunkers were increased, and with the many natural hazards, the course was brought up to a high rating in the district. Among the golf leaders who played the course and were astonished by the test afforded was Mrs. W. A. Gavin, the women's metropolitan champion.

The twelfth hole, a circus ring 155 yards in length, is one of the show spots of the course. It abounds in natural hazards and has a green worthy of the mettle of the best pitch experts. Par of the course is 76. E. W. Conklin and Jay S. Jones hold the amateur record at 74, and Jack Dowling, professional at Scarsdale, the professional record at 69. In the season's events V. R. Smith won the President's Cup, Stewart Kent the Vice President's Cup, W. Z. Schaefer the June Cup, E. W. Conklin the August Cup, O. B. Hill the September Cup, George C. Luebbers the kickers' handicap, C. W. Cass the flag tournament, and E. W. Conklin had the best selected score for the season with a 57 for the eighteen holes.

Princeton Five Beats Manhattan.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 4.—Princeton defeated Manhattan College in the first basket ball game of the season tonight by the overwhelming score of 36 to 4. The experience of the Green and White veteran team was not sufficient to offset the speed and floor work of the Green Tiger five, and the New Yorkers failed to break through for a single field goal.

CALL BIG LEAGUES TO JOINT SESSION

After a conference in Chicago yesterday between August Herrmann, Chairman of the National Commission, and President Ban Johnson of the American League, it was decided to hold a joint meeting of the club owners of both leagues in Chicago to discuss the wartime problems confronting baseball.

The National League will hold its annual meeting in New York on Dec. 11, and following this the owners will go West to met the American League club owners, who hold their annual meeting in Chicago a day later. Each organization having discussed its own affairs, the war-time policy to be pursued next season will be decided upon.

Slashing the player limit to eighteen men, devising a plan to collect the Federal war tax, limiting the training season to two or possibly three weeks, and the possible shortening of the schedules will be among the important questions for consideration.

In discussing the reasons which led to the necessity for a joint session, Garry Herrmann said in part:

"Baseball faces a critical situation; the only thing to do is to put the cards on the table and settle every question confronting the two leagues.

"The club owners in both organizations have different views to express in regard to the player limit, the schedule and other issues, and a joint session I think will iron everything out satisfactorily. We must have unity of operation if baseball is to survive."

With the growing seriousness of conditions brought about by the war, the club owners are realizing more and more that the outlook for next season is extremely dubious. They believe that if the game is going to continue, it will not be on the large scale on which it had been operated in the past. Retrenchment policies will be necessary wherever possible and radical changes will undoubtedly have to be made in the players' salaries.

There is so much difference of opinion about just what schedule will be adopted that the club owners believe the question can be solved better in joint meeting. Whatever differences there are between the two leagues at this time must be laid aside for the common good of the game, and much of the rivalry which has been cropping up of late between the two major organizations will probably be smoothed over at the big love feast next week. The National League favors the regular schedule of 154 games, while the American League men advocate cutting the season's program down to 140 games.

The club owners are sure to decide on a new form of wartime contract at the joint meeting. This is the question which has been troubling the owners more than anything else, and the suggestion, recently put forth by William F. Baker of the Phillies, to include a clause in the contracts so that the agreement may be canceled in case the leagues should fail to operate the full season, may be considered.

When the National League convenes here next week President Charles H. Weeghman of the Chicago Cubs is likely to be called to task for alleged tinkering with players of other clubs. A few weeks ago the Chicago owner was voted a sum of $200,000 by the stockholders of his club to get new players to land the pennant in the Windy City next season.

It is stated by some of the other club owners that Mr. Weeghman started negotiations with players of other clubs without the consent of the owners. When it was learned that the St. Louis Cardinals had refused to give Roger Hornsby the big contract which he demands for next season, it was announced that Weeghman started negotiations with the dissatisfied player. Hornsby wanted a three-year contract at $10,000 a year, but as President Branch Rickey has announced that he will consider no contracts until next February it is believed that the St. Louis Club does not intend to meet Hornsby's demands. If the serious aspect of the war continues until next Spring it is not likely that Hornsby or any of the other stars of the game will be able to get long term contracts.

Rickey immediately denied that Hornsby was on the market and wasn't at all pleased with the reports of Weeghman's activities. Next it was announced that Weeghman was negotiating with Heinie Groh of Cincinnati, and Manager Christy Mathewson immediately got busy and advised the Chicago owner that none of his players were for sale or trade. Weeghman's activities in other directions have also caused more or less comment among the club owners and it is predicted that the law will be laid down to him next week.

There is a section of the National League constitution which prevents such activities as Weeghman is said to have been pursuing. This section reads: "A player shall not enter into negotiations with any other club for services without the consent of the club with which he is under contract or reservation, nor shall any representative, manager, or agent of any club negotiate for the services of a player of another club without the consent of the club having title to the player's services."

The National League will again take up the new drafting scheme which was offered by President Ebbets of Brooklyn a few seasons ago. The National League approved it last season and sent it to the National Commission, but the new draft was opposed by President Ban Johnson, and the commission did not adopt it. The scheme of the Brooklyn resident is to give the trailing club the first choice of the draft, and the seventh-place club the second choice, and so on. This would give the weaker clubs of the leagues a chance to strengthen their clubs. Under the present draft rule the leaders are as liable to get the best players in the draft as the weak clubs.

President Barrow announced yesterday that the International League would hold its annual meeting in this city next Monday. At that time it will be decided whether or not the Barrow circuit will operate next season. A few of the clubs had a hard time making both ends meet last season, and they are somewhat backward about operating again next year unless conditions promise to be improved.

There are five clubs on the circuit which are anxious to continue. These are Newark, Buffalo, Baltimore, Toronto, and Providence. Richmond, Rochester, and Montreal are anxious to wait until after the war is over. President Barrow says that the club owners will consider the situation thoroughly before any action is taken. There is a possibility that the New York State League will not operate next season, and if this circuit quits the best of the cities may be taken over to fill out the International League.

NEWS OF TENNIS.

Following out the plan of last season for expanding tennis interest among the younger players, it has been decided to add a boys' national championship to the junior indoor championship fixture which will be decided at the Seventh Regiment Armory, beginning Monday, Dec. 24. The same conditions which prevailed for the outdoor championships at Forest Hills will hold sway in the innovation event. This will mark the first playing of a boys' national indoor championship, and it is expected to attract a representative entry of large proportions.

Watson M. Washburn and Dean Mathey, having been commissioned as Lieutenants in the Reserve Corps, their places on the Ball Committee of the tennis association have been refilled. The committee as now constituted is composed of G. A. L. Dionne, Chairman; Harry C. Johnson, and Walter Merrill Hall.

Palmer E. Presbrey, for years one of the most enthusiastic and efficient workers for the game of tennis in New England, has resigned as New England sectional delegate of the U. S. N. L. T. A. The resignation will be acted upon at the meeting of the Executive Committee in December.

TITLES BARRED IN FENCING.

W. Scott O'Connor Announces That Championships Are Abandoned.

The Amateur Fencers' League of America will hold no championship contests or tournaments during this Winter because of the war-time conditions which prevail. This announcement was made yesterday by W. Scott O'Connor, Secretary-Treasurer of the organization, who said that all active competition for titles had been suspended in every division of the association throughout the country. This, however, does not mean that the fencers—those who have not been called to the war—will be entirely idle. There will be informal competition and a number of such events have been scheduled.

These events, which will take place in the vicinity of New York, number twenty-five, which is a diminished list.

The encounters with the foils, dueling swords and sabres, which correspond to the usual national championship, is to be decided at the Hotel Astor on Friday, April 26. The qualifying bouts will be fought at the New York Athletic Club, beginning Friday and Saturday, April 12 and 13.

As the Fencers' League is a member of the Fédération Internationale d'Escrime, it is expected that a number of the French, Italian and English army officers, now in this country, may participate in some of the bouts. A special competition for novice sabre teams has been scheduled for the United States Military Academy at West Point, to be fought on Saturday, Feb. 2. Some of the newly commissioned officers who have graduated from the training camps are expected to enter. Captain H. M. Rayner is in charge of the contest.

In order to develop and inspire the study of bayonet fencing the New York Athletic Club is scheduled to conduct a team competition with the bayonet. It will be fought on Saturday, Feb. 9. Special gold medals are to be awarded the winning team. Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, now a Major in the United States Army, has again been elected President of the Fencers' League, and John Allaire of the New York Turn Verein is Vice President.

NEW TRAINER FOR BUTLER.

McCormick Not to be in Charge of Stable Next Season.

There will be a new trainer for the racing stable of James Butler next season, as J. H. McCormick, who has trained the horses of the Eastview sportsman for two years, has not renewed the contract, which expired with the end of the Bowie meeting. McCormick, who previous to his engagement to succeed R. C. Benson as Mr. Butler's trainer had conditioned the horses of Emil Herz, met with considerable success last year and early in the past season. Toward the end of this year Butler victories were few and far between. The greatest success of the cherry and white colors was at Empire City, the track owned by Mr. Butler, and there were few days during that meeting that one or more of the Butler horses did not win.

ELECT FORDHAM MANAGER.

Work Will Begin at Once on Next Season's Football Schedule.

Cyril A. Higgins of Scranton was elected manager of Fordham football team yesterday. He is a junior, and served as assistant manager during the season just closed.

This is the first step taken at Fordham to make arrangements for football next season. Efforts will be made this week to secure the first games for the schedule. The election for football Captain will be held next week.

Western Skaters May Withdraw.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Resolutions recommending withdrawal from the International Skating Union have been adopted by officers of the Western Skating Association at their tenth annual meeting. The resolutions also propose the organization of a new international union.

LAWRENCE CLEARED BY TROTTING BOARD

Hoboken Sportsman Exonerated of Blame in Starting Harper as Without Record.

How innocent parties can be mixed up in ringing cases was demonstrated at the opening session of the Board of Review of the National Trotting Association at the Murray Hill Hotel yesterday when the case against J. H. Lawrence of Hoboken was dismissed. Lawrence started a horse at Mineola under the name of Harper, and in making the entry stated that Harper had no record. The horse showed such good form that an inquiry followed with the result that Harper was identified as Highland Mack, which had a racing career in which he had taken a mark of 2:13¼.

When put on the stand Lawrence told of how he had purchased the horse from G. A. Wiggins of Floral Park and William Gartrell of New Hyde Park, L. I., for $750 in cash and another horse in trade. The new owner of Harper had been careful enough to write across the face of the check with which he paid for the horse the words "no record." Wiggins and Gartrell both admitted that they had been negligent in not looking up the record of the horse.

As neither Wiggins nor Gartrell had attempted to race Harper no action had been brought against them by the N. T. A. Their evidence, however, was sufficient to show that the Hoboken horseman had been an innocent victim of circumstances. The verdict of the board was that Harper, having been identified as Highland Mack, his unlawful winnings having been refunded and the fee for a change of name having been paid, the case against Lawrence was dismissed. The former Highland Mack will be eligible to race in future under the name of Harper, but will have to take credit for the record of 2:13¼.

It was a busy day for Wiggins, who appeared as defendant, with E. Wagner of Belle Harbor, L. I., and J. H. Clark of Mineola in a case instituted by M. E. Cooney of Northampton, Mass. The case was one of identification, or, rather, lack of identification, for the bay mare Miss Kincaid, 2:16⅛, which had been raced on the Bay State circuit during the last season. She had been entered sometimes in the name of E. Wagner, who is a woman; sometimes in the name of Wiggins, and again in the name of Clark. Sufficient proof of the mare's identity was not forthcoming, and the mare, with Clark, Wagner, and Wiggins, was suspended, the suspension to continue until her unlawful winnings be returned for redistribution.

An old case which had hung fire because of the difficulty of identification was disposed of by the expulsion of Charles J. Root of Medina, N. Y. The charge against Root, who sometimes appeared under what he called the stage name of E. J. Roth, was that he had started the expelled mare Edna L., 2:09¼, under the name of Flora A. at Windsor, Conn., and Woonsocket, R. I.

Another case was that of Billy Brien, 2:09¼, which had been bought in the sales ring at Chicago last March, brought East, and raced at Cortland and Rome, N. Y., under the name of Robert J. These activities led to the board expelling John White of Utica, who had charge of the horse.

Seers Gardner of Goshen, Ind., appeared for Milo Powers of the same town, who had been expelled three years ago for racing a mare named Ruth Granite, 2:18½, at Rainsboro, Ohio, under the name of Ruth Corporal. A plea for reinstatement was made on the ground that Powers had paid back all the money won and promised not to repeat the offense. The case was postponed until the May meeting of the board.

Many minor cases were disposed of, and the session will be continued today. John C. Welty of Canton, President of the association, was in the chair, while the cases were presented by Secretary W. H. Gocher of Hartford. Other members of the board present were Morgan G. Bulkley, Hartford; Edward Moulton, Worcester; E. W. Swisher, Columbus; J. P. Winchester, Wilmington; Henry B. Rea, Pittsburgh, and John Early, Nashville, Tenn.

MISS HAYWOOD WINS AGAIN.

Rice Easily Disposed Of at Billiards by Woman Player.

Miss Clara Catherine Haywood of Philadelphia gave another convincing demonstration of her skill at billiards last night at Leonard Howison's Academy when she defeated Julian S. Rice, one of the leading Class B amateurs, by a score of 200 to 59. Rice, who has not been playing much recently, showed the lack of practice at all times. He could not get the ivories running to his liking, and, with Miss Haywood in fine stroke, the match turned out to be an exhibition in which the Philadelphia girl engrossed all the attention.

Her work was a marvelous exhibition of the possibilities of the game among women. Miss Haywood played a fine technical game, and while her counting was not so well sustained as in her match of Monday night, her shots were at all time interesting. Her stroke was delicate, sometimes a trifle too delicate, and her massé and draw shots were a revelation. Her best run was 34, and two others provided clusters of 24 and 22. The average which she established was 6 26-29. Rice averaged just a trifle more than 2.

M. G. A. TO ELECT OFFICERS.

Little Other Business Is Scheduled for the Annual Meeting.

Little business outside of the election of officers and the approval of reports from the Treasurer, Secretary, and Executive Committee is expected to be transacted at the annual meeting of the Metropolitan Golf Association, to be held next Tuesday at the office of J. B. Coles Tappan, who is retiring as President after two years at the head of the local organization. Since there has been no report of independant candidates for office, it seems certain that the officials selected by the Nominating Committee will be chosen unanimously, which should shorten the meeting. Cornelius J. Sullivan is to be elected President to succeed Mr. Tappan.

EDIBLES FOR GOLF PRIZES.

Mrs. Donohoe Wins Turkey in Putting Contest at Montclair.

Women of the Montclair Golf Club after organizing for next year took part in a war-time tournament, in which a turkey was the prize score in a putting contest and a home-made pie went as a second prize. Mrs. F. E. Donohoe, Secretary of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, took home the turkey and Mrs. L. N. De Vausney got the first cut of the pie.

At the business meeting of the fair players Mrs. W. H. Loftus was re-elected Chairman for the coming year. It was brought out in the report of the Secretary at the meeting that Montclair's service flag now has forty stars. There are twenty-nine Montclair members in the army, six in the navy, three members of the Royal Flying Corps of Canada and two in the aerial corps of the United States.

Veterans Victors at Billiards.

In the afternoon match for the benefit of the billiard ambulance fund at Maurice Daly's Academy yesterday Maurice Daly defeated William P. Foss in an 18.2 event by a score of 200 to 154. Daly made a run of 82 and an average of 11 11-17. Foss's high run was 29 and his average 9 1-17. The evening match brought out the cushion carrom game. In this Thomas Gallagher defeated Jacob Klinger of Austria 150 to 98. Gallagher averaged 3 17-41.

Benefit Indoor Meet Tomorrow.

The Mount Vernon branch of the Y. M. H. A. will conduct a set of indoor track and field games tomorrow night at the Mount Vernon Armory, for the benefit of the families of the enlisted soldiers at Fort Slocum. Practically all of the metropolitan district branches of the Y. M. H. A. will be represented at the games, including the Mount Vernon, New Rochelle, Port Chester, Bronx, and Washington Heights branches. On the program will be two events for the Fort Slocum soldiers.

ZBYSZKO WINNER IN STIFF BATTLE

Wladek Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, last night won his second bout in the international tournament in progress at the Lexington Theatre. The Polish star's victim in the second night's performance of the tournament was Fred Pilakoff, a Finlander, veteran of scores of hard mat battles. Pilakoff showed his calibre last night and gave Zbyszko worthy battle for twenty minutes and fifteen seconds, when he finally succumbed to a reverse body lock hold.

This match was to have been to a finish, with the limit placed at two and one-half hours, and there seemed for a time a possibility that it would drag along to the early hours of morning. Zbyszko, showing greater all-around ability than his adversary, was the aggressor for the most part, but the Finn showed some tricks of his own that were unexpected. The result was that several times the Pole's shoulders were dangerously near the mat.

Once in particular, shortly before the end of the match, Pilakoff came near triumph with a dangerous leg grapevine and further Nelson, but Zbyszko wriggled free of the hold. It was while he was trying to secure an effective head hold that Pilakoff went down, and the fall came unexpectedly. Zbyszko, apparently walking into his rival's trap, quickly secured his reverse body hold, and, tossing Pilakoff clear of the floor, hurled him down for a fall.

In the other finish match John Freberg, Swedish champion, scored an unexpected victory over Pierre Le Belge, Belgium, in 23:10 with a double leg hold.

Two of the elimination matches, at twenty minutes limit each, resulted in drawn bouts, while in the others the victorious wrestlers were Demetrius Tofalos over Ed Delivuk, and Steve Savige over Alex Thomas.

The summaries:

Preliminary Matches, (twenty minute limit.)—First bout—Demetrius Tofalos, Greece, threw Ed. Delivuk, Austria, in 10:10, with a combination body and scissors hold. Second bout—Cy Burns, Ireland, and Tommy Droak, Holland, wrestled to a draw. Third bout—Joe Rogers, Buffalo, and Carl Pospishil, Bohemia, wrestled to a draw. Fourth bout—Steve Savige, Slavonia, threw Alex Thomas, Syria, in 4:15, with a wrist lock and arm scissors.

Finish Matches.—First Bout—John Freberg, Sweden, threw Pierre Le Belge, Belgium, in 23:10, with a double leg hold. Second bout—Wladek Zbyszko, Poland, threw Fred Pilakoff, Finland, in 20:15, with a reverse body lock.

A trade paper prints an interview with a prominent western retail clothier who urges men to lay in an extra supply of present season suits and overcoats, because of the expected scarcity of woolens next winter.

This stocking up policy has its disadvantages, in that it tends to produce the condition apprehended. Besides, men do not calculate on garbing themselves so far ahead — a fellow may be called to the colors.

Willys-Knight

The More Efficient and Economical Type of Motor

STRONGER claims than ever made for any other type of automobile engine are unequivocally made for the Willys-Knight—

It performs more efficiently and for a longer period of time. Instead of gradually decreasing in effectiveness it constantly increases until it reaches its maximum pitch which it maintains long after other types of motors have started on the down grade.

It has no intricate small parts to wear and get out of order—is free from destructive vibration and friction!

It does not inflict upon you the periodical expenses and interruptions of overhauling and replacements.

Besides, it delivers more power than any poppet-valve motor of equal size, makes beneficial use of carbon and gives you maximum combustion.

It is the very finest type of motor car—and it stands to reason it is more economical!

Let us demonstrate the superiorities of this car for you.

'THE GIPSY TRAIL' IS PLEASANT COMEDY

A CAPABLE COMEDY CAST

Ernest Glendinning, as Gipsy, Captures and Is Captured by Phoebe Foster.

Frank Raymond	Robert Cummings
Miss Janet Raymond	Katharine Emmet
John Raymond	Frank Longacre
Stiles	Charles Hanna
Frances Raymond	Phoebe Foster
Edward Andrews	Roland Young
Michael	Ernest Glendinning
Mrs. Widdimore	Effie Ellsler
Ellen	Margaret Sayres

There is none of the sweat and dirt of the open road in the gipsy trail to which Arthur Hopkins invites one at the Plymouth Theatre—nothing of the icy tang of bivouack in the fields, or of blazing noon in the dusty highway. The three acts pass well under roof, and the people are mostly in evening clothes. Ernest Glendinning, who is the Tinker man, utters to Phoebe Foster much dulcet and melodious breath on the delights of stark adventure, but it does not appear that the breath of garlic, which is the Tinker's national air, has really invaded his system, and that is perhaps fortunate for her.

It is fortunate also for the enjoyment of the public, which is the purpose in hand. The first act is excellent light comedy, delicate in touch, and very laughable. The second act develops a highly amusing situation, which culminates in a pleasing love passage, and the final act brings a romantic surprise and a very happy ending. Early in the play a suspicion had arisen that this gipsy was a literary amateur of the open road, a Kipling-bred disciple of adventure, the red blood of whose veins had a way of spouting ink via the fountain pen. As the cat jumped finally, he appeared a sprig of Irish nobility, who was also a New York clubman and millionaire.

The audience laughed throughout, thrilled to the house broken gipsy romance, and went into raptures at the socially and financially pleasing denouement. The play is apparently a genuine success, and, indeed, a deserved success.

The best humor of the piece sprang from the contrast which the author, Robert Horsum, draws between the characters of the two lovers of his heroine. Over against Mr. Glendinning he set Roland Young, who was again, as in the comedies of Clare Kummer, the matter-of-fact, doggedly persistent and delightfully absurd young man of perfect social propriety. Finding that the lady of his heart would like him better if he were more romantic, he plans to abduct her—but is careful to gain her father's consent in advance and have a chaperon on the spot in the person of his grandmother. Mr. Glendinning, who has just got the sack as a reporter, accompanies them as chauffeur. Compared to Roland Young, he is indeed a figure of romance, and he straightway finds one open road into Miss Foster's affections.

The best touch in the character of this gypsy lover comes when he finds that his romantic eloquence has been taken seriously. His first idea is not at all that he has conquered, but that he is the victim. He plucks up courage to offer instant marriage; but, when that is naturally refused, he makes a bold break for freedom. In fact he roundly jilts Miss Foster. His expiation in the last act is that he appears in impeccable evening clothes, with certified credentials as to his ancestry, his clubs, and his fortune. He is, in short, an American version of Shaw's Bluntschli in "Arms and the Man," with this difference, that Mr. Horsum makes him merely talk of his adventures, whereas Shaw had the address to present his romantic hero in a scene of thrilling action.

Mr. Glendinning does wonders in making this rather fictional gipsy real. His is indeed the spirit of high adventure and impassioned romance. In his long speech in the second act on the delights of the gipsy trail, his fervent manner and admirable speech almost overcame the taint of pseudo-literary phrasing. It is a right manly bit of acting, most sympathetic and compelling.

The cast as a whole is well up to the high standard which Arthur Hopkins has set. Miss Foster is charming as always, and very natural in her charm. As the grandmotherly chaperon of the elopement, Effie Ellsler had perhaps the most novel and consistent character of the play—an old woman whose heart burns true to romance, and who views the plight of these young folk with sympathetic humor and heartfelt wisdom. Miss Ellsler sounds every note in the part with unerring art. A fresh and natural young brother is well played by Master Frank Longacre.

Muck Cancels Washington Concert.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The Boston Symphony Orchestra canceled its engagement to give a concert in Washington this afternoon. An advertisement in local newspapers told purchasers of tickets that their money would be returned. The cancellation was due to the fact that the leader of the orchestra, Dr. Karl Muck, and some of its members were German subjects who, under the recent proclamation of the President concerning enemy aliens, are forbidden to enter the District of Columbia.

GEORGE HAMLIN'S RECITAL.

A Program of Italian, French, and English Songs Finely Sung.

Song recitals by George Hamlin, tenor, have long been one of the fixtures of the New York musical season, and they generally have something new or unfamiliar and at the same time interesting to contribute. Mr. Hamlin's program for his recital of yesterday afternoon had not the interest or musical value of some that he has offered, but there were new and unfamiliar things. There were three songs by James Hook, a copious composer for the Marylebone and Vauxhall Gardens in London in the latter half of the eighteenth century, not a period of fine things in English music, nor are these songs quite worth exhuming. Three songs of Louis Abert were the best that the program contained; music of real eloquence, expressively written for the voice and richly harmonized. Mr. Hamlin sang them with great fervor, and one of them, "Vielle Chanson Espagnole," he was called upon to repeat. The noble songs of Salvator Rosa and Caccini, with which he began, are familiar and were finely sung.

Two songs of Edward Horsman, "You Are the Evening Cloud," and "The Golden Stag," the latter dedicated to Mr. Hamlin, he delivered also with great power and conviction; they are fine songs and a credit to American music. Mr. Hamlin favored the American composer also in four songs of Campbell Tipton, (also dedicated to him,) and songs by Rudolph Ganz, Brandeis, Rummel, and Uda Waldrop. German songs and the German language Mr. Hamlin eschewed.

He showed great power and sang by preference much in full voice. There were the pregnant and significant declamation, the admirable phrasing, the clear and pointed enunciation, and there was the highly developed command of style that gives Mr. Hamlin's singing a peculiar value.

SOPHIE BRASLAU'S RECITAL.

Miss Sophie Braslau, one of the most talented of the young American singers in subordinate positions at the Opera House, appeared last evening at Carnegie Hall in a song recital. A large audience heard her with obvious admiration and gave lavish applause. Miss Braslau sang a program of Italian, English, Irish, Russian, Yiddish, and French songs—Yiddish being the nearest approach she permitted herself to German. She sang these all with a singularly seizing style; a style in which there is nothing of the commonplace, in which there is an eager desire for the expression of every shade of meaning that can be squeezed from the text, in which there is always something of the dramatic, even in music the least dramatic. There is, indeed, sometimes an excess of this, an exaggeration; and the music and its true interpretation suffer thereby.

Miss Braslau's voice has remarkable power, color, and rich quality; a wide compass, and a large potency of the variety of expression she seeks to convey. She has a considerable facility in its employment, yet her technique is not in all respects finished. And to certain features of her tonal production is due the fact that her enunciation of the text is not always as clear as it should be.

While Miss Braslau was most successful in songs of a sombre or tragic cast, she caught a good deal of the spirit of Legrenzi's gay "Che Fiero Costume," and "Shepherd, Thy Demeanor Vary," by Brown. There was much pith and point in her delivery of Moussorgsky's "Little Orphan" and "The Classicist." She did nothing finer than the Jewish lamentation, "Eili, Eili!" in Yiddish, by Schalitt, which was received with much appreciation by the audience.

OPERA NOVELTY ON DEC. 19.

Premiere of "Marouf, or The Cobbler of Cairo"—Next Week's Bills.

Henri Rabaud's "Marouf, or the Cobbler of Cairo," is to have its New York première at the Metropolitan two weeks from tonight, the cast including De Luca in the title rôle, Alda and Howard as his wives, Chalmers as his friend, Rothier as the Sultan, De Segurola as the Grand Vizier, and Bada, Leonhardt, Rossi, Audisio, Reiss, and Bloch in other rôles.

There will be an Oriental ballet led by Galli and Bonfiglio, and the production of the season's first absolute novelty will be in charge of Monteux, Ordynski, and Setti in their several departments, the dancers under Mme. Verhoeven, the costumes designed by Livingston Platt, and the scenery by Ernest Gros.

Repetitions for the fifth week at the opera include "Carmen" next Monday, with Caruso; Wednesday, "Faust," with Farrar; Thursday, "Traviata," with Hempel; Friday, "Aida," with Rappold, Homer, and Martinelli, and Saturday matinée, "Prince Igor," with Alda, Amato, and Didur. "Tosca" will be sung Saturday evening, Dec. 15, by Caruso, Muzio, and Scotti, at the annual benefit for the Italian Hospital.

Next Sunday's concert stars will be Efrem Zimbalist, Sophie Braslau, and Morgan Kingston.

A Realistic Version of Hugo's Work, with Wm. Farnum as Valjean.

An intelligently directed and highly interesting film version of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," with William Farnum in the rôle of Jean Valjean, was shown for the first time on Monday at the Lyric Theatre. It marks the second time that the story has been made into a picture, the first having been a French film which reached this country in the early days of feature pictures. Although the former picture was staged on a scale of great magnificence, the new version probably will be more intelligible to the American public. In neither film was there any perceptible deviation from the original, but the two pictures nevertheless have their points of national difference.

The present film is from the Fox laboratory, and is quite the best picture that has been seen hereabout for a considerable period. It duplicates the France of the period with astonishing reality, and follows Valjean from the beginning to the end of the oppression which began with the theft of a loaf of bread. The film is distinguished by a noteworthy performance on the part of Farnum, who depicts Valjean with skill and understanding, both as a degraded criminal and as a man of standing in the community.

Olive Nevin Charms in Song Recital

Olive Nevin, cousin of the composer, sang Ethelbert Nevin's songs at her first recital yesterday afternoon in the Princess Theatre with an unaffected charm as she declaimed her mother tongue, and her utterance was not less clear in Italian, French, and German. The young woman's simple directness, her absence of mannerism—she never once clasped hands or clawed her chest after the tortured style of matinée heroines too numerous to mention—won sincere applause from an audience that filled the intimate house. A soprano voice of bright tints, rather than colorful brilliance, ranged the scales and leaps of Nevin's inimitable bird songs, of which "The Woodpecker" was encored, and another, "In April," was added at the close.

Hitchcock Leases Fulton Theatre.

Raymond Hitchcock, it was learned last night, has acquired a year's lease on the Fulton Theatre, and will present his next musical revue at that house instead of the Forty-fourth Street Theatre. This will be "Words and Music," which will have its first performance on Dec. 22. The promenade of the Fulton will be enlarged by removing the last two rows of seats.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

William Faversham's revival of "Lord and Lady Algy" will begin its New York engagement at the Broadhurst Theatre on Saturday night, Dec. 22. Heading the cast will be Mr. Faversham, Maxine Elliott, Irene Fenwick, and Maclyn Arbuckle.

As matinees are given daily at the Hippodrome, that theatre's special Red Cross performance will be given Sunday night, Dec. 16, instead of next Friday afternoon.

Billie Burke, in a film version of "The Land of Promise," will be next week's feature film at the Strand.

Two hundred and ten members of the 306th Field Artillery, from Camp Upton, will be the guests of the management at tonight's performance at the Winter Garden.

EXPLAIN ABOUT MRS. CASTLE

Century Theatre Says Her Ultimatum Was Not Granted.

The Century Theatre management, in answer to Mrs. Irene Castle's statement that she had received no notice that her services no longer would be required in "Miss 1917," yesterday declared that Mrs. Castle had informed the management last Thursday that she would withdraw from the cast on Saturday unless the time of her nightly appearances was changed from 10:30 o'clock to about 9:15. The change was not made, and it was accordingly assumed by the management that Mrs. Castle would no longer be one of the company after Saturday.

It was also stated by the Century management that the various performers who were eliminated from the Century revue last week were not dropped for purposes of economy, it being contended that the salary paid to Elsie Janis, the newcomer in the cast, exceeded the combined salaries of the players who were dropped.

David and Clara Mannes Play.

David and Clara Mannes opened their artistic sonata recitals in Aeolian Hall last night, when a Mozart classic for violin and pianoforte, that in D major, met the novel response of attentive and enthusiastic hearing by many uniformed American seamen in the packed 50-cent gallery, while a modern work of the Belgian Lekeu was equally welcomed by older patrons assembled to greet the two players in their eleventh season. Lekeu's sonata in G major, dedicated to Ysaye, was even admired in Germany before the war. By way of variety, Mr. and Mrs. Mannes gave a sonata of Brahms, Op. 120, written for a clarinet-playing friend, in friendly vein, and revised by the composer for viola, an instrument, as represented last evening, of striking individual quality and beauty of tone. The interest of the house never flagged throughout an unusual evening.

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 5, 1917.

A VICTORY FOR JUSTICE, REPARATION, AND SECURITY.

Not turning aside by a hair's breadth from the aims he long ago declared as those for which this nation entered the war, President WILSON in his address to Congress yesterday declared that it is our object to win the war, "and we shall not slacken or suffer ourselves to be diverted until it is won. But it is worth while asking and answering the question, When shall we consider the war won?" There is a simple rule, sanctioned by immemorial usage. We shall know that the war is won when the enemy knows that for him it is lost. That rule may not have been consciously in the President's mind, but he adopts it absolutely when he makes this declaration:

> We shall regard the war only as won when the German people say to us through properly accredited representatives that they are ready to agree to a settlement based upon justice and the reparation of the wrongs their rulers have done. They have done a wrong to Belgium which must be repaired. They have established a power over other lands and peoples than their own—over the great empire of Austria-Hungary, over hitherto free Balkan States, over Turkey, and within Asia—which must be relinquished. * * *
> Germany's success by skill, by industry, by knowledge, by enterprise, we did not grudge or oppose, but admired, rather. * * * But at the moment when she had conspicuously won her triumphs of peace, she threw them away, ready to establish in their stead what the world will no longer permit to be established—military and political domination by arms, by which to oust, where she could not excel, the rivals she most feared and hated.
> The peace we make must remedy that wrong. It must deliver the once fair lands and happy peoples of Belgium and Northern France from the Prussian conquest and the Prussian menace, but it must also deliver the peoples of Austria-Hungary, the peoples of the Balkans and the peoples of Turkey, alike in Europe and in Asia, from the impudent and alien domination of the Prussian military and commercial autocracy.

Only through the military defeat of Germany by the force of the Allies, or her admission of defeat through weakness, can these things come about. Included in Mr. WILSON's list of what is indispensable for peace are the subjection of the Imperial will and purpose to the will and purpose of the German people and the entire abandonment of Germany's grandiose design of economic and political control over Middle Europe and Western Asia, which was the very foundation of her ambition and plan to establish herself in a position of dominance over the world. A victory that achieves these purposes will be a victory that destroys Prussian militarism and Imperialism, puts an end forever to the German menace. To the American people will come a feeling of profound satisfaction, a new and firmer resolve, from this assurance that, hearing but not for a moment heeding the criticism and the clamor of the "noisy, thoughtless, and troublesome," their President holds fast to those great war aims which alone made it worth while for us to enter the war, to which now "every power and resource we possess, whether of men, of money, or of materials, is being devoted, and will continue to be devoted, to that purpose until it is achieved." The enemy will not misunderstand this statement of our aims in the war. Let us hope that for some measurable interval of time it will content those of our pacifists who have been insistently clamoring for restatements of them.

The President recommends that Congress immediately declare a state of war between the United States and Austria-Hungary. The rude logic of war points clearly enough to such a declaration; indeed, in giving generous financial aid to Italy, who is already at war with Austria-Hungary, we have, in fact, made war upon the Dual Monarchy. But since the logic of the President's argument for a declaration of war betrays some obvious defects, we must assume that he has knowledge of reasons for it which it might not be compatible with the interests of the Allies to disclose at the present time. We should go, he says, "only where immediate and practical considerations lead us." We are confirmed in the belief that there are "practical considerations" not yet ready for disclosure by the failure to recommend at the same time a declaration of war against Turkey and Bulgaria. "They are also the tools of Germany," says the President, "but they are mere tools and do not yet stand in the direct path of our necessary actions." We may expect that time will disclose the reasons for this difference in policy where no marked difference of conditions is clearly in the public view.

Seeking a declaration of war against Austria-Hungary, the President, nevertheless, says that "we do not wish in any way to impair or to rearrange the Austro-Hungarian Empire. It is no affair of ours what they do with their own life, either industrially or politically." Perhaps this passage in the President's address will be more attentively studied in European Chancelleries than any other. There will be an effort to discover its meaning. We assume that it does not mean that the United States at the Peace Conference will oppose any or all rearrangements of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. It may have been in the President's mind to say that these rearrangements are no affair of ours, that is, no affair of the United States; they will be left to the settlement agreed upon by the European Powers who are so much more deeply concerned. But the President does say that "we shall hope to secure for the peoples of the Balkan Peninsula and for the people of the Turkish Empire the right and opportunity to make their own lives safe, their own fortunes secure against oppression or injustice and from the dictation of foreign courts or parties." However much that may be at variance with what has gone before—the statement that what is done with Austria-Hungary is no affair of ours—we must express deep satisfaction that the security of the peoples of the Balkans against oppression and injustice and the dictation of foreign courts is an object of our solicitude, one of the objects of the war. Peace will not be secure until the South Slavs are free from the oppression and injustice of Austro-Hungarian rule. Any one who would know what Austria's rule means for the Slavs within her dominions should read in The New Europe of Nov. 15 the story of the wholesale arrests, torture, and slaughter of these helpless peoples in Dalmatia, Istria, and Carniola, of which the story was told in a speech in the Austrian Parliament on Oct. 19.

Mr. WILSON says that "we are seeking permanent, not temporary, foundations for the peace of the world." For this end wrongs must be righted, and while countless ancient wrongs are beyond the need of remedy since the world's custom and acceptance have put them outside present consideration, there are wrongs against which no time limitation runs, and these must have consideration, must be dealt with justly when peace is made, for otherwise peace will be insecure. For Belgium and the invaded territory of France there must be deliverance; unquestionable, too, must be the deliverance for Alsace and Lorraine, whose people are still French in spirit and in longing, and for whom inclusion within the German Empire, though no part of it, has been a long slavery. But in righting wrongs, the President insists that we commit no new ones. Those who declare that we are seeking to destroy the German people are guilty of a wanton falsehood. "We are, in fact, fighting for their emancipation from fear," we would deliver them from a thralldom to "schemers for world empire." But Mr. WILSON gives plain warning to the German people that if, after the war, they should "continue to be obliged to live under ambitious and intriguing masters, interested to disturb the peace of the world," they could not be trusted, it might be impossible to admit them to the partnership of nations guaranteeing the world's peace, and it might be impossible, furthermore, "to admit Germany to the free economic intercourse which must inevitably spring out of the other partnerships of a real peace."

He thus brings plainly into the view of the German people the constraints that will necessarily be put upon them, that will hamper them in their efforts to regain their political and commercial place among the nations of the world, if they fail or refuse to work that transformation in their political institutions which alone can make them worthy of trust and eligible to fellowship in the society of peaceful nations. They need not fail, they will continue to sustain a military despotism that the world can no longer tolerate only because they consent to it. They have the power to become a free people, they can, if they will, enter and be received into the community of nations on equal terms. They can no longer doubt what fate attends them if they refuse.

The President's address is at once illuminating and inspiring. It throws the clear light of truth and reason upon the path which we are pursuing, it answers questions, dissolves doubts, it justifies. It will inspire the American people to new courage, it will strengthen their resolve, it will fortify them to endure the burdens and losses of war. It is a uniting utterance, its spirit is that of the people of the country, of the whole people. To our allies, with other evidences so abundant, it gives the assurance that the people of the United States solidly, unflinchingly, with clear knowledge of what they have undertaken and with full determination to achieve that purpose, give their united support to the President in his consecration of all our resources of men, of money, of material, of courage, and of fortitude to the purposes of the war.

A GOOD BEGINNING.

The division of the woman voters among the political parties is inevitable, and the advocates of a separate woman's party, a sex party, will find themselves deserted as woman suffrage, passing from theory to fact, must be used practically. The conference of suffragists and former anti-suffragists, on Monday, with representatives of the Republican County Committee was of good omen. The co-operation of the antis and the pros and the men to make the best use of the ballot is necessary.

We are far from implying that that best use is Republican. The Republican County Committee was only a day ahead of its Democratic rival, which took part in a similar conference yesterday. Yesterday, too, the Republican women held their conventions to elect Assembly district leaders and delegates to their county conventions, where, on Friday, county leaders, district members of the County Committees, and delegates to a city convention will be chosen.

Thus, without any fuss and feathers, quietly, intelligently, with practical good sense, the women voters are taking their first steps in party organization and political life.

HINDENBURG ON OUR WAR PLANS.

Colossal as VON HINDENBURG is in a wooden effigy studded with the tokens of his admirers, the hero of Tannenburg and Lodz makes a sorry figure, dwindling ludicrously in stature, when he plays the oracle about matters political. There have been soldiers who were statesmen, but he is not of the breed. The Field Marshal's views about America's preparations to aid her allies do not rise above the dignity of barrack-room gossip. It seems incredible that a great man should be so ignorant and stupid. That familiar explanation of talking for "home consumption" might serve in the case of Dr. ZIMMERMANN of the Mexican mirage, but it will not do for the Field Marshal.

It would, perhaps, be surprising if VON HINDENBURG had heard of the Lansing-Ishii understanding, which brings the United States and Japan into complete agreement about the relations of both countries with China and lays the Asiatic spectre in this country. The Field Marshal is too busy with his campaign kaleidoscope to read the news of the world, and probably he has a contempt for it when not of German origin. He sees no importance in the raising of an army in the United States, because if it were to be sent abroad Japan might "show a sudden inclination to square up old accounts with America." So the fear of a Japanese invasion or of a seizure of the Philippines would restrain the Americans. To clinch the case against our army, which suggests "advertising methods" to the astute Field Marshal, "the transport question would offer difficulties not less than supplies, and the German U-boats would be a further obstacle."

There have been no insuperable difficulties, no obstacles. The American army is being methodically landed in France, and the U-boats are impotent to break the endless chain of troops moving smoothly across the Atlantic without mishap or adventure. And the Field Marshal dismisses our aviation program with the same indifference. It is "contemptible America" to him. LUDENDORFF is keener, of finer grain, more versatile, less intolerant. The great Field Marshal is a small man after all.

OUR MILLIONAIRES.

Those who have thought that we had too many swollen fortunes in this country will be surprised to learn that we have too few, according to the official figures. Only those who think that no man has a right to a million dollars can think that the United States ought to have fewer great fortunes than England. Yet that is the record, upon a comparison of the income tax payment figures. Our population and wealth are so much greater than England's that on either standard our millionaires ought to be more numerous than the British. They are so only as respects the total number. The number and proportion of great properties are overwhelmingly in favor of England, or against England, as some would put it. We have 22,696 possessors of fortunes whose incomes at the rate of 4 per cent. show them to be millionaires. England has only 5,154. But, with only a quarter as many of this class, England has seventy-nine payers of income tax on $5,000,000 to our ten. At the 4 per cent. rate of yield, they are the very rich of the two countries, with fortunes of $125,000,000 or more. We have nine with fortunes, as thus calculated, of about $100,000,000, and incomes between four and five millions. England has sixty-eight. There is a similar disproportion for all classes of fortunes, down to owners of $25,000,000 to $37,500,000. Of them we have ninety-seven to England's eighty-three. From that point down our greater total gives the advantage of possession of moderate millionaires to us. Of course there is ample room for error in this way of estimating fortunes, since a man with no fortune at all, save his brains and his industry, may be receiving an income of $50,000.

This was a poor country until after the civil war. Since then we have made great strides, the addition to our millionaires being 7,925 last year alone. On the other hand, it is to be remembered that the disclosure of wealth is greater in England than here. They have been collecting the income tax so long that they have become expert, and the dodgers have been driven from one subterfuge to another, until they have been rounded up with an efficiency which our lawmakers and collectors still fail to equal.

The total of our income taxpayers is not so large as it ought to be, imposing as last year's figures are. Next year's figures will be much larger, certainly at the lower end of the scale, and perhaps at the top as well. Although income tax returns jumped from $67,000,000 in 1915 to $180,000,000 in 1916, a much larger growth is certain next year. The millionaires are not the reliance of the country for its resources of taxes. They contributed less than 1 per cent. of last year's total, and their share will be relatively reduced as the reduction of the tax limit brings returns from millions of individuals. Last year 473,036 paid income taxes, although previous estimates had run to 700,000. The largest class is that between $5,000 and $10,000 income, including 150,551. While the surprising growth heretofore has been in the higher classes, the great growth hereafter will be in the lower ranks as the tax is popularized.

THE NEW YORKER IN CONGRESS.

Representative JOHN J. FITZGERALD, who announces that he will resign at the end of this month, is one of the most useful and important men in Congress. He is the only New Yorker who has entered Congress in the nineteen years that he has been there who has risen to a position of great influence. Not only is he the only New Yorker who ranks among the leaders of the House, but he is the only New Yorker who has risen at all above the undistinguishable rank and file.

If he had represented a country district in Iowa or Maine or Mississippi, not only his district, but his whole State, would have regarded this as reflecting great credit upon them. His prominence in Congress would have made him equally prominent in his State and his part of the country. He would have been promoted to the Governorship and to the United States Senatorship. Such is the invariable course of American communities in these cases, except in New York.

Being a New Yorker, FITZGERALD was eminent in Congress and not eminent at home. The road he took was no avenue to promotion, because he was a New Yorker. In Washington he was one of the few men who directed the course of the nation. When he came home he was simply a Democratic officeholder, lost in the general run of other Democratic officeholders, Aldermen and Sheriffs and the like. In New York a nomination to Congress is simply one of the jobs to be parceled out; in Iowa it is the most important office with which the voters are concerned. Iowa goes at the task of filling it seriously, New York lists it along with the County Clerkship and the Municipal Court Justiceship as one of the places in which somebody in the organization is to be taken care of.

And when the man chosen has been taken care of it makes no difference how he fills his office. He may make himself a leader in Congress, as FITZGERALD did, or he may lose himself in the general run, as the rest do; it is all one so far as his future is concerned. It is not merely that the coarse-thumbed and short-browed machine looks on a seat in Congress only as a job, it is also that the voter himself has no interest in it, at least no interest comparable to the interest he feels in the Mayoralty and the Governorship. So it happens that the Empire State, with the largest representation in the Federal Congress, has the least influence; that little Rhode Island and Delaware, or big and half-populated Arizona and Idaho, may at any time outweigh her in influence in the councils of the nation, and that as a general rule they do.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Scandal Has Its Consolations.

That there is good reason for indignation at the disclosure of the existence of men base enough to sell intoxicants to soldiers need not and could not be denied. It is well to remember, however, that there is to be found in the lamentable New Rochelle episode something more than proof of criminal practices tolerated in a community claiming to be virtuous as well as enthusiastically loyal. There is also to be observed a consoling amount of angry excitement over the discovery of conditions which a few years ago would have been accepted as inevitable in the vicinity of any army post, and viewed, if not with approval, at least with the calm resignation accorded to evils long established and believed to be without remedy.

In other days, and days not very remote, it was taken as a matter of course that the amusements of the private soldier on leave would be just about those in which the United States Marshal detected a few dozen men, out of the thousands at Fort Slocum, indulging. That there would be men to provide such amusements at points conveniently near such posts was also taken for granted, and the occasional efforts made to drive the purveyors away were usually resisted with success by the civilian authorities of the vicinage.

But times have changed, and vastly for the better. Today it is realized by everybody, including those who were willing enough to profit by a vicious traffic while it escaped notice, that it cannot continue for a moment after the general public is informed as to what has been going on, and the very officials whose negligence is chiefly responsible for the scandal see instant necessity for vigorous action.

And in distributing blame for what happened at New Rochelle, the misbehaving soldiers should not escape their share. They have brought disgrace on their uniform as well as on themselves, and poor indeed is the appreciation they showed of the responsibilities they assumed and the obligations they incurred when there was conferred on them the high privilege of serving their country. They know as well as anybody else the effect on soldierly efficiency of indulgence in intoxicants, and they have but poor excuses for yielding to the miserable temptations to which they were exposed.

They Never Intended Starvation!

In the statements about submarine warfare which General VON LUDENDORFF has seen fit to make while discussing the military situation of Germany there is again to be discovered a marked change from previous statements on the same subject, made on equal or higher authority. The submarine, said the General, "has accomplished what we expected," but when he defines the expectation we read something decidedly different from the promises made again and again to the German people when the campaign of indiscriminate sinking of merchant ships in the barred zones was begun.

The General now declares that "it was not a question of starving England within a few months, but of making her incline toward peace." Yet everybody can remember speeches delivered in the Reichstag by responsible spokesmen for the German Government, and innumerable articles in the German newspapers, which print only what the German Government wants them to print, that did make exactly the promise of starving England in a few months, and it was precisely by starvation that her inclination toward peace—a German peace, of course—was to be brought about.

That being the case, General VON LUDENDORFF's present assertion in effect confesses the failure of the submarine campaign, and it is surprising that he ventured also to admit that, as that campaign "gave America an excuse for entering the war," the rightness—meaning the expediency—of the U-boat war depended on its success or failure in producing the result expected from it.

Certainly there is neither visible nor audible in England any leaning toward peace, as it is understood in Germany. Even Lord LANSDOWNE's letter takes for granted that peace for the Allies must be preceded by victory over their enemies, and its author differs from other Englishmen only in wanting a present limit fixed for the extent of the victory to be won.

A notable sentence uttered by Mr. HOOVER while outlining what the newly formed Federal Food Board expects to accomplish was the one in which he said: "At present either the prices of food must come down or there must be a wage increase, and every time there is such an increase there is a loss of efficiency." In other words, Mr. HOOVER holds that, while wages and prices act reflexively, an advance of either necessitating an advance of the other in endless progression, as the process goes on there is a loss, not a gain, in production.

He had in mind, presumably, the truth which MACAULAY, almost a hundred years ago, was not the first to recognize—the truth which "labor" always does deny and others would like to deny, but cannot—the truth that men do not work with a diligence proportioned to their remuneration. What they really do, as a rule that has, of course, its exceptions, and not a few of them, is to work just as much as, and no more than, is required for earning the money they must have to satisfy their conscious wants and to live as they want to live. That amount of remuneration attained, the common human tendency is to be idle until the money is spent.

This tendency is more obvious in the lower than in the higher ranks of labor, but it exists in them all—and perhaps it is not absent, but only better hidden, in the very highest by the existence there of more thought about remote needs and the consequent willingness to provide for them.

It is easy to understand, therefore, why Mr. HOOVER aims at the cutting down of prices rather than at bringing about a sufficient amount of rise in pay to meet a constant advance in the cost of living. He thinks in terms of productivity, and it is well for us that he does.

ART NOTES.

The American Museum of Natural History announces an exhibition of modern designs suitable for the decoration of textile fabrics to be held at the museum from Dec. 17 to 31. The museum authorities are holding the exhibition as a part of their educational work, believing that it will bring to a very large number of students knowledge of the wealth of material for the designer existing in the arts of the primitive peoples represented in the collections of the museum. During the last year over 3,000 students have made use of these collections, and the desirability of extending their usefulness still further has led to this new expedient for popularizing the resources of the museum. The following rules govern the exhibition: All designs which in the opinion of the committee in charge have sufficient merit will be placed on exhibition. From one to three designs may be entered by a student from any art or public school, and any medium may be used. The designs must be inspired by some exhibit in the museum, and the source of the inspiration written on the back. Designs must be received on or before Dec. 10, and should be addressed to Charles W. Mead, American Museum of Natural History, Central Park West and Seventy-seventh Street, New York City.

War Posters On View.

At the Arden Gallery is an exhibition of war posters for the benefit of the Red Cross. The exhibition was arranged by James B. Townsend, and is to be held in sections. The first section, now on view, contains recruiting posters of England, Canada, New Zealand, Australia, and the United States. Altogether the most impressive of the group are two posters by Frank Brangwyn, not before shown and not yet published, calling recruits to the United States Navy. These are in Mr. Brangwyn's best vein, delivering a clear message through a definite and simple design. The medium is charcoal, and the handling light and swift. There are none of the heavy blacks that occasionally mar Mr. Brangwyn's work, and the elements of the design are interwoven with unusual skill to leave no uninteresting spaces.

HAPSBURG SUBJECTS HERE.

Large Corporations Urged to Reassure Their Workmen.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The fact that President Wilson found it necessary to recommend to Congress that it declare a state of war between the United States and Austria-Hungary fills us with great sorrow.

We who came to the United States from the Dual Monarchy always looked upon this country as the land of our dreams, and surely we never imagined that the time would ever come when the two countries could be at war with each other.

There are world-changing forces acting, though, throughout the globe, and we have to submit to the inevitable, with an aching heart, in the fervent hope that soon a happier day will dawn upon suffering mankind.

The question that first comes to the writer as a result of President Wilson's momentous recommendation—to be followed, no doubt, by action of Congress—is: What will happen to the 1,500,000 Austro-Hungarian subjects now employed in the industrial life of the nation?

What will be the status of these men, who work in our coal, iron, and copper mines, in our steel mills and factories and shops?

I wonder if your readers realize to what extent Austro-Hungarian subjects are being employed in the industries of our country. I wonder if they know that some firms have as many as 90 per cent. of their employes subjects of the Hapsburgs?

The United States Steel Corporation, the Bethlehem Steel Company, the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company, the Berwind-White Coal Company, the Consolidation Coal Company, the American Smelting and Refining Company, &c., just to name a few big companies offhand—employ thousands and tens of thousands of such foreigners.

What will you do with these foreign workmen? Are you going to replace them? How and by whom?

It is the emphatic opinion of the writer that the Government of the United States will have no trouble with these Austro-Hungarian subjects—or hardly any—as a result of such war declaration, provided they are reassured and quieted.

This will be due to two important reasons: first, Austro-Hungarian subjects, as the events of the last three years amply have proved, are inherently law-abiding and will not do anything indiscreet or disloyal and, second, because we, the editors of their papers, will make it our business to point out to them the importance and necessity of keeping quiet and cool, and of obeying the law.

I know the foreign workmen of America—it is my business to know them—and I cannot emphasize too strongly the advisability on the part of our corporations employing large numbers of such foreigners to reassure them and quiet them before agitators can do any mischief. Let large employers of such foreign labor inform their workmen, through circulars or bulletins or by word of mouth, that they have nothing to be afraid of as long as they follow the rules to be laid down for them by the Government.

Banks would do well to point out that their savings will not be touched, as otherwise many banks might suffer unreasonable runs.

It is a sad thing, and we certainly feel it very deeply, that the Administration found itself compelled to take this step, but we, who know the Austro-Hungarians, feel confident that the millions of Austro-Hungarian subjects in this country will find out that the Government of the United States was actuated by unselfish and idealistic motives, and we feel certain that they will prove their gratitude to this land—that offered them a home and the opportunity to earn a decent living—by obeying the laws whole-heartedly and without reserve.

An American Force in Italy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The recent events on the Italian front have brought about new problems and consequently a more active participation of this country, probably leading to a declaration of war on Austria just as soon as Congress arrives at the discussion of the question. While it is not easy to foresee the nature of assistance that our Government will render, it is to be expected that among the various resources a contingent of troops will be sent to the Italian battlefront. Such a step would no doubt help toward upholding the high morale of the Italian soldiers now gallantly and successfully fighting against terrific odds. There are a loft of drafted men of Italian birth now in training or about to go to camps here, and while no hint has transpired as yet in reference to utilizing these men for service in the Italian lines, it is to be hoped that the Government will find feasible such an expedition.

AND ALL IS WELL!

The wind shrieks through the rigging, and the ship,
Like some live thing, into the waves doth dip
Her prow; and raindrops from the funnels drip.
One Bell—and all is well!

At every gun there is a crew, and they
O'er evil force, unseen, unknown, at bay.
Two Bells—and all is well!

Each man looks down into his inmost heart,
And separates the clean from unclean part—
"If I should die, how pure would be my heart?"
Three Bells—and all is well!

"If I, O God, should go to Thee tonight,
All false ideals, mistakes, would take their flight,
Down, down into the sea with me this night."
Four Bells—and all is well!

And in the sea there lurks a shadow dark—
A long gray shadow, racing, lean, and stark;
Five Bells—and all is well!

A cry—a muffled noise—the vessel reels—
Her stern lifts high—then with a rush she feels
Her way down—down; each man hears wild appeals.
Six Bells—and all is well!

The only monuments that mark the site
Of sacrifice for honor, freedom, right.
Seven Bells—and all is well!

Eight Bells—and God is nigh!

MAYOR ACCEPTS BUDGET CUT

Mitchel Tells Aldermen That $1,857,000 Reduction May Stand.

Mayor Mitchel decided yesterday to allow the reduction of $1,857,000 made by the Aldermen in the 1918 city budget to stand. In a communication to the board yesterday the Mayor said that while there were administrative reasons why the Aldermanic cut should be vetoed, in some particulars at least, the fact that a new administration would come into office on Jan. 1 made it unnecessary and useless for him to go counter to the wishes of the Aldermen.

By approving the action of the board the Mayor backs up the new administration's plea for economy and, incidentally, cuts out considerable patronage. In making the cuts it was said that the Tammany members of the board hoped that Mayor Mitchel would veto them so that they would get the credit for trying to reduce the budget and at the same time hold the patronage. In a letter to the board the Mayor wrote:

"I have carefully considered the reduction in the budget for 1918 made by your honorable board and intend to let the reductions stand as made. While there are administrative reasons for interposing the veto of the Mayor, in the case of some of these reductions, nevertheless, since the action of your board represents, in fact, as well as in public understanding, the administrative policy of the city administration which will assume office on Jan. 1, I deem it both unnecessary and useless to correct changes which could, and no doubt would, be made again by the same action taken administratively following the first of the year."

The reductions made by the Aldermen were: Salary increases, $52,330; new positions, $651,237; useless places, $22,700; miscellaneous, $1,147,737. Among the places which the Aldermen believed to be unnecessary were: Engineer to the Bureau of Franchise, $7,500; educational consultant, Professor William Wirt, $10,000, and Secretary of Recreation, $4,000. As prepared by the Board of Estimate and sent to the Aldermen the budget amounted to $240,519,858.

POLICE CAPTAINS PROMOTED

Police Commissioner Woods yesterday announced the promotion of Captains Charles G. Mead of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station and Thomas V. Underhill of the West Forty-seventh Street Station to the grade of Inspector. Inspector Mead takes charge of the Second Inspection District, vacated by Inspector Dwyer, who will handle enemy alien work, and Inspector Underhill goes to the Fifteenth Inspection District in Brooklyn vacated by Inspector Boettier, who has also been assigned to enemy alien work.

Inspector Mead joined the Police Department in February, 1896, was made a Sergeant in 1902, a Lieutenant in 1907, and a Captain in 1915. Before joining the department he was acarpenter, but during his spare moments studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1905 and the following year received his degree from the New York University Law School. In 1907, with the aid of Commissioner Bingham, he organized a legal branch in the department, which still is in operation.

Inspector Underhill joined the department in 1897, was made a Sergeant in 1905, a Lieutenant in 1907, and a Captain in 1915. When a Lieutenant, Inspector Underhill did confidential work for Inspector Daly.

Captain William H. Scoble of the Mercer Street Station is transferred to the West Thirty-seventh Street Station, and Lieutenant James E. Shaw for the time being will be acting Captain in the former station.

Captain Byron R. Sackett, who has been in charge of the Coney Island Station during the Summer, goes to the West Forty-seventh Street Station. His place will be filled by the senior Lieutenant at Coney Island.

STAPLETON WILL RETIRE.

Justice to Join with Representative Fitzgerald in Law Practice.

There was surprise in Brooklyn yesterday when it was learned that Supreme Court Justice Luke D. Stapleton was to resign from the bench to enter a law partnership with Representative John J. Fitzgerald and William J. Mahon. Justice Stapleton, who is a member of the Appellate Division in Brooklyn, announced yesterday that he would retire at the end of the year. Mr. Fitzgerald will leave Congress at the same time. The new firm will open law offices at 111 Broadway, Manhattan, the first of the year.

Justice Stapleton, who is a Democrat, was appointed to the Supreme Court by Governor Hughes in 1908. In the same year he was elected for a full term of fourteen years. He has been a member of the Appellate Division for several years. Brooklyn politicians think it likely that the Governor will appoint Leander B. Faber of Queens to the place. Mr. Faber, who is a Republican, was appointed to the vacancy caused by the death of Supreme Court Justice William J. Carr, and was an unsuccessful candidate for election last month.

The Seventh District, which Mr. Fitzgerald has represented for so many years, is strongly Democratic, and a number of candidates for the nomination of that party are already planning to enter the field. State Senator Thomas H. Cullen may seek the nomination.

SUES FOR TAX SAVING.

H. T. Beers Alleges That He Cut M. F. Plant's Income Payment $684,852

An allegation that Morton F. Plant intended to pay $684,852 more income tax for the year 1916 than the law required him to pay is made in a suit filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by Harry Treat Beers, a certified public accountant with offices in the Woolworth Building, to recover $342,426 from Mr. Plant. The complaint says that on March 11, 1916, Beers made a contract with F. de C. Sullivan, who holds a power of attorney for Mr. Plant and is his agent, whereby the plaintiff proposed a method by which the defendant could have a certain amount of the income tax he intended to pay "under the impression that he was obliged to do so."

Beers said that an agreement was made in behalf of Mr. Plant that he could have 50 per cent. of the sum saved by Mr. Plant as the result of the plaintiff's advice, and that as the result of the plaintiff's services the sum actually saved was $684,852. It is contended in behalf of Mr. Plant that he paid the full income tax required and that no agreement as alleged was made in his behalf with the plaintiff, for which reason he owes nothing to Beers.

AIMS TO AID WAR WORKERS.

Association Asks President to Appoint a Housing Administrator.

Appointment of a National Housing Administrator to relieve congestion in cities where new munition plants have attracted a surplus population has been suggested by the National Housing Association in a letter to President Wilson. A Government fund to build houses for munition workers is proposed, with the recommendation that the houses be rented to workers or that the Government lend the money so that workers may build their own homes.

"The housing situation which confronts the country is a war emergency, and unless the Government comes to the aid the production of ships, munitions, and a thousand other things necessary to our success in the war will be interfered with so as to prolong the war," says the letter. The communication points out that the population of Bridgeport, Conn., increased 40,000 in a few months, and that the city is unable to provide additional houses, although work on a new Government munitions plant to cost $2,500,000 will start Jan. 1. Similar conditions are reported in other manufacturing cities, the committee says.

WANT CITY CONTROL OF THE MILK SUPPLY

WAR MEASURES PROPOSED

Witnesses before the Federal Milk Commission in City Hall yesterday advocated that the city control and distribute the milk supply. Mrs. Robert Bruere said the city should establish central distributing stations where persons could buy and that the delivery by wagons be used as an adjunct.

As to the suggestion of the Mayor's Milk Committee that consumers use powdered milk, Mrs. Bruere said the reason powdered milk was not more in demand was because few knew how to use it and there are only about three places in the city where it can be bought.

Lucius P. Brown, Chief of the Bureau of Foods and Drugs of the Health Department, a member of the Milk Commission, thought the commission should bring out whether the city should organize and take over the 158 milk companies. He did not believe, he said, that the milk business should be competitive. As a result of Mr. Brown's suggestion Mrs. Bruere suggested the merger of all companies, but the central idea developed was that distribution and price fixing should be under Government control.

The big transportation companies are mainly responsible for the milk situation, Carl Beck of the Labor Forum and Secretary of the Labor Food Conference thought. The difficulties are not confined to this city, he pointed out, and control by Governmental authorities would, in his opinion, be a material help in solving the problem. As the farmers are pretty well organized, Mr. Beck thought they could care for "their end of the line." He filed this telegram from R. D. Cooper, President of the Diarymen's League:

"Working people outraged by business methods in handling milk. The high cost sacrificing health and lives of children. We are convinced cheaper milk to consumer would result if your organization will undertake co-operation, owning all creameries and operating distribution system at city grocers. Otherwise city must distribute milk."

The whole milk question should be considered on the basis of a war measure, Ellison Lee of the People's House in West Fifteenth Street told the Commission. There is too much duplication, he said, and the temper of the people is rapidly changing. Fourteen cent milk is no longer considered an "act of God," but the result of the control of supply by two or three large concerns.

Dr. Graham Lusk of the Medical College of Cornell University spoke on the nutritive value of milk.

The Commission will meet in Utica today. It has twenty-seven days left in which to decide upon prices for the first quarter of 1918.

The Federal Food Board announced yesterday the names of a committee that will arrange for the proper policing of places where foods are stored in quantity, and are not under the special supervision of the police or the military. At administration headquarters, 124 East Fifteenth Street, it was not known whether it was contemplated to form a special body of uniformed police to reinforce the regular guarding forces. W. Forbes Morgan of Morgan, Livermore & Co., 71 Wall Street, is Chairman of the committee. Others on it are Ray Palmer, President of the New York and Queens Electric Light and Power Company; Ernest Biardot, Chairman of the Franco-American Food Company; T. I. Jones, General Sales Manager of the Brooklyn Edison Company; H. Rogers Winthrop of Harris, Winthrop & Co., 15 Wall Street; C. Morton Whitman of Clarence Whitman & Co., 39 Leonard Street; C. A. Bruns, President of the East India Tea Company; Erskina Hewett, President of the Ringwood Mines, 30 Church Street; James L. Putnam of Putnam, Putnam & Bell, lawyers; Woodward Babcock of Harris, Winthrop & Co., 15 Wall Street; Robert M. Parker, Vice President American Sugar Refining Company; Oliver C. Macy, Vice President of Carter, Macy & Co., 124 Pearl Street; Maurice Bouvier, Vice President of William R. Grace & Co., and William Fellowes Morgan, President of the Merchants' Association.

The Board of Aldermen received a communication from Henry Moskowitz, Commissioner of Public Markets, yesterday, in which he requested an appropriation of $25,000 for the purchase, storage and sale to the inhabitants of the city of food and fuel. The communication requested that the resolution be passed at as early a date as possible, so that milk could be purchased and sold to parents of small children who could not afford to buy it at the present price. Nathan Straus also sent a communication to the Board requesting the early passage of the resolution so as to relieve the suffering of children. The resolution was referred to the Committee on General Welfare, which will hold a public hearing on the matter in the Aldermanic chamber next Friday at 2 o'clock.

MEAT PLENTY, PACKERS SAY

Would Abolish Meatless and Wheatless Days.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Abolition of wheatless and meatless days was recommended to the Food Administration today by State livestock associations in the Middle West who met here with Joseph P. Colton, Meat Administrator. Members of the associations agreed with Arthur Meeker of Armour & Co. that the abstinence from eating wheat and meat products on specific days was an unnecessary sacrifice.

Mr. Meeker declared that shortage now exists only in the supply of pork. He said stocks of beef were piling up in the coolers of packing houses, and that there was an adequate supply of beef and mutton on hand to meet all demands without decrease in domestic consumption.

Contrary to general belief, it was said exports of beef had not increased greatly during the war. A decrease in the use of pork and its products, however, was urged.

TEACH FACTORY INSPECTION

Factory inspection has been added to the curriculum of City College, in the Department of Vocational Subjects and Civic Administration. The course is for the man who desires to enter public employment, or, already in the service, wishes to prepare for promotion.

Study of labor legislation and drafting of better statutes are included in the course, and demonstrations of accident prevention and safeguarding of health will be given.

Dinner to Japanese Commission.

The American Manufacturers' Export Association will give a dinner in honor of the Japanese Financial Commission at the Hotel Biltmore on Friday evening. Baron Tanetaro Megata, Chairman of the foreign mission, will speak on the commercial needs of Japan, and the other speakers will be Charles S. Hamlin, member of the Federal Reserve Board, and A. C. Bedford, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company.

JEWISH WORKERS SEND $101,000 GIFT

Poor Vie with Rich in Making $5,000,000 War Relief Drive a Success.

450,000 Clothing Workers to Give One Day's Pay Each—Donations from Non-Jews.

The second day of the campaign to raise $5,000,000 for Jewish war relief and welfare work in the army and navy brought out a total of $389,941.50 yesterday, making the complete sum raised to date $1,509,910. These figures were announced at the daily meeting of the captains and members of the forty-six teams which was held at 5 o'clock at the Berkeley Building, 19 West Forty-fourth Street. The previous day's gathering had been devoted largely to explanation of methods by which the teams were to work and to the getting of the organization under way. Yesterday, showing the results of the first day of real effort—for the greater part of the totals up to Monday night had been subscribed at the dinner given on Sunday night by Jacob H. Schiff, General Chairman of the relief committees—was a much more enthusiastic occasion, and, led by David A. Brown of Detroit, who has organized the campaign here, the crowd burst again and again into cheers for some team captain who announced an especially large total.

The biggest item on yesterday's record, however, was not to the credit of any of the teams that are working for subscriptions among the city's Jewish population. It was a lump sum of $101,000 subscribed by the Jewish People's Relief of America of 196 East Broadway, of which Alexander Kahn is Chairman, and represents the gifts of 200 organizations, whose members are almost wholly of the laboring class.

When this gift was announced by Mr. Brown, it evoked a greater chorus of cheers than any other made during the entire afternoon. The fact that the People's Relief Committee drew its support very largely from the non-English-speaking population, and wholly from the poorer classes, is expected to act as a notable stimulus to the progress of the campaign among the more prosperous classes.

But this outright subscription was not all that the east side organization contributed. Through its efforts, according to an announcement made by Mr. Brown, the members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and the United Hebrew Trades, including some 450,000 in all, had agreed to contribute at least one day's pay each to the fund. It is expected that this will total about $1,000,000. Moreover, the same organization is working among the kosher butchers' shops and the small neighborhood stores of the east side and organizing a movement to get each storekeeper to agree to contribute 10 per cent. of a single day's gross receipts. Tradesmen who agree to this will receive certificates from the committee to be placed in their windows.

Five mass meetings will be held in furtherance of this campaign. They will be presided over by Louis Marshall and Cyrus L. Sulzberger, and will be addressed by speakers in Yiddish. There will also be four special benefit performances by Jacob P. Adler, David Kessler, and other stars of the Yiddish stage.

In recognition of the work done by the Jewish People's Relief Committee, Mr. Schiff last night sent the following telegram to its Chairman, Mr. Kahn:

Teams Report $184,091.

"Your announcement at our meeting that 200 organizations subscribed a total of $101,000 aroused us to a fever of excitement. Your further announcement that 450,000 workers of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, and the United Hebrew Trades had pledged a contribution of at least one day's pay from every man and woman brought our audience to their feet, cheering and singing your praises aloud.

"I think that your action is a splendid exhibition of the love that the Jew holds for the Jew. We are inspired by what you have done. You have set an example to every Jew in New York City and the rest of the country to subscribe up to the point of sacrifice, as you men and women have done."

Nathan S. Jonas, Chairman of the Brooklyn committee, sent word to the headquarters yesterday that this organization had already obtained pledges of $100,000. The various teams reported pledges totaling $184,091.50, and $4,400 was received in gifts sent direct through the mails to the offices.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Schiff, who had sat at the committee's table on the floor most of the time, leaving the position of Chairman to Cyrus L. Sulzberger, took the platform for a moment and said: "It looks very, very promising, and we are only beginning. We can make an imposing success of this if the Captains will be sure to devote their most earnest efforts to the work. I shall telegraph to every Captain tonight urging that he make sure of his presence at our meeting tomorrow afternoon."

While no special effort is being made to interest persons who are not Jews in the campaign, contributions from this source will be accepted. At least two gifts from well-known non-Jews were received yesterday. At the beginning of the meeting Mr. Schiff read a letter from William Jennings Bryan, who expressed his warm approval of the twofold object of the campaign, and said that as he did not know where to send his contribution he would inclose it in the letter to Mr. Schiff.

Another non-Jewish contribution was a check for $200 from Herman A. Metz, contributed through Team 27, of which Leopold Stern is Captain.

Reports have not yet been received as to the contribution of the United Cigar Stores Company, which gave 5 per cent. of the gross receipt last Monday at their 2,000 stores. It was announced yesterday that the Schulte Cigar Stores had taken the same step, and that 5 per cent. of their gross receipts on Monday, Dec. 10, would be devoted to the fund.

Another illustration of the extent to which the work of the campaign is regarded among non-Jews was given by a speech made to the workers by Charles S. Ward, Secretary of the International Y. M. C. A., who has been lent by that organization to give the benefit of his long experience in whirlwind campaigns to the work of raising the $5,000,000 fund.

Y. M. C. A. Co-operates.

"I hear," he said, "that some of the workers in the campaign have had to meet the objection that this work, in so far as it applies to welfare work in the army and navy, may lead to religious or racial segregation in the services. I want to say that as far as the Y. M. C. A. is concerned, and it is an organization which is familiar with conditions, that the Y. M. C. A. does not think of this work as leading to segregation in any sense. There is just one word that you want to remember, one word that the Y. M. C. A. remembers—we look on this as not segregation, but co-operation."

It was further announced yesterday that the student body of the City College, through its class organizations, expected to raise $2,000 for the fund, and that Catholics and Protestants were co-operating enthusiastically with Jews. There will be a mass meeting in the Great Hall of the college at noon tomorrow, at which the Rev. Dr. Nathan Krass will speak.

Another feature of the proceedings yesterday was tangible demonstration of the esteem in which Jacob Billikopf is held. Mr. Billikopf has been at the head of the national campaign for $10,000,000, of which the whirlwind finish in New York is a part. It was announced at the dinner on Sunday night that Mr. Billikouf was accepting compensation for his services only because he had members of his family dependent on him, and that none of the money was used for his personal expenses. His salary has been $450 a month, and he has already contributed $1,250 himself to the relief fund.

Yesterday there was read a telegram to Arthur Lehman, Treasurer of the Joint Distribution Committee of American Funds for Jewish War Sufferers, of which Felix M. Warburg is Chairman, which announced that friends of Mr. Billikopf in his home town of Kansas City had subscribed $4,500, with which to refund the salary paid to him during his ten months' stay in New York on the business of the campaign. This, according to the telegram, was done in appreciation of the honor which the achievements of Mr. Billikopf had brought to his community. In commenting upon this, Mr. Sulzberger remarked that if Mr. Billikopf had received $45,000 instead of $4,500 he would still have been underpaid.

Another big out-of-town contribution announced yesterday for the national fund was a check for $30,000 from Marion Travis, the oil man of Tulsa, Okla. Mr. Travis had previously contributed $25,000, but in addition to these he further wired the central organization that he would give $2 for every $1 raised in the city of Tulsa in addition.

To show the urgency of the need there was read at the meeting the following telegram received by the State Department from the American Minister at Copenhagen:

> The suffering of Jews in Poland Lithuania is beyond description. They want food, clothing, and fuel. The children's legs cannot carry them. Parents hide death of children to retain bread cards, spreading disease and pestilence in houses. Thousands of children have tuberculosis and are in want of food. Of 90,000 Jewish children in Warsaw only 21,000 are in homes, others begging in the streets. Jewish girls beg soldiers for bread and are exposed to great dangers. Wives and widows of Russian soldiers go mad from awful sufferings. Of 340,000 Jews 224,000 receive public help of money and food. Among these are many who owned fifty to sixty thousand rubles. Lithuania is worse. Sufferers in occupied districts are over one and a half million. Thoroughly needed are asylums, orphanages, maintenance of aged, soup kitchens, homes for tuberculous children in the country, condensed milk, boots, clothing, and fuel. In Palestine about sixty thousand are destitute—many live in fields, and Wintner is approaching.

M. L. Schiff's Team Leads.

The figures reported yesterday by the various teams showed that No. 22, of which Mortimer L. Schiff is captain, was again in the lead. Its figures reported on Monday night were $103,100, in addition to a $200,000 contribution from Jacob H. Schiff, which his son allowed to be transferred from Team 22's account into the miscellaneous contributions in order to stimulate competition. Yesterday the team obtained contributions of $34,575, raising its total to $137,675. To this team was credited on of the two largest single contributions announced during the day, a pledge of $10,000 from Otto H. Kahn. The other $10,000 gift was made by Aaron Naumburg.

Team 18, captained by H. B. Rosen, which on Monday night succeeded Mr. Schiff's organization in first place after the withdrawal of the $200,000 gift, did not report yesterday. Its total for the first day was $110,602. Third place is held by Team 4, captained by William Goldman, which to its first-day figure of $78,000 added yesterday $25,150, making a total of $103,150.

Mr. Goldman addressed the audience for a moment toward the close of the meeting, pointing out one of the peculiar conditions under which his team was working. "I represent an industry," he said, "in which there are no rich men. But they realize that the raising of $5,000,000 is a big job in which the whole community must get to work, and I am proud of the way in which the clothing men have lined up in this campaign so far."

Another round of cheers came when Israel Unterberg, captain of Team No. 30, announced that his total for the day of $6,880 represented 100 different subscriptions. Still another announcement which brought applause was that of a subscription of $136 from the members of the Pan American Mutual Aid Society.

The teams and captains will meet again at 5 o'clock this afternoon for tea and consultation at 19 West Forty-fourth Street.

Nathan Straus's Plea.

Nathan Straus yesterday made a statement, in which he said in part:

"New York Jewry must do its duty. We who are living far away from the eastern war zone do not even imagine what war misery is. Only a few of us understand and feel the tragedy of those who live in the immediate roar of the firing line. Only too few of us grasp the scope of the terrible, indescribable catastrophe that has befallen the millions of our brethren who, by a chain of circumstances, have been placed just behind or between the firing lines. For nearly three years and a half millions of Jews, poor, unfortunate, and pious Jews, have witnessed the horrors of war destruction, rape, famine, plague, sudden evacuation, horrible oppression—hell. Thousands and tens of thousands of Jewish civilians, young and aged people, have perished from famine, hundreds of thousands of these unfortunates have been economically ruined and must stretch out their white, trembling hands for a piece of bread."

TWO $10,000 DONATIONS TO JEWISH WAR FUND

Mrs. John Henry Hammond is to give a children's party at her house, 9 East Ninety-first Street, on Saturday afternoon, to introduce to the children the Christmas Carnival that will be given for a week, beginning Dec. 22, at the Grand Central Palace. The little guests are each to bring a present for the son or daughter of the men who are now serving the colors. There will be motion pictures, and Mrs. Rogers H. Bacon and Mrs. Coffin Van Rensselaer are to speak.

Cooper-Lewis Wedding Saturday.

Miss Jessica Lewis, daughter of George Lewis of Douglas Manor, L. I., and George F. Cooper of Ruth, Nev., are to be married on Saturday at the home of the bride. On Nov. 24 Miss Lewis was maid of honor at the wedding of her sister, Miss Marjorie Lewis, and Henry E. Comings. Mr. Cooper is a mining engineer, and is a native of New York. The couple will reside at Ruth, Nev.

Daughter Weds at Golden Wedding.

Several guests at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Merrell of Vienna, N. J., in 1867, attended the marriage yesterday of the aged couple's daughter, Miss Grace Merrell, who became the bride of John N. Balmoos. The occasion was the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, and also the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of their son, Frank Merrell.

Professor William B. Owen.

EASTON, Penn., Dec. 4.—William Baxter Owen, Professor of Latin at Lafayette College and a member of the Faculty of the college for forty-five years, died at his home on the campus today in his seventy-sixth year. He was the last member of a group of educators who, with the late Professor Marsh, devoted their entire lives to the upbuilding of Lafayette.

Alex. S. Thweatt Dead.

Alexander S. Thweatt, General Eastern Passenger Agent of the Southern Railway, and for more than thirty-four years with that company, died last night at his home, 600 West 150th Street, in his fifty-sixth year. Mr. Thweatt was born in Milledgeville, Ga., and was widely known in railroad circles in the South as well as in New York.

WALTER HALE DEAD.

Walter Hale, actor, artist, and author, who had appeared on the legitimate stage here in many prominent rôles and whose etchings had been exhibited at the Paris Salon, died yesterday at his home, 27 Washington Square North, in his forty-ninth year. Death was due to cancer. Mr. Hale left the stage three years ago to devote his time to etching, and at the outbreak of the war he went to France as a correspondent, obtaining material for his last book, "By Motor to the Firing Line."

Mr. Hale was born in Chicago in 1869, the son of Robert Hale, a wholesale merchant, and Virginia Timberlake Hale. Mr. Hale had been leading man for Julia Marlowe, W. H. Crane, and James K. Hackett, and for many years was with Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre stock company. For many years previous to his retirement he was with John Mason in the plays of Augustus Thomas.

In 1899 Mr. Hale married Louise Closser, an actress, who later was the author of several novels and short stories.

ADMIRAL CHARLES C. ROGERS

Veteran Who Won Medals in Spanish-American War Dies at 61.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Rear Admiral Charles Curtis Rogers, U. S. N., retired, who was constructor of the naval station at Guantanamo, Cuba, 1904-06, died at a hospital here tonight. He was 61 years old and a native of Virginia.

Admiral Rogers's last active service was as commandant of the navy yard at Portsmouth, N. H. He was retired in 1914 because of ill-health. He served as executive officer of the Resolute in the Spanish-American war and received medals for conduct in actions off Santiago and Manzanillo.

ALBERT W. SCHOLLE DIES.

Albert W. Scholle, senior member of the firm of Scholle Bros. & Co., bankers, of this city and San Francisco, died yesterday at his home, 763 Fifth Avenue. Mr. Scholle was born in San Francisco in 1860, and was educated at the University of California, from which he was graduated in the class of 1883. He was in charge of the San Francisco end of Scholle Bros. & Co. for several years, coming to this city twenty-two years ago. He was a director of the Third Avenue Railway, Mount Sinai Hospital, and the Mount Sinai Training School for Nurses. He was a member of the Harmony Club and the Century Country Club. Mr. Scholle is survived by two sons.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. CATHERINE AUGUSTA HUNNELL, a former resident of Washington, D. C., and widow of William Hunnell, who was for many years an official of the Department of the Interior, died on Sunday at her home, 81 Crooke Avenue, Flatbush. She left a son and two daughters.

LESLIE LINCOLN WALDORF, a real estate dealer in Brooklyn for many years, died on Sunday at his home, 510 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, in his fifty-eighth year.

Dr. ANSHEL McKINSTRY WHITBECK, a retired physician, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, 515 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, at the age of 81 years. Dr. Whitbeck was born in Hudson, N. Y., where he practiced until the civil war began, and then became examining physician for the United States Army. Before coming to Brooklyn ten years ago Dr. Whitbeck practiced in Albany.

PUT WAR EXPORTS IN RAILROAD HANDS

Seven Executives Named to Relieve Freight Congestion at This Port.

EMBARGO ON STEEL FIRST

Powers of Committee Will Be Rapidly Extended Until It Controls All Outbound Traffic.

Following the pooling of the Eastern railroads, another great step toward perfecting the handling of export freight for this Government and the Allies was taken yesterday in the announcement of the formation of a committee of railroad executives to control, with the approval of the United States Government, the movement of all exports of whatever description from Atlantic ports to Europe. Control of the export of steel is at once placed under the direction of the committee, and its powers will be rapidly extended.

The formation of this committee, with plenary powers, is regarded as a long, bold step toward getting a master grip on the export traffic of the country, lack of system in the management of which has been in great part responsible for the congestion at Atlantic seaboards. Millions of tons are awaiting shipment at ports where no boats are ready to load it. The shipping available for a number of ports cannot care for the traffic awaiting. The committee will keep back exports from the ports until there are ships to handle it, and with the co-operation of the Federal authorities, including the Shipping Board and Priority Board, the railroads hope to keep exports running in a nearly as possible smooth-flowing stream during the war.

The headquarters of the committee will be at 165 Broadway, adjoining the offices of the representatives of the allied Governments, and the two offices will keep in close touch. The committee will, of course, work in close co-operation with the Railroads' War Board, with headquarters at Washington. Immediate action was taken as regards steel because that is regarded as the most important commodity being handled, and because there is necessity for accommodating the requirements of the various needs to be filled by the American supply, and necessity that the steel shall be kept moving promptly where it is most needed.

George D. Ogden, Freight Traffic Manager of the Pennsylvania System, is Chairman of the committee, the other members of which are R. Van Ummerson, General Freight Agent of the Boston & Albany Railroad; F. B. La Bau, Traffic Manager of the New York Central Railroad; Robert L. Russell, General Freight Agent of the Pennsylvania & Reading Railway; Archibald Fries, Freight Traffic Manager of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; E. D. Hotchkiss, Freight Traffic Manager of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, and J. B. Ruffin, Freight Traffic Manager of the Norfolk & Western Railway. These men have all been relieved from duty by their respective roads to devote their whole time to the export problem. The first formal meeting of the committee was held yesterday, after which a statement was issued which said:

"The first steps toward the organization of a committee to assume charge of the overseas traffic of the Eastern railroads were taken on Saturday, Dec. 1, at a conference held in the offices of the Trunk Line Association, 143 Liberty Street, New York City. At this conference there were present the representatives in America of the British Ministry of Shipping, and the respective agents for the purchase and transportation of military supplies of the Russian and French Governments. The Railroads' War Board was represented by J. G. Rodgers, General Agent of Transportation at Military Headquarters; the lines in official classification territory, by George F. Randolph, Commissioner, and the Trunk Line Association, by C. C. McCain, Chairman. The following railroads were represented individually by their Traffic Vice Presidents and other officers: Erie, Pennsylvania, Lehigh Valley, New York Central, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western; Baltimore & Ohio, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Western Maryland, Philadelphia & Reading, Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western, New York, New Haven & Hartford; Boston & Albany, and Boston & Maine.

"At the preliminary conference the situation was fully explained by Mr. Ogden at the request of the General Operating Committee of the Eastern railroads, and a unanimous agreement was reached between the representatives of the allied Governments and of the various railroad companies. The first duty of the new committee will be to administer the general embargo on export iron and steel, billets, bars, plates, scrap and pig iron, (except for the United States Government,) which all the Eastern railroads have just been ordered to place in effect at once by the General Operating Committee at Pittsburgh. Assumption of jurisdiction over the other forms of export traffic will follow.

"The necessity for embargoing export traffic in the iron and steel products specified resulted from the great accumulation of these products which the railroads have delivered at the North Atlantic ports, and which are now stored on the ground or in cars and are immediately available for export.

"The Eastern railroads have thus furnished more transportation service of this character than can be utilized at the time, it was felt, in view of the scarcity of coal and coke in many parts of the United States, and the resulting serious curtailment of industrial production, particularly in Western Pennsylvania and Ohio, that it had become urgently necessary to discontinue the use of railroad equipment and other facilities for the moving of traffic which cannot be promptly trans-shipped when it reaches tidewater."

HERO LAND PAGEANT REVIVES OLD POLAND

Paderewski the Central Figure in Performance for War Bazaar —Belgian Appeal Today.

A spectacle showing Poland in the happy days before the war was the feature of Polish Day at Hero Land yesterday. More than 1,000 persons took part in the pageant last night and in a Christmastide Festival for children in the afternoon.

The pageant was under the patronage of I. J. Paderewski, the pianist; Mme. Helena Paderewska, and Mme. Laura de Gordawa Turczynowicz. Paderewski's new Polish battle hymn was sung by a chorus of 200 Poles, lead by M. Kallini, the music being supplied by the First Polish Military Band, led by Director Wienski.

The spectacle began by dances of peasants symbolic of the happy days in Poland. The first dance was a krakowiak, followed by a mazur. After several other folk dances all of the peasants started the oberek, which was rudely interrupted by the appearance of figures clad in black, representing the spirit of war. The terrified peasants fled to the foot of the altar, knelt, and sang the old Hymn of Poland. Red Cross nurses filed through the kneeling throngs and implored aid for the stricken country. Volunteers sprang up ready to fight for freedom. To the sound of martial music the assemblage turned again toward the altar, above which the shield of Poland burst into light, and the new Battle Hymn of Poland was sung.

The Red Cross nurses were led by Elsie Ferguson. The Polish dancers were under the patronage of the Polish Falcons Society. The men representing war were members of the 69th New York regiment. The volunteers were recruits now in training to fight in France under the flag of Poland. The Pageant Committee was composed of Mrs. George Barton French, Francis Marfoe, and Richard Ordinski.

Yesterday the Tiny Theatre of the Stage Women's War Relief presented Phyllis Neilson Terry, Chrystal Herne, Clifford Brooks, Caryl Bensel, and Selma Clayburgh. On today's program will appear Ethel Barrymore, Christie MacDonald, Eva Le Gallienne, Florence Turner, Ernest Truex, and Cosmo Hamilton's sketch, "Soldiers' Daughters," with Hilda Spong, Olive Wyndham, and Mrs. Thomas Wise. Mrs. Henry B. Harris presented Billie Burke in "Arms and the Girl" at the Motion Picture Theatre yesterday. Today will be Movie Day at the Authors' League booth.

This will be Belgian Day. The proceeds of the Fake Ball tonight will be devoted to the Queen of the Belgians' Charities. Among the patronesses are Mrs. James W. Gerard, Mrs. Edmund L. Baylies, Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Walter H. Maynard, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. Bayard Thayer, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Lady Lister Kaye, Mrs. William P. Thompson, and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson.

ASK $892,000,000 FOR ENGINEERS IN FRANCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Engineer operations, including the equipment of the corps, and railroad and other construction for the expeditionary force in France will cost nearly a billion dollars in 1919. The exact estimate, made public today in the annual report of Major Gen. William Black, Chief of Engineers, is $892,000,000, and is based on providing for the engineer operations of 1,500,000 men.

Equipment of the engineers is estimated at $135,000,000. For this work this year Congress appropriated $1,174,000, but a deficiency of $12,100,000 was incurred in outfitting the ten special railway regiments alone. One of these regiments helped stem the German assaults on the British front at Cambrai this week.

Congress provided $94,500,000 for engineer operations this year, but deficiency items totaling $186,000,000 have been submitted, the report says, "for construction work to be accomplished by the force in France."

The report shows that equipment for seventy divisions, or approximately 1,000,000 men, was purchased within 350 hours after the declaration of war, including 8,700,000 articles, among them four miles of pontoon bridges. Every unit sent to France took its full engineer equipment with it.

HIGHER FREIGHTS ON STEEL

Increases Up to 40 Per Cent. Allowed to Western Railroads.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Increases in freight rates on iron and steel articles ranging as high as 40 per cent. were allowed to Western railroads today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The increases were not so great as the railroads asked. They wished to cancel commodity rates and apply fifth-class rates, which would have caused increases varying from 20 to 50 per cent. The commission held that these were too high and allowed a varying scale of increases ranging up to 90 per cent. of the fifth-class rate.

Former rates on iron and steel articles were entirely too low in Western trunk territory, the commission held, owing mainly to the depression of the Chicago-St. Paul rate in competition with water carriers. The new rates, which may be filed shortly, apply principally from Chicago, Peoria, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, and Mississippi River crossings to various Western destinations.

No increase is proposed in present rates from Chicago to St. Louis, and other west bank Mississippi River cities, and the commission specifies that the new rates must not diturb the preent relationships in commodity rates from Kansas City and St. Louis.

The commission today deferred until April 4, 1918, the effective date of proposals of the principal trunk line railroads east of the Mississippi to raise joint rail and lake rates to the level of all-rail rates. Investigation of the entire water competition situation on the Great Lakes will be made meanwhile.

Applications for increased rates on livestock in less than carloads, east of the Mississippi were denied by the commission, but permission was given to make new minimum rate rulings which would result in small increases. The increases allowed amount to an average of 15 per cent., and apply mainly to the shipment of breeding animals. The commission ordered Eastern railroads to cancel proposed rates providing charges on ordinary livestock, dependent upon value.

ALBANY, Dec. 4.—A check for $2,074,779, the amount of the inheritance tax on the estate of the late Colonel Oliver Hazard Payne of New York, was received by State Controller Travis today. The estate was valued at $33,000,000.

Receipt of this payment brings the inheritance tax receipts for the last three months up to $6,352,983.

Will Organize War Loans.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Lewis B. Franklin of New York, former President of the Investment Bankers' Association, was appointed by Secretary McAdoo today Director of War Loan Organization for the Treasury. He has been serving as a voluntary aid without compensation since the first Liberty Loan was issued, and will continue on the same basis.

CHANGES CERTAIN IN REVENUE LAW

HEARINGS BEGIN NEXT WEEK

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Revision of the last revenue bill in several particulars will result from the hearings which the House Ways and Means Committee will hold next week. Representative Kitchin, while declining to admit that the bill would be amended and improved in many essential features, said today that the committee would probably act favorably upon many, if not all, of the recommendations to be submitted by the special committee which had considered the excess profits section. This committee is headed by Professor T. S. Adams of Yale University, and on its membership is Representative Cordell Hull, regarded as an authority on income taxes.

There seems to be an agreement on both sides that it would be unwise to attempt to revise the bill in its entirety. The revision which will be attempted, therefore, will be only along the line of improvement of sections where experience has shown that injustice exists. The occupational tax section, No. 209, is certain to be eliminated, at least so far as the exemption of the salaries of State, municipal, and Federal employes is concerned. Half a dozen bills have already appeared insisting upon this exemption being eliminated, while there are several bills striking the section out altogether. Objection is raised that this is a double tax, a tax on brains and industry, while invested capital is taxed only once. The professional man must pay his regular income tax and the occupation tax as well if his income is over $6,000. The man with invested capital pays only the regular income tax.

In addition to considering the recommendations of the special committee, the Ways and Means members will take up the occupation tax section and make an attempt to redefine capital.

The provision in the last bill defining capital was decided upon within twenty-four hours of adjournment and is admitted to be inadequate and unjust. As a result many corporations which are capitalized at nominal amounts, but which own valuable trade marks, will be practically put out of business, since they must compute the full value of their trade marks as capital. This applies especially to patent medicines and like preparations.

Another matter which will be considered is an amendment of the second-class mail section. Many magazines and some newspapers have already sent a strong petition for a hearing, which will probably be granted.

Senator Smoot of Utah offered a bill in the Senate today to repeal Section 209 and Sections 1,101 to 1,103, inclusive. There is a disposition evident in the Senate to eliminate the 8 per cent. surtax on incomes provided in Section 209 to replace the second-class postal tax with one that will be more acceptable to publishers. The Senate Finance Committee has been informed that the second-class postal rate will drive publishers of many small newspapers and periodicals out of business. Senator Smoot expects to call his bill up soon after Jan. 1.

HOUSE VISITS ARMY AND GIVES HIGH PRAISE

Says He Will Tell President Fitness of Our Troops Surpasses All His Expectations.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Dec. 4, (Associated Press.)—Colonel E. M. House and other members of the American mission, with General Pershing and Viscount Northcliffe, inspected the American army today. Colonel House said that he would tell President Wilson that the energy, fitness, and enthusiasm of the men far surpassed anything he had expected.

"I watched the manoeuvres and saw the men work," he added. "They are fine. I hope those boys realize that the security of the United States for at least 100 years depends upon them. If earnestness is any indication, they understand what is before them and what they are expected to do."

The members of the mission visited the Reserve Officers' Training School and Army Headquarters, and later returned to Paris.2 All those in the party expressed themselves as surprised at the progress made, especially by the troops recently landed.

The party arrived at a Divisional Headquarters town on a special train, and were greeted by an infantry regiment as a guard of honor. They departed for the scene of troop manoeuvers where theoretical attacks were carried out, the troops being aided by airplanes. The party saw how mortars were worked, and witnessed bayonet drills and firing with automatic rifles and French 75s', among which was the first gun fired against the Germans.

ARMY FAIR TO NEGROES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Secretary Baker today announced that he had ordered an investigation of the allegation that there had been discrimination against negro draftees. His action was made public in a memorandum to Emmett J. Scott, who is special assistant in the War Department. The memorandum read in part:

"As you know, it has been my policy to discourage discrimination against any persons by reason of their race. This policy has been adopted, not merely as an act of justice to all races that go to to safeguard the very institutions which we are now, at the greatest sacrifice, engaged in defending, and which any racial disorders must endanger.

"I very much regret what seems to be a certain amount of overworked hysteria on the part of some of the complainants, who seem to think that only colored draftees are being assigned to duty in service battalions, whereas thousands of white draftees already have been, and more them necessarily will be, assigned to duty in such service battalions.

"The attitude of the War Department toward colored soldiers is clearly shown by the following facts: More than 626 of the 1,250 colored men who completed the course at the Reserve Officers' training camp, at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, have been commissioned as officers in the United States Army; nearly 100 colored physicians and surgeons have received commissions as officers in the Medical Reserve Corps, and a full fighting force of 30,000 colored soldiers, including representatives in nearly every branch of military service, will constitute the 92d Division, to be detailed for duty in France under General Pershing.

"The relations between the colored and white men, in the camps containing both, have been worked out on a very satisfactory basis, and little or no trouble seems likely to arise."

Bazaar to Aid First Field Hospital.

An Oriental bazaar will be presented under the direction of Major J. Franklin Dunseith, beginning tonight and continuing tomorrow, at the Armory of the First Field Hospital, 56 West Sixty-sixth Street. Major Dunseith will be assisted by Mrs. John J. McMahon, and the proceeds will be turned over to a fund to be used in the interest of the men of the First Field Hospital who are now quartered at Spartanburg, S. C.

EMBARGO CUTS OFF EXPORTS TO SWEDEN

Drastic enforcement of the embargo against neutrals, coupled with shortage in ocean tonnage, were said at the Custom House to be chief factors in cutting domestic exports from New York in October. A statement given out yesterday by Byron S. Newton, Collector of the port, covering outward movements in October to individual countries and grand divisions, showed total exports valued at $218,702,112, compared with $240,843,750 in September and $235,976,859 in October, 1916. As a matter of fact, October exports ran $3,649,957 behind the low record established last February, the first month of the German unrestricted submarine warfare.

While customs officials declined to make any comment on the subject, the Collector's report revealed for the first time that the American Government, by its refusal of licenses, had placed an absolute embargo on the export of products to Sweden, as not one dollar's worth of merchandise of any kind was credited in the report as having been shipped to that country. The Custom House tabulation contained a blank line drawn across the space allotted to Sweden, whereas the comparative table for October, 1916, credited Sweden with purchases here amounting to $3,951,168. In July, the month the licensing system was put into effect, Sweden was permitted to draw on this country for supplies to the extent of $1,346,503. Yesterday's monthly statement was the first in the history of the Custom House, so far as could be learned, which failed to show Sweden as an exporter of American merchandise.

Denmark also was hit hard by this Government's embargo, as October saw only $10,073 worth of foodstuffs and manufactures sent out of the port. This compared with $2,338,599 in October, 1916, and $1,250,566 in September of this year. Heavy pressure was put on Norway as the October shipments were returned at $477,521, against $1,722,000 in September, and $3,457,935 in October one year ago when no restrictions were imposed on Scandinavian buying.

In contrast to this was the showing made by the Netherlands. That country in October was allowed to ship supplies of many kinds valued at $5,477,082, closely approximating similar exports in October, 1916, when their value was returned at $5,540,160. Shipments to Switzerland in October reached a value of $1,633,099, against $471,860 in the same month last year. Spain, the remaining European neutral, fared better than in preceding months, as the October exports aggregated $4,171,665, against $3,014,290 in September last, and only $2,512,547 in October, 1916.

Exports of munitions and foodstuffs to the Entente countries in October were in every case below those of the month preceding, and in the cases of England and France lower than twelve months before. The October exports to these were: England, $46,513,494; France, $54,760,734; Russia, $21,187,669, and Italy, $15,044,480.

Exports to North America, Asia, and Africa were lower than in September, while shipments to South America and Oceania, including the Philippines, gained.

PIER FIRE INCENDIARY, E. P. MORSE ASSERTS

Head of Brooklyn Company Says Many Suspicious Blazes Have Started, Despite Precautions.

Officials investigating the fire which destroyed several buildings of the plant of the Morse Dry Dock and Repair Company at Fifty-sixth Street, South Brooklyn, on Monday night, refused to say yesterday whether they had obtained evidence in support of the belief that it was started by an incendiary. E. P. Morse, the head of the concern, said that he believed the fire had been deliberately set, though he had no definite proof of the fact. He said:

"We have had so many fires under suspicious circumstances since we have been engaged on Government work, and have taken so many precautions to prevent them, that we are inclined to believe that this was caused by an incendiary."

Mr. Morse said that a survey of the plant yesterday had established that the damage was about $100,000.

PROPOSES AMERICAN LEGION OF HONOR

Resolution by Senator Owen Also Designed to Enable Americans to Wear Foreign Decoration.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Senator Owen of Oklahoma offered a resolution in the Senate today to provide for the creation of the American Legion of Honor, membership in which would be conferred by the President, on advice of the Senate "as a reward for very distinguished services rendered the people of the United States." It is intended that medals be given soldiers for conspicuous service during the war, also a parchment suitably inscribed. Living membership in the order would be confined to 200 persons.

The President is authorized, under the resolution, to grant a Cross of Valor for "conspicuous and patriotic service in the military, naval, or other services of the United States." This would correspond with the French Croix de Guerre or the British Victoria Cross. Another feature of the resolution is to authorize "officers, employes, and citizens of the United States to receive war decorations tendered them by any of the nations now engaged in war with the present Government of Germany."

MEANS WILL TAKE STAND.

Counsel Announces He Will Testify —Jury at Murder Scene.

CONCORD, N. C., Dec. 4.—Gaston B. Means will take the stand in his own defense at his trial in Cabarrus County Court here on the charge of the murder of Mrs. Maude A. King. This was announced late today by counsel for the defense during an argument in the absence of the jury on the admissibility of the testimony of W. P. Grier, a lawyer of Statesville, N. C. The court withheld decision as to the admitting of Grier's evidence.

Further details of the financial transactions of Means, in some of which, at least, Mrs. King furnished the money, were brought out today by the State in cross-examination of witnesses for the defense.

Two more North Carolina physicians testified today th atin their opinion Mrs. King could have shot herself.

On motion of the defence Judge Cline instructed Sheriff Caldwell to take the jury to the scene of the killing at Blackwelder Spring for an inspection. The trip was made later in the day.

Ask Funds for Destitute Mother.

The Charity Organization Society appeals for help for a woman left destitute on the day of the birth of a child by the death of her husband, who was run over by a motor truck. In her struggle to support the infant and older children, the mother contracted tuberculosis, and was finally obliged to ask assistance from the society. She has had the best of medical care and is on the way to health and independence, but $150 is needed to keep the family together in the meantime. Gifts sent to the society at 105 East Twenty-second Street will be promptly acknowledged.

Divorces "Jack" Barrymore.

Los Angeles, Dec. 4.—Mrs. Katherine Corri Harris Barrymore today obtained a divorce from her husband, John Barrymore Blythe, known on the stage as "Jack Barrymore." They were married on Sept. 1, 1910, in New York City. Mrs. Barrymore was a daughter of Sidney Harris and a granddaughter of the late Judge John R. Brady of New York.

WAR THRIFT STAMPS SOLD QUICKLY HERE

ALL STORES TO CO-OPERATE

30,000 Primers Distributed in School Tell How Children Can Help Finance the War.

So great was the demand for thrift and war savings stamps in the first two days of the Government's new drive for funds that Frederick W. Allen, Director of the War Savings Committee, yesterday found the initial allotment of $10,000,000 worth for this city was nearly exhausted. He declared it would be necessary to obtain a new supply from Washington, especially as the committee was making arrangements to establish about 50,000 distributing centres among the mercantile, factory, and business establishments of the city.

By Thursday, the stamps will also be placed on sale in all of the schools. Teachers have organized thrift clubs among their pupils, and it is expected that the school children themselves will absorb about a million dollars' worth of stamps within two weeks. More than 30,000 primers explaining the war savings plan have been distributed among the teachers, and they are directed to discuss the subject under the heading of current history.

The War Savings Committee has provided every school child with a war savings stamp card, giving a brief outline of the thrift plan. This card has also been distributed for the use of the public at library branches. Acting Supervisor of Lectures, Wendell Thomas, has sent out a circular letter containing a summary of the war savings idea, and has asked all of his lecturers to discuss the matter in their talks to the public. In this manner, it is expected that more than 600,000 persons will be reached.

Mr. Allen issued a special appeal yesterday urging all retail dealers to make an application for a permit to sell stamps. These applications can be made to the Director of War Savings, to any Post Office, or to any bank. The Treasury Department, Mr. Allen announced yesterday, has ruled that agents of the second class, or those who handle stamps in quantities in excess of $1,000, must get their supplies from the Federal Reserve Bank. Agents of the first class, who handle stamps in quantities under $1,000, may obtain them from the Post Office or from a bank or agency of the second class.

"Any individual," said Mr. Allen, "though not an authorized agent, can purchase stamps in any amount. No one but an authorized agent, however, can receive war savings certificates unless they are purchased with at least one stamp attached to each certificate.

"We are going to make a special plea to all who make Christmas gifts of money to give war savings stamps this year instead of cash or checks. If you want to give money to members of your family or to your employes, you can send to your bank and have a war savings certificate issued in the name of the person to whom you intend to make the gift. In this way you will start that individual on the way to thrift and prosperity."

The rush for stamps at the Post Office substations and central branches created a demand for extra clerks to handle the new business. In many of the stations it was noticeable that the thrift idea was making an especially strong appeal to the women, they being in the majority among the purchasers of war savings stamps. At the Grand Central Station a special room had to be set aside for the sale of stamps. Reports received by the War Savings Committee from the various Post Office stations indicated that the $5,000,000 worth of stamps put on sale on Monday through the Post Office branches had almost been bought up.

As on the first day of the drive, the banks yesterday continued to play an active part in the distribution of the stamps and certificates. Gates W. McGarrah, President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, sent an appeal to bankers throughout the United States calling their attention to the opportunity they now had to "lend their support to a unique and intensely interesting experiment in war finance."

"The campaign to sell $2,000,000,000 worth of war savings certificates has begun," the letter read. "It is the ambition of the authorities at Washington to place these certificates eventually in 30,000,000 American homes.

"Perhaps the reason for this has not up to the present time been made altogether clear. A successful sale of the certificates, it has been announced, will postpone the offering of the third Liberty Loan. That is important. But more important by far, a successful sale will reflect the American public's recognition of the vital part that economy and saving, even of the smallest amount, will play in bringing victory out of our war with Germany."

Candle Sales Mount.

The use of candles for table illumination and for household decorative purposes is said by manufacturers in this city to have increased considerably this Fall. Local retail stores are said to have bought liberally for the holiday trade, and demand from many other sections of the country seems to be on an equally large scale. Some novelty designs have been good but, as a rule, it seems the best sellers are the solid pinks and blues in more or less plain staple shapes.

Gradually Getting Dress Goods.

Dress goods sellers in this city, though they still do not seem anxious for future business, are reported to be in a more receptive mood toward buyers. While they do not look with favor on orders for delivery next Fall, they seem to be taking Spring business without hesitation. Many of the local cloak and suit manufacturers say they have now placed orders for all the materials they want for the Spring season. Those who are in the habit of ordering as far ahead as next Fall, however, have not been able so far to place their full requirements. But they do not seem very much worried. "I don't think," said one manufacturer, "that we will have any trouble in crossing the bridge when we come to it."

Fleeced Underwear Also Higher.

Eastern made fleeced underwear for men is going to cost the jobber from 40 to 50 per cent. more than it did a year ago, judging from prices made on Fall, 1918, goods by the High Rock Knitting Company. Men's thirteen-pound standard fleece shirts and drawers were priced at $8 a dozen, and fourteen-pound goods at $8.50. These prices covered deliveries from January to June next, and the goods were sold on a net sixty-day basis. Men's twenty-pound fleece union suits, made by the same company, were priced at $14.75 a dozen, and twenty-one-pound goods at $15.25. Prices were made yesterday by the Union Mills, Inc., on similar merchandise, but because of the unusual conditions surrounding the trade this season they were not given out for publication. It is understood that their production was quite closely sold, as far ahead as they wanted to go, at the close of business. Practically all of the leading Eastern lines of ribbed and fleeced underwear have now been priced.

Staple White Goods Sell Best.

Staple printcloths, including such goods as longcloths, nainsooks, batistes, voiles, &c., are showing up as far and away the leaders in the large advance Spring business that has been taken to date. Fancies have not been altogether overlooked, but they do not figure very much when compared with the volume of staple goods that have been disposed of. Leading sellers report that both in yardage and money this year's sales lead those of 1916, and in at least one instance the money value of the goods sold so far is the largest in the history of the concern. Another feature of the business is the number of requests that are coming in for anticipations of deliveries. In a great many cases shipments ordered from Jan. 1 or later are being set ahead thirty days in an effort to beat out traffic delays.

Velvets Continue Active.

Demand for velvets, according to reports from the local trade, continues strong from many sources. Cutters are said to have been particularly heavy buyers and to have taken larger quantities this Fall than they have done for many seasons. There has also been quite a little buying from this source for Spring delivery, and from all indications the coming 1918 season will again see velvets high in favor. The colors most sought are taupe, peacock blue, dark brown, purple, and olive drab. Milliners also have been heavy purchasers of velvets this year, due to the popularity of this fabric in hats. Price seems to be but a minor consideration, and in some of the most sought shades premiums are paid without question. Buying from this source is said in many cases to have been for us far ahead as next Fall delivery. Granite, navy blue, old rose, and dark seal are the favored shades in these orders.

Gray Goods Prices Firm.

Neither the further break in cotton nor the lessened demand for goods on the part of buyers had the effect of easing off prices in the local gray goods market yesterday. While inquiries were said to be fairly numerous, actual sales of importance were few and far between. Some nearby business was put through on 39-inch 68-72s at 13¾ cents, with most sellers asking 14 cents for anything this side of the turn of the year. Some "seconds" of the construction were in the market, however, for quick delivery at 13¼ cents. Some January business was reported on 38½-inch 64-60s at 11⅞ cents, with spots held at 12 to 12⅛ cents. In the sheetings, sales of four-yard, 56-60s were recorded at 15 cents, with four-yard, 48 squares moving at 14½ cents. On business done for delivery in the second quarter of the coming year, prices ranging from a quarter to a half cent less than spot figures were paid. Printcloth prices closed this way:

39-inch, 68-72s	14c	38½-inch, 60-52s	10¾c
39-inch, 56-44s	9¾c	38½-inch, 60-48s	10⅛c
38½-inch, 64-64s	12⅜c	27-inch, 61-60s	*8⅝c

Look for Heavier Coal Shipments.

The Coal Trade Journal will say today that the local trade is waiting with as much patience as possible for the fulfillment of the State Fuel Administrator's promise that more anthracite will shortly be rushed to this market. The need for such relief is made all the more urgent by the cold weather of the last fortnight, which has led to the depletion of stocks in the bins of consumers at a more rapid rate than would have been the case had milder conditions prevailed. Bituminous shippers are encouraged to some extent by the steps taken to improve the transportation service by pooling cars and treating coal as preferred freight.

Will Go After Foreign Trade.

A corporation has been formed here, under the name of the International Ready to Wear Corporation, that will have for its object the expansion of American export business in women's and children's garments of all kinds. Until after the war the attention of the executives and members of the corporation will be directed to the West Indian and Central and South American markets, but after peace is declared it is their intention to go into more distant business centres. When fully organized it is understood that the enterprise will include about fifteen leading manufacturers of non-competing goods, including shoes. These are the houses that are at present represented in the corporation: H. B. Rubin, coats and suits; Leo Finkenberg, Inc., dresses; Reisman, Rothman & Rubin, children's coats; Borgenicht Sons Company, children's dresses; Joseph Corn, petticoats, and Levay & Friedberg, skirts. Morris Marks of H. B. Rubin is Secretary of the corporation.

Wall Paper Market Improves.

Local manufacturers of wall paper report the dullness of the Fall season to have been dissipated to a great extent lately by a fairly good business, considering the time of the year, in the better grades. "It was inevitable," said one manufacturer, "that business this Fall should be quiet. With landlords refusing to decorate unless the tenant agreed to higher rents, and with practically no new buildings going up, nothing else could be expected. But private house decoration has been as good as usual, and in many cases much better grades of paper have been used. Inquiries from the trade for Spring lines are very good, and the prospects are reassuring. During the last few weeks we have done an unusual amount of business in papers selling for $6 and $7 a roll. I believe that, though landlords are holding back, private owners are spending, and will continue to spend, as much as they ever did."

Are Having Their Troubles.

Not only has the Government underwear business taken by knitting mills helped to supply the wherewithal required to keep the wolf from the door, but it has proved a windfall to mills located in the more out of the way sections of the country in quite another way. This may be best explained in the words of the head of a certain concern who told a big buyer yesterday that if he (the mill man) were not making Government goods he would not be able to get coal enough to last him overnight. The buyers, however, also are having their troubles. Not only have prices been advanced sharply, but selling terms also have been changed to their disadvantage. On top of all this, sellers are not anxious to unload their product, and get refractory when pushed. Rumor has it, too, that office doors are sometimes locked when word is passed that "So-and-so" is coming down the hall.

Receiver for A. P. A. of W. Va.

Judge Manton of the Federal District Court yesterday appointed E. Bright Wilson receiver of the American Press Association of West Virginia, which filed a petition in bankruptcy on Monday with liabilities of $1,154,782, and assets of $9,026. The company is a subsidiary of the American Press Association, a New York corporation, which is prosperous, and which has announced that it will assume the debts of the dependent concern.

BUSINESS TO EMPLOYES.

HARTFORD, Dec. 4.—Under the will of Henry P. Hitchcock, filed in the Probate Court here today, an employe, Herman Spiegel, is left the merchant tailoring establishment conducted many years by Mr. Hitchcock. Spiegel also is left twenty-five shares of Travelers Insurance Company stock. A chauffeur, John A. Carlson, receives $5,000 and numerous charities of Hartford and the State also are remembered, most of them getting Travelers stock.

Mr. Hitchcock died recently, leaving an estate of about $1,000,000, a great part of which goes to former friends and distant relatives, as no immediate family survived him.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Arnold W. Engel, who was for many years with Engel & Kraus, has associated himself with Monroe H. Bauer, formerly with William Meyer & Co., and Clarence R. Silberstein, who also was with Engel & Kraus, in the corporation known as Engel, Bauer & Co. The new organization will manufacture women's neckwear and has opened an office at 101 Fifth Avenue.

The Princess Corset Company, which is now situated at 6 and 8 West Eighteenth Street, will, on Feb. 1, move to larger quarters in the building at 87 and 89 Fifth Avenue.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

LIEBMAN & BRESLOR.—Two petitions in bankruptcy have been filed against Samuel Liebman and Max Breselor, comprising the firm of Liebman & Breselor, jobbers in silks and woolens at 154 Ridge St., one by these creditors, John M. Nelson, $1,000; Benjamin Bernstein, $73, and Adolph Menowitz, $100; the other by Meyer Cohen, $617; Wilsker Smoller, $500, and A. L. Emlis, $160. Judge Manton appointed Jacob Sevilla receiver. Liabilities are $26,000 and assets $10,000.

JACOB SEIDMAN of 18 West 113th Street, a hotel manager, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,166 and no assets. The principal creditors are Bertha Vivian, $929, and George T. Vivian, $559, judgments for personal injuries, and Margaret V. Keeley, $550, rent on lease.

BARNETT LIFSHITZ, manufacturer of cigars at 66 East 104th Street—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against him by Bessie Grenwald, a creditor, for $1,608. Judge Manton appointed John C. Sheppard receiver.

L. LONDON & SON.—Judge Manton has dismissed a petition in bankruptcy, filed on Dec. 4, 1915, against L. London & Son, manufacturers of fur caps at 44 East Eighth Street, on a settlement with creditors at 20 cents on the dollar cash.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.—Judge Manton appointed E. Bright Wilson receiver for the American Press Association, a West Virginia corporation, on application of Hunt, Hill & Betts, and Rosenberg & Ball, representing unsecured creditors.

ANDREW JACKSON, dealer in millinery at 1,772 Amsterdam Avenue, has made an assignment to Charles H. Chapman.

MORRIS KRESIN, grocer at 225 East Seventieth Street, has made an assignment to Benjamin Meyers.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks React Quickly on Suggestion of New Price-Fixing Policy.

"Recent experience has convinced me that the Congress must go further in authorizing the Government to set a limit to prices," said the President near the close of his message. "The law of supply and demand, I am sorry to say, has been replaced by the law of unrestrained selfishness. While we have eliminated profiteering in several branches of industry, it still runs impudently rampant in others."

Up to this point Wall Street read the President's message with approval, although with indifference as to its effect upon security values. The intimation that price regulation must be carried much further was seized upon as a promise of further disturbance to the industrial activities of the country, and a sharp spurt of selling broke prices throughout the list with great suddenness. For the first time since the promulgation of the new rules calling for memoranda of short selling bear pressure was applied through offerings of large size in connection with the creation of a new short interest. This was particularly apparent in United States Steel, where a gain that had been made on the publication of the first part of the message was quickly extinguished and a substantial recession from the previous close established. In the last few minutes of trading large selling orders in this issue carried the price back to 87⅞, off 3½ points for the day, and to a new low record for the year. Marine preferred closed at 91, off 5 points, but the weakness in this issue became pronounced earlier in the day as evidence of disappointment over the action of the Directors in voting a payment of 10 per cent. on account of back dividends in lieu of the expected funding plan to take care of the entire accumulation.

It was the first time in years, perhaps, that the President's message came as a complete surprise to every one in the financial district. The usual precautions taken to avoid premature publication resulted in unusual interest in the message as it came in piecemeal over the wires. For the most part the President's views were in keeping with expectations, but his promise of a broadening of the policy of price control proved disheartening to the traders. Fears that at last the Federal authorities will take up the matter of regulating the price of cotton resulted in a sharp break in that staple. The price of cotton has fallen a full cent a pound in the last two days. The reduction in the Kennecott Copper Company dividend, while not forecast by the course of earnings, was not unexpected, and had apparently been fairly well discounted before the meeting of the board. Transactions were swollen by the resumption of professional activities, and exceeded a half million shares for the first time in some days.

LONDON MARKET IS FIRM.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—After a hesitating opening today the stock market developed a brighter tone and a firmer tendency. Gilt-edged securities were benefited by the reinvestment of dividends, Spanish bonds were firm on the decline in exchange rates and Marconis were strong features, especially Americans.

Argentine rails maintained their recent strength, but shipping shares were irregular. Money was in good demand and discount rates were dull.

Trading Dull on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—Trading was dull on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 59 francs 50 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 27 francs 22½ centimes. Five per cent. loan 87 francs 95 centimes.

CANADIAN PACIFIC REPORT.

November Earnings Highest for Any Month in Company's History.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Dec. 4.—Preliminary returns of the Canadian Pacific Railway's gross earnings for November show that a new high record for any month in the company's history has been established.

The weekly statements for November give a gross of $14,942,000, and it is probable, when the usual adjustments are carried, the monthly statement will top $15,000,000 by a good margin. The previous high record for a month was $14,733,774.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

There will be redeemed tomorrow $300,000,000 of the 3½ per cent. United States Treasury certificates of indebtedness, dated Sept. 17, and which mature Dec. 15; and a week hence, namely, Dec. 11, there will be redeemed $400,000,000 of the 4 per cent. certificates, dated Sept. 26, and having the same maturity. The Treasury recently decided to anticipate these payments because of the large funds which it has on hand. While the certificates bear interest at the rate of 3½ or 4 per cent., the rate paid by the banks for Government deposits is only 2 per cent. To meet the payments the Federal Reserve Bank, acting as fiscal agents for the Government, has advised the depositary banks of prospective withdrawals of funds. In addition to the withdrawals made last Friday, Saturday, and Monday, transfers will be effected Friday of this week and on Monday and Friday of next week.

Some Startling Ups and Downs.

Continental Can went through some wild gyrations yesterday, consequent on the piecemeal announcement on the ticker of the Directors' declaration of an extra dividend. First came the announcement that the Directors had declared an extra stock dividend of 35 per cent. on the common stock. The stock immediately shot up to 96⅞. Then came the rest of the announcement—that the dividend declaration is subject to the ratification of the stockholders at a meeting called for Jan. 3. A man who owned a block of the stock, and who only saw the quotation of 96⅞ on the ticker, hurriedly gave his broker an order to sell. He sold it—at 90. The stock thus dropped 6⅞ points on a single transaction.

The course of Mercantile Marine preferred yesterday indicated that a lot of traders were disappointed with the dividend of 10 per cent. Having their minds set upon a plan for large and early benefits, the decision of the Directors to cut a relatively moderate piece off the accumulation of dividends apparently promoted profit taking and short sales. The opening price of 92¾ represented an overnight shrinkage of 3¼ points, and, while a recovery quickly came, the irregular progress afterward indicated that buyers were not especially anxious to take on the stock. The late afternoon break was far less noticeable than the initial drop because the entire market moved off.

Two Points of View.

Declaration of the Marine dividend put the stock in a position where investors and speculators were able to view the situation from quite different points of vantage. The investor may reason that the ten-dollar disbursement is likely to be one of a series which, if amortized against the current purchase price, offers the opportunity for a buyer to get a 6 per cent. stock at a price in the neighborhood of 20 per cent. of its par value. The trader may consider that the relatively slow method of disposing of the 72 per cent. back dividends removes much of the speculative flavor from the stock. For the holder of the common stock the dividend was not unsatisfactory, precluding, as it did, the issue either of more common shares or notes.

Money in circulation on the first of the month was approximately $1,000,000,000 more than the total for a year ago, according to figures prepared by the Treasury Department. The general stock of money on Dec. 1 was estimated to be $6,026,127,909, as compared with $4,850,048,306 on the corresponding date in 1916. Based on an estimated population of 104,863,000, the Treasury places the per capita circulation at $48.50.

War and Taxation.

Some rather interesting comparisons between civil war finance and the present situation were drawn last night by J. Rattray of the War and Income Tax Department of the Guaranty Trust Company in an address to the Credit Men's Association of New Haven. Mr. Rattray pointed out that in the last year of the civil war $1,800,000,000 was realized from an internal loan, when the wealth of the country was only one-tenth of its present proportions, and that consequently, in comparison with what was accomplished then, the country is only beginning to feel the strain. He remarked that for each year of war it would be reasonable to expect five years of extraordinary taxation after it.

Trade Conditions in the Pacific.

It is reported that, unable to obtain satisfactory terms through the State Department for the regulation of Japanese shipping in the Pacific, and the transfer of a certain amount to the Atlantic, the Shipping Board, rather than leave the field to the Japanese, has partially rescinded its policy of bringing neutral and American ships to the Atlantic, and is not only letting ships already in the Pacific remain, but permitting some brought around to go back. Recent statistics on Pacific shipping give the total in deadweight tons: American, 400,000; British tramps, 1,450,000; Japanese, 1,900,000.

PAY MEXICAN BOND COUPONS

Improving business conditions in Mexico are reflected in an announcement made yesterday by the managers of the Guanajuato Power and Electric Company, the Central Mexico Light and Power Company, and the Michoacan Power Company of the payment on Jan. 1 of overdue coupons on bonds of the concerns. Interest payments were stopped in 1915. The amount to be paid on each $1,000 bonds will be somewhat in excess of $34, being one semi-annual coupon of $30 and interest at the rate of 6 per cent. on the coupons themselves. Coupons on smaller bonds will be paid at the same rates.

"On account of the resumption of the payment of power bills in Mexican silver," said a letter sent to bondholders by Curtis & Hine of Colorado Springs, Col., the managers, "instead of depreciated paper currency, these companies have been able to increase their aggregate bank balance in this country to such an extent as to make it practicable to commence payment of matured coupons on the bonds and still leave sufficient cash to meet such emergencies as can be reasonably anticipated."

INTERBORO SERVICE PUT OFF TILL MARCH

PUTS BLAME ON THE WAR

Station Finish and Signals Lacking—Materials Coming from Pittsburgh by Truck.

Operation of trains in the Lexington Avenue and Seventh Avenue subways will not begin before March 1 at the earliest. This word came yesterday from Oscar S. Straus, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, in a letter replying to a suggestion from President Dowling of the Board of Aldermen that partial operation of trains in these subways be begun at once to relieve congestion on existing lines.

This is the fourth time that the operation of these two subways has been postponed. About a year ago it was said that trains would be running in them in October last, then the date was set forward to December, then another delay was announced until Jan. 15.

Mr. Straus said the delays were due to "war conditions," and that they came in spite of every effort made by the Public Service Commission to hurry the work. In his letter there are several hopeful statements. He said the track work on the Seventh Avenue line through William and Wall Streets to the Battery was finished, that materials for the stations on both lines were being brought from Pittsburgh by motor truck, and that an extension of the service on the Seventh Avenue line, now operating from Times Square to the Pennsylvania station, may be expected south to the Battery "possibly by January."

The necessity for all of the signal and control devices that make for safety on the new lines is dwelt upon by Mr. Straus, who said that the difficulty of installing these systems was one reason why the work had been so greatly delayed.

After announcing that the suggestions contained in Mr. Dowling's letter urging at least partial operation on the two trunk lines had been considered by the commission Mr. Straus said:

"The track of the Seventh Avenue line to the Battery and through William Street to Wall Street is finished. On Lexington Avenue the track is in and the station finish is at a point where the stations could be used within a short time. Two other elements, however, are essential to operation, and they are signals and power.

"It is the work in connection with these two elements that is delaying immediate temporary or permanent operation. The necessary local stations for both the Seventh and Lexington Avenue lines have not been completed, although the work is progressing as rapidly as possible. Great difficulty is being experienced in securing the necessary material for the stations and signals for the reason that such material is of a character to which the national needs have priority, and without specifying I may state that it has happened that material completely fabricated and ready for shipment and needed for the Lexington and Seventh Avenue lines has been taken by the Government for immediate war purposes. You may be further interested in the fact that in an endeavor to rush completion necessary material is now being brought from Pittsburgh by trucks.

"The present indications are that complete operation of the 'H' system may not be had much before March 1. You will realize, of course, that with the subway carrying over a million passengers a day any radical change in the method of transportation as it is involved in the 'H' system must mean that the new line shall be fully equipped, not only as to station finish and tracks, but as to power and signals, in order that a full schedule of trains may be maintained, to the end that the traveling public may be discommoded as little as possible; for you will realize that when trains operate not as they do now, but directly up and down Fourth Avenue and Lexington Avenue, and up and down Seventh Avenue and Broadway, with a shuttle service from Grand Central Station to Times Square, many thousands of passengers will be thrown out of their usual method of travel and will be required to make transfers.

"As to temporary operation, the commission has hopes of securing, possibly in January of next year, an extension of the temporary service in the Seventh Avenue line, which now terminates at the Pennsylvania station, so that trains can operate from Times Square to the Battery and through William Street to Wall Street. In Lexington Avenue it may be possible shortly thereafter to have temporary operation from the diagonal station northward. You suggest the possibility that some of the present Bronx express trains be diverted at the diagonal station up Lexington Avenue. This has been under consideration and was a subject of discussion at the conference of Nov. 12 with the Interborough officials. Such operation, however, would require the installation of special signals, which might take as long as the completion of the work to secure the entire operation of the 'H' system.

"Temporary operation on Lexington Avenue is further complicated by the fact that it would not be possible to allow passengers to transfer from the present Grand Central station to the diagonal station. In other words, it would be useful only to those persons who work within walking distance of the diagonal station."

Mr. Straus said that Mr. Dowling would be glad to learn that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company would probably be operating trains on the Broadway line as far north as Times Square and as far south as Whitehall Street in the near future. This line is now running north to Fourteenth Street.

READING PROFITS DECREASE

Lower Railroad Earnings and Higher Taxes Account for Loss.

Increased profits from its coal and iron holdings during the month of October, according to the report of earnings just made, failed to balance the decrease in railroad earnings and heavy increase in taxes, so that the Reading Company made a worse showing for the month of October and the ten months ended with October in 1917 than in 1916.

The Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company reports receipts for October, 1917, of $4,776,133 and an operating profit of $747,889, an increase of $185,986, but an increase in estimated taxes and interest charges of $191,000, resulting in a decrease in surplus of $5,014. For the ten-month period the increase in operating profit was $3,652,575 and in surplus $3,014,750. In the same period the operating profit of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company fell off $5,427,123, and surplus $5,836,162—the decrease for the month of October being $868,144.

THE COTTON MARKET

Prices Again Marked Down, with Net Loss of from 57 to 68 Points.

Having once turned the corner of rising prices and made up its mind to a good, healthy reaction, the cotton market took up the new idea with enthusiasm, and prices were marked down in yesterday's session even further than on Monday, the closing, although firm on late short covering, being from 57 to 68 points below Monday's close. December dropped below the 29-cent level, and the average loss in most of the active months in the two days reached more than a cent a pound. January sold down to 28.10, and closed at 28.35.

A variety of causes helped to start the market downward, although the rapidity and amount of its descent were apparently chiefly due to its heavily oversold condition. There was practically no short interest left to sustain prices, once they had started down, and the long side commenced to "get from under." There has evidently been a feeling of late that the Government crop report, the last of the year, soon due, will be rather more favorable than unofficial estimates have been; more spot offerings are reported from the South, with a generally easier transportation situation, and finally, the President's allusion to the need of further price regulation was taken in some quarters as aimed at this hitherto unregulated staple.

The market was nervous and unsettled from the start. First prices were 12 to 31 points lower under overnight selling orders. Rallies of several points followed during the morning on covering and trade buying, but the bulges seemed to meet increased liquidation, particularly after reports were received that returns to a private authority indicated ginning of 9,663,000 bales to Dec. 1, and pointed to a Government crop estimate of 11,300,000 bales. This view of the crop was considered above figures discussed recently in local circles, and evidently emphasized uncertainty as to the showing of the approaching Government reports. Offerings were pretty well absorbed on a gradual decline until the text of the President's message to Congress was received. This was followed by more or less general discussion as to the possibility of price fixing in cotton, and it also seemed to be taken in some quarters as pointing to a long war. At any rate, selling became more urgent. Stop orders were uncovered and the market broke to a net loss of 62 to 83 points. The more active months showed rallies of 1 to 25 points at the close.

The day's spot news was extremely conflicting. Some of the reports received said that the South was more inclined to follow declines in futures than previously this season. Others asserted that offerings were being withdrawn at the decline. Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged to 60 points lower, with the markets reporting the greatest declines, showing the smallest volume of business. Exports for the day were 17,219 bales, making 1,756,124 so far this season. There was no mention of cotton in the President's message, and it was reported late in the afternoon that advices had been received from Washington that there is no intention of interfering or fixing prices on the staple.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The news on the new crop was somewhat conflicting from different parts of the belt. The official Kansas report showed a condition of only 70 per cent. compared with 76 per cent. last year, while the acreage sown was given as 9,482,000, or a decrease of 105,000 from last year. According to a statement by Food Administrator Hoover, exports of wheat from the United States so far this season have amounted to between 60,000,000 and 70,000,000 bushels.

CORN.

The corn market was again stimulated by the strength in oats and prices were firm, at one time showing gains of ⅝c to 1c a bushel. Toward the close there was a good reaction from the top under profit taking, however, and final prices were ⅛c lower to ¼c net higher. The local cash market was unsettled, with kiln-dried yellow corn quoted at $1.89, cost and freight New York, five days' shipment; Argentine corn at $2.05 to $2.10, free on board cars New York to arrive.

OATS.

The oats market again showed a very firm undertone and the December position in Chicago closed at 74c, a new high record, while May equaled the previous record of 71⅝c. Strength in Winnipeg and reports of small country offers proved the principal bullish factors. Exporters, however, were not in evidence, and it was intimated that the demand has been checked by the advance in prices. The local cash market was strong; standard quoted at 82½@83c; No. 2 white, 83@83½c; No. 3 white, 82@82½c; No. 4 white, 81½@82c; fancy clipped white, 83@85c; ordinary clipped white, 81@82c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was nervous and weak under liquidation due to new restrictive regulations regarding trading in futures in Chicago. It was announced by the President of the Chicago Board that trading in provisions, either for current month or for future delivery, for the purpose of unduly influencing values is forbidden. Moreover, no purchases or sales shall be made for future delivery beyond six months ahead of the month current, and no daily fluctuations of prices shall be permitted beyond 50 cents per hundredweight for lard and ribs and $1 per barrel for mess pork. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 32,000, estimated for Wednesday 46,000. Kansas City received 11,000 and Omaha 90,700 hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was quiet, total sales amounting to only 2,400 barrels. Prices were easy under scattered liquidation prompted by the weakness in lard and hog products generally. Final prices were 5 to 10 points net lower. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

A slight further advance at the opening of the coffee market this morning was followed by reactions. First prices were unchanged to 3 points higher, but the only demand in evidence seemed to be confined to a few lots of March, and after it had been supplied the tone turned easier under realizing. March sold off from 7.40 to 7.30c, and the market closed at a net decline of 2 to 9 points. The local spot market was reported fairly active and steady, with prices on the basis of 7⅝c for Rio 7s and 9⅝c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

No further purchases are expected to be made by the International Sugar Committee above 5.92c, duty paid, for new crop Cubas, basis 4.90c, cost and freight. The 4.60c, free on board Cuba, price was fixed subject to a 30c freight rate, and, as Cuban freight concerns have suggested a rate of 39c from the north side and 47c from the south side of the island, this will doubtless be one of the many important points which the committee will have to solve. No new business was reported done in raw sugar. A cable from Havana said the weather there was fine and that several new mills had started grinding. In refined sugar there is little to report. The situation is still acute and no immediate relief in sight. Spot raw prices are nominally quoted at 6.70c for centrifugal; molasses at 5.82c; cost and freight, 5.69c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER—Receipts yesterday, 8,647 packages. The market is still lightly supplied with the high grades of fresh creamery, and prices for these are firmly maintained, though the demand is not quite so snappy. The secondary grades are plentiful and slow, with a very wide range of values. More doing in storage creamery, and values are hardening a little. Renovated, quiet. Not much doing in ladles. Packing stock in light receipt and slightly firmer. Creamery, higher than extras, per lb., 49½@50c; extras, (92 score,) 49c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 43½@48c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 40½@43c; thirds, 39@40c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 50½@51c; extras, 49½@50c; firsts, 44½@49c; seconds, 41½@44c; creamery, held, higher scoring than extras, 44½@44¾c; extras, 43¾@44c; firsts, 42@43½c; seconds, 40@41½c; thirds, 38@39½c; State, dairy, tubs, finest, 47@47½c; good to prime, 43@46c; common to fair, 36@42c; renovated extras, 41½@42c; firsts, 39½@40½c; lower grades, 35@38c; ladles, current make, firsts, 33½@34c; seconds, 32½@33c; lower grades, 31@32c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 33c; No. 2, 32c; lower grades, 30@31½c.

EGGS—5,354 cases. The supply and demand in fresh gathered eggs are still fairly well balanced. The offerings are very moderate and the demand appears to be sufficient to use the quantity arriving at sustained prices. Receivers are generally free sellers and there is still a feeling that the market will be sensitive to any increase in supply. Storage eggs are meeting a fairly good demand, and the tone of the market is steady to firm, leaning slightly in sellers' favor on the very highest qualities, of which the proportion is small. Nearby white eggs are a little more plentiful, but most of the stock is of small size or of mixed and irregular quality, and for all such prices rule in buyers' favor. Very fancy large new-laid henneries are in small supply. The California stock recently received is not yet sold, buyers refusing to pay prices asked. Fresh gathered extras, per dozen, 59@60c; extra firsts, 57@58c; firsts, 54@56c; seconds, 47@53c; thirds and poorer, 40@45c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1, 36@37c; No. 2 and poorer, 32@35c; fresh gathered checks, good to choice, dry, 32@34c; undergrades, 20@31c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, stg. and ins. paid, 34¼@35c; firsts, stg. and ins. paid, 33@34c; seconds, stg. and ins. paid, 30½@32½c; lower grades, stg. and ins. paid, 20@30c; refrigerator, nearby whites, 38@42c; State Penn. and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 70@72c; ordinary to good, 60@68c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 60@68c; State Penn. and nearby whites, pullets, 55@58c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 55@63c; State Penn. and nearby, hennery browns, 60@63c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 50@60c.

CITIES SERVICE PLANS 10 MILLION NOTE ISSUE

Will Put Out Two-Year 7 Per Cents for Funds to Increase Output of Petroleum.

The Cities Service Company has authorized the issue of $10,000,000 two-year 7 per cent. notes through a subsidiary, the Cities Fuel and Power Company, to raise funds to increase the output of petroleum from fields controlled by the organization in the Southwest. The Stock Exchange firm of Montgomery & Co. is forming a syndicate to market in the near future between $2,500,000 and $7,500,000 of the notes.

The effort of the Cities Service management to put through new financing attracted considerable interest among investment bankers when news of it became public yesterday in view of the sluggish condition of the security markets. Except for the recent issue of $10,000,000 notes by the General Electric Company, it is the first sizeable corporate offering to be planned in many weeks. A letter sent out by the syndicate managers states that the development of oil lands is vital to the nation at this time, and because of this the firms to participate in the group are urged to bend all efforts to raise the funds in short order.

It is expected that the banking houses which participated early in the year in a syndicate to sell a block of $2,600,000 Cities Service preferred stock will handle the bulk of the new offering. These firms are situated chiefly in the West. Each subscriber who was in the stock syndicate will have opportunity of taking notes equal in par value to twice the value of the preferred stock. The offering price of the notes has not yet been decided upon.

The Cities Service Company, primarily a public utility organization with properties in numerous cities and towns, became a prominent factor in the petroleum business last year. In 1916 production was increased from about 4,000 barrels daily to 28,000 barrels, and this output was expanded greatly this year when several big wells were brought in on the leased lands in Kansas. Refineries and selling organizations have been acquired in the last eighteen months, with the result that facilities are now owned for refining more than 30,000 barrels of crude oil a day.

The leading oil properties are owned by a subsidiary called the Empire Gas and Fuel Company. The several constituent concerns which are producing oil have a total storage capacity of 3,200,000 barrels.

KENNECOTT DIVIDEND CUT.

Earnings Reported Satisfactory—Conservative Policy Urged.

Directors of the Kennecott Copper Corporation at their meeting yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share instead of $1.50, the rate that has been paid for some time past.

In commenting upon the reduction of the dividend Stephen Birch, the President, said:

"Notwithstanding the fact that the earnings of the corporation have been entirely satisfactory and its financial condition excellent, the Directors believe that, on account of the uncertainties of the future, they should pursue an especially conservative policy at this time, and to that end have declared a distribution of $1 per share for the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1917."

FINANCIAL NOTES.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Aetna Mills, it was voted to acquire the capital stock of the Sheriff's Worsted Company of Fitchburg. For that purpose an issue of $300,000 preferred stock was authorized, increasing preferred to $525,000.

The Metropolitan Trust Company of Boston has been admitted to membership in the Federal Reserve system.

Pittsfield, Mass., has sold a temporary loan of $200,000, dated Dec. 5 and payable $100,000 April 5, 1918, and $100,000 June 5, 1918, to R. L. Day & Co., at 4.58 per cent.

The Mahoning & Shenango Railway & Light Company has recorded two mortgages, first and second, in Lawrence and Mercer Counties, Pennsylvania, for $20,000,000 each, to the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. The company also executed a mortgage for $2,500,000 to the United States Mortgage and Trust Company.

The Indiana Harbor Belt Railroad Company has filed a certificate increasing its authorized capital stock from $2,450,000 to $5,000,000. Of $2,450,000 stock outstanding, New York Central and Michigan Central, which guarantee the company's bonds, own 60 per cent., and St. Paul & Northwestern 40 per cent. Total amount of increase was taken by these companies in the ratio of their previous ownings of stock. The new stock was issued in payment of moneys which had been advanced by stockholding companies for additions and betterments.

EXEMPT FROM WAR TAXES.

Governor Strong Explains Rules for Promissory Notes.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, has sent out a letter to banks advising them that the Federal Reserve Board in Washington had been informed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, that the following rules made by the Internal Revenue Bureau in December, 1914, were consistent with the proper enforcement of the new War Revenue act:

The rediscount of a note by a bank does not involve any tax liability.

A promissory note payable on demand is not held to be renewed and subject to tax under the provisions of the Internal Revenue act of Oct. 22, 1914, when accrued interest thereon is paid.

A promissory note may have interest payments indorsed thereon without becoming subject to tax, if the life of the note is not contingent upon payment of the interest and is not extended to a certain future date.

A promissory note given for a fixed period which when due, is allowed to run without suit, is not held to be renewed upon payment of interest. This is looked upon as a forbearance and not as a renewal; the holder not relinquishing his right for any stated period, and, therefore, no stamp is required in such cases.

Governor Strong calls attention to the fact that under the provisions of the War Revenue act, drafts or checks payable otherwise than at sight or on demand, promissory notes, (except bank notes issued for circulation,) and each renewal of the same, are subject to a stamp tax as follows: for a sum not exceeding $100, 2 cents, and for each additional $100 or fractional part thereof, 2 cents. In the case of commercial paper held by member banks and offered for rediscount at the Federal Reserve Bank, no stamps need be attached in addition to such as may have been already affixed at the time of original issue or discount in compliance with the provisions of the act.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

There was a general selling movement in the late trading on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Prices broke badly all through the list. United States Steel common, the most active stock in the dealings, fell to 88, which compared with an opening price of 91 and a high quotation for the day of 92. The latter figure had been attained following the delivery of President Wilson's historic address to Congress, when the market generally had developed for a time a decidedly firmer tone.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Unusual quietude prevailed in the realty market yesterday, in direct contrast to the generally improved conditions revealed by the business of Monday and last week.

Negotiations were reported pending for the sale of the three-story dwelling at 762 West End Avenue, on a lot 18 by 89, adjoining the northeast corner of Ninety-seventh Street. Martin H. Goodkind, owner of the property, could not be reached for confirmation of the report.

$500,000 in Office Leases.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased at 42 Broadway about 15,000 square feet of space to the Federal Export Corporation, about 9,000 square feet to the Cosmopolitan Shipping Company, and a portion of a floor to the Anglo-Oriental Shipping Company. The leases are for ten years, at an aggregate rental of approximately $500,000. The building extends from Broadway through to New Street.

New Garage for Harlem Baker.

The B'nai B'rith Independent Order has leased for five years, with renewal privileges, to the Straight Edge Distributing Corporation the two-story frame and four-story brick buildings at 106 Lawrence Street, extending through to 101 Manhattan Avenue, 25 by 202 feet, which it will remodel into a garage.

The leasing corporation holds 100, 102, and 104 under lease, and recently added 98 to this site, which it plans ultimately to reimprove with a modern four-story baking plant.

Buys Manhattan Avenue Dwelling.

Kate M. Carroll purchased from the Sparta Realty Company 115 Manhattan Avenue, a three-story Queen Anne private dwelling, on a lot 18 by 50, located near 104th Street.

Tenement Sales.

James H. Cruikshank sold to Elizabeth Pickerman the four-story flat, on a lot 18.9 by 100, at 133 East 119th Street, between Park and Lexington Avenues. The Cruikshank Company and Matthew F. Mulvihill were the brokers.

Therese Schmeidler sold to Zackary Heller the five-story apartment house at 457 West 166th Street, on a plot 50 by 76.6, between Edgecombe and Amsterdam Avenues.

Bronx Sales.

The S. O. Construction Company sold to the Hunts Point Realty Company the five-story apartment house at the southeast corner of Barretto and Fox Streets, on a plot 52 by 105.

Kurz & Uren, Inc. sold for Aaron Schector the five-story new law apartment 505 East 184th Street, occupying a plot 55 by 100, on the northeast corner of Bassford Avenue.

J. Clarence Davies sold for the Mott Haven Company a lot, 25 by 100, on the north side of 144th Street, 345 feet west of Morris Avenue.

Brooklyn.

I. Salzberg sold for M. Umans to M. Gerber the one-family frame cottage, occupying a plot 40 by 100 feet, on the north side of Forty-eighth Street, 180 feet east of Fifteenth Avenue.

Rockaway Parcels in Trade.

The Lewis H. May Company sold for Belle Lichterman the property on the east side of West End Avenue, Rockaway Park, L. I., improved with a two and a half story building, to Bridget McNamee, who gave in part payment a plot of lots on the east side of Oxford Avenue, Belle Harbor. The lots will be improved for investment.

Queens Borough Sales.

Samuel Gallucci sold to the Sheers Amusement Enterprises, Inc., a plot 60 by 119 feet, on the north side of Corona Avenue, 95 feet east of Hampton Street, Elmhurst. The plot will be used for an airdrome.

E. A. Heaney sold to the P. J. Building Company of the Bronx a plot 107 by 251 feet, on the east side of Beach 128th Street, 440 feet north of Conston Avenue, Belle Harbor.

Staten Island.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Shallow depressions are central, one over North Carolina, the other over Ontario, and have caused a continuation of cloudy weather in Eastern districts with scattered rains in the South Atlantic States and snows in the upper lake region. A depression of considerable extent is advancing southeastward over the North Rocky Mountain region, and pressure is still high over the Canadian Northwest.

It is unusually cold for the season in the upper Mississippi Valley and in the Dakotas. Generally fair weather is indicated for the Washington forecast district during the next forty-eight hours with small and unimportant chances in temperature, except along the immediate Gulf Coast and in Northern Florida, where it will be somewhat colder Wednesday.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate and variable, fair; Middle Atlantic Coast, light northwest, fair; South Atlantic Coast, fresh west to southwest, fair.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Southern New England—Cloudy Wednesday, Thursday, fair.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Wednesday and Thursday.

Western New York—Partly cloudy Wednesday and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Northern New England—Cloudy Wednesday; probably snow, with rising temperature, Thursday, fair.

3 A. M.	45	34	4 P. M.	55	35
6 A. M.	47	29	6 P. M.	55	36
9 A. M.	50	33	9 P. M.	52	33
12 M.	54	33	11 P. M.	51	34

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 23; for the corresponding date last year it was 48; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 37. The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 31, at 8 P. M. it was 36. Maximum temperature, 37 degrees at 7:20 P. M.; minimum, 29 degrees at 6 A. M. Humidity, 63 per cent. at 8 A. M., 52 per cent. at 8 P. M. The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.92 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.87 inches.

NATHAN STRAUS ASKS ZIONISTS TO GO SLOW

HE CONDEMNS RESOLUTION

Sees Danger to Jews in Enemy Countries if Movement Is Pressed Now.

Nathan Straus, addressing an assembly of Orthodox rabbis at the convention of the Jewish Ministers' Association of America at the Young Men's Hebrew Association Building, Lexington Avenue and Ninety-second Street, yesterday condemned a resolution adopted by the rabbis in which they had expressed their gratitude to the British Government for "publicly declaring its sympathy with the Zionist movement and pledging itself to use its best endeavors to facilitate the establishment of a Jewish homeland in Palestine." Although himself a Zionist, Mr. Straus strongly disapproved of any Zionistic agitation at the present time that would tend to stimulate antagonism against the Jews in any of the enemy countries.

The resolution had been passed by the Rabbis before Mr. Straus arrived. When informed at the meeting of the action that had been taken he said to the convention:

"I regret that I was not present here today before the conference committed itself to the resolution which advocated the immediate possession of Palestine or to the turning over of that historic land to the Jews in accordance with the sentiments expressed by our ally, Great Britain.

"I would like to have preached the wisdom of waiting until the present crisis has been decided. The Jews of the world have suffered greatly and still are suffering. But in view of the fact that Turkey has expressed an inclination to act fairly so far as the Jews and Palestine are concerned, I was of a mind to suggest that we refrain from becoming too militant until such a time as there was a prospect of our deliverance.

"It is possible that the Turkish Government might take offense at the sentiments expressed in the resolutions adopted by the Jewish ministers of the United States. Nothing can be lost by patience, and I suggest this course."

Mr. Straus reminded the rabbis that the British had not as yet taken Jerusalem from the Turks, so that any tendency to credit them with such an achievement was premature and merely tended to arouse resentment against the Jews in Turkey. His disapproval of the resolution evoked a heated discussion, and it was apparent that many who had previously favored the resolution had already become converted by Mr. Straus to a different point of view.

At the hour of adjournment the conference had not decided what course of action to take with reference to a reconsideration of the resolution. The matter, however, will come up for discussion again at today's session.

PROPOSES FUSION FOR DEMOCRATS IN STATE

B. F. Wollman Says a Governor Can Be Elected Just as Judge Hylan Was.

Fusion in the next Democratic campaign was proposed by Benjamin F. Wollman, Secretary of the Democratic Fusion Committee, which was instrumental in the election of Mayor-elect John F. Hylan, in a speech which he made last night at a dinner in the Café Boulevard to the Committee of Thirty-nine, which formed the nucleus of the Democratic Fusion Committee of One Hundred and Seventy. Mr. Wollman said, in part:

"We have seen what real Democratic fusion can do in the great vote given to Judge John F. Hylan and all our other candidates. Now we must turn our attention to the State campaign of next Fall. I have a plan for the State campaign for the fusion of all the Democratic interests in the State of New York, just as was done in the municipal campaign.

"All Democratic organizations and independent Democrats of the State of New York should be brought together and co-operate in the election of a Democratic Governor and a full State ticket."

UTICA, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Declaring the agricultural interests have been shamefully neglected and with a view of rebuking the New York State Legislature and the Governor, the 1,000 delegates in attendance at today's convention of the Dairymen's League adopted a resolution favoring a nonpartisan party. That the league is a force in State politics was the declaration of the President, R. D. Cooper of Little Falls, who took credit to the league for the defeat of G. W. Perkins as State Food Supply Commissioner. New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Vermont were all represented at the meeting.

A minority report of the Resolutions Committee condemning the Hoover Food Commission because no practical farmer was a member, was unanimously passed amid cheers.

John Dillon, State Commissioner of Foods and Markets, criticised the New York City Milk Commission and declared that the milk producers had not had a square deal in Washington.

The league authorized an appropriation of $5,000 for a representative in Washington to assist in food regulation. It was voted to increase the capital stock from $100,000 to $500,000 to care for future growth. The league numbers about 4,800 members.

Many of the delegates will remain here tomorrow to attend the hearing on milk prices to be given here by the Hoover Commission.

Court Rules Judgment Mrs. Meyer Won Is Not Excessive.

Supreme Court Justice Goff, who heard the suit of Mrs. Wilhelmina Meyer against Virginius St. Julian Mayo, wealthy radiator manufacturer, for damages because he induced her to enter into a marriage ceremony with him and live with him as his wife when he was already married, denied yesterday a motion to set aside the jury's verdict of $100,000 for the plaintiff.

Justice Goff pointed out that when Mayo induced Mrs. Meyer to enter into the ceremonial marriage he was 43 and she was 22, and he was earning $50 a week. Through the application of his radiator invention to the construction of automobiles his income increased to $100,000 a year, and he and the plaintiff lived according to his wealth.

ARRESTED AT HOTEL AS LUXBURG'S SPY

GERMAN CAUGHT AT PIER

A man supposed to be a German spy sent to this country by the Kaiser's agents in South America was arrested at the Hotel Majestic yesterday morning by agents of the Department of Justice and interned on Ellis Island as an alien enemy. Five days ago this man appeared at the hotel and registered as "Dr. Bart Henderson of Managua, Nicaragua." He spent money freely and had a German accent. These attributes did not attract special attention until it was noticed that he spent most of his time entertaining women, especially young women.

It is reported that upon a tip from one of his guests detectives of the Department of Justice were set to watch him. They found that he made a specialty of making the acquaintance of young girls with soldier friends. Several of these girls said "Dr. Henderson" had repeatedly asked them what their soldier acquaintances had told them about when they were going to France, and any other information about military affairs. He gave a number of elaborate parties at Broadway restaurants and was at the hotel only for sleeping.

A Federal official was quoted last night as saying that "Dr. Henderson" was sent here by Count Luxburg, the German Minister dismissed by Argentina, after Secretary Lansing's disclosure of the "sink without trace" notes sent to Berlin through Swedish diplomatic channels. The Federal officials refused to divulge what replies the supposed spy made in response to their questioning

United States soldiers on guard at Pier 48, North River, seized a German yesterday who was trying to pass the cordon about the zone forbidden to enemy aliens. On him were found a picture of himself wearing a uniform of the German Army, maps of the waterfront, and sketches and plans of several American transports. He is now on Ellis Island, interned for the war. Early yesterday afternoon the soldiers noticed the man trying to get through their line surreptitiously, and after a chase they caught him. He was recognized by one infantryman as a man who had tried to pass him the day before at a pier a few blocks up the river. In response to questions in English, the man professed he couldn't understand, so a soldier who could speak German questioned him. When asked his business on the pier he would not tell. He was asked if he was a German, but had nothing to say.

A soldier took him to the office of the United States District Attorney in the Federal Building. There a search revealed the maps, plans, and the picture of himself. According to the Assistant District Attorney who examined him, when the man was asked to tell what he wanted on the dock he replied that to tell that would be to get himself as well as others in trouble.

CITIZENS DENOUNCE NEW ROCHELLE VICE

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Six hundred citizens of New Rochelle who attended a mass meeting held by the Citizens' Protective Committee at the Trinity School tonight passed a resolution calling on Mayor Edward Stetson Griffing to dismiss from office all officials of the city who were responsible for the sale of liquor to soldiers and for the existence of vice in the community, as exposed by United States Marshal McCarthy. Another resolution was passed calling upon the United States District Attorney to lay before a New Rochelle Grand Jury evidence of the conditions alleged to have been found in the city, and to make a public statement of the fact if the evidence were found insufficient for indictments.

The conflicting purport of the resolutions was due to a division of sentiment among those who attended the heated meeteing, the majority insisting that the evidence of dereliction by New Rochelle officials was apparent to all, while others argued that an investigation should set up definite conclusions before anyone should be condemned or an admission made that the charges reflecting on the town were within the facts. In opening the meeting William B. Greeley, the Chairman, said:

"You were all shocked to have your town blazoned from the Atlantic to the Pacific as a hell-hole of vice. You hung your heads in shame. You felt as if a blow had been struck at each one of you. Now let me tell you that three weeks ago one of your number laid before our local authorities a statement of conditions which were known to exist with respect to the sale of liquor to the soldiers. Time was asked, as though it took more than the turn of a hand to stop what was going on. But the time was given, with the understanding that, if nothing were done, publicity would be given and the Federal authorities would be invited in. Nothing was done. The Federal authorities were communicated with, and you know the result."

John J. Carroll, a member of the Board of Police Commissioners, who had said that no complaint regarding the sale of liquor had been made to the board in six months, demanded to know who had informed the Federal authorities. A tall, white-haired man rose and said: "I am the man." He was the Rev. George Reynolds of the First Presbyterian Church. He said that he had first made his complaint to E. M. Best, Chairman of the Board of Police Commissioners.

Mayor Griffing after a conference with other city officials announced last night that no facts had been found to warrant the statements of Marshal McCarthy and he called on the Marshal to retract. Marshal McCarthy will be asked to attend the Mayor's investigation and give testimony.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Governor Whitman will take no steps regarding vice conditions which were unearthed at New Rochelle by Federal officers until he receives a report which, he said tonight, is to be forwarded to him.

"Until I receive it," he said, "it would be unwise for me to say anything about the matter. When I get the report and go over it I may discuss it."

Grolier Club to Show Miniatures.

The Grolier Club, which has just moved from 29 West Thirty-second Street, where it had been for thirty-four years, into its new building at 47 East Sixtieth Street, between Madison and Park Avenues, will formally open the enlarged clubhouse tomorrow with an exhibition of books and miniatures from Persia and the Levant. The exhibition tomorrow will be open only to members, but thereafter it will be on general view for the public for several weeks.
